From the Evangelical Messenger. A Minister to his Mother. Respectfully Dedicated to Mrs. E. R. King.

I have often watched thee, mother! When at thy work alone, And smiled to see thes cheerful, Within our happy home. Then we were all home, mother, Our circle was entire; These long, dark, winter evenings, When we drew 'round the fire.

But these days are o'er, mother ! For I have gone to tell Of fernel's great Redeemer, Who "doeth all things well;" But what is more, dear mother, And that which makes me weep, Is that thy daughter's elseping

That long and dreamless sleep. Ald she's gone from us, mother! But do not, do not weep, For Christ says to us kindly, Her body doth but sleep. Her soul is with Him, mother, Who giveth life to all, to let us praise that Savior, Who will not let us fall! His dealings sometimes, mother! But then we cling the close To him who strikes the blow; That is the reason, mother, That all He takes away

These that we loved most dearly,

Or were our earthly stay.

Oh! I did love thee, mother! And I was leath to go, But Jesus called so sweetly, I could not answer to; And yet I love thee, mother! Though I sm far away. And oft I think thy kindness

I mover can repay. Perhaps I'll fall, dear mother! When I am far from thee, Surrounded, too, by stranger Who will not care for me;

But, oh! I'm willing, mother, In any land to die, And reign with Him on high.

But if ! live dear methor! To see my home again, Perhaps 'twill be with anguish. Perhaps with grief and pain; For I may miss thee, mother! When we kneel down to pray,

For you may then be sleeping Wittiin your house of clay. So I will say good bye, mother, For we must poige the future
Its time already post;
Our tools will seen end, mether!

All, all will som be o'et.--we'll meet in Heaven,
