Hog Verdict

They lately tried a man, in Alabama, for stealing hogs. The Jury, retiring to the woods to deliberate, came in with the verdict, "Guilty of hog stealin' in the fust degree.

The Judge informed them they should have assessed the value of the hogs, there were no degrees in hog stealing, and they must bring a verdict in "proper form."

Again the Jury took to the woods, and after mature deliberation old Sim Turner made out the following "form," which on their return he handed with much pomposity to the Clerk, who read it aloud-

"We, the Jury, posillancermusly doth find the defendant guilty in the sum of 1 dollar and a in favor of the hogs."
