How Sal "disgraced the Family."

A traveler in the State of Illinois, some years ago, came to a lone, log hut, on the prairies, near Cairo, and there halted. He went into the house. It was a wretched affair, with an empty packing box for a table, while two or three old chairs and disabled stools graced the reception room, the dark walls of which were further ornamented by a display of dirty tinware and a broken shelf article or two. The woman was crying in one corner, and the man, with tears in his eyes and a pipe in his mouth, sat on a stool, with his dirty arms resting on his knees, and his sorrowful-looking head supported by the palm of his hands. Not a word greeted the interloper.

"Well," he said, "you seem to be in an awful trouble here; what's up?"

"Oh, we are almost crazed, neighbor," said the woman; "and we ain't got no patience to see folks, now."

"That's all right," said the visitor, not much taken aback by his polite rebuff; "but can I be of any service to you in all this trouble?"

"Well, we've lost our gal; our Sal's gone off and left us," said the man, in tones of despair.

"Ah, do you know what induced her to leave you?" remarked the new arrival.

"Well, we can't say, stranger, as how she's so far lost as to be induced, but then she's gone and disgraced us," remarked the afflicted father.

"Yes, neighbor and—not as I should say it, as is her mother—but there warn't a pootier gal in the West than our Sal. She's gone and brought ruin on us and on her own head, now," followed the stricken mother.

"Who has she gone with?" asked the visitor.

"Well, there's the trouble. The gal could have done well, and might have married Martin Kehoe, a capital shoemaker, who, although he has got but one eye, plays the flute in a lively manner, and earns a good living. Then, look! what a home and what a life she has deserted: she was here surrounded by all the luxury in the country," said the father.

"Yes, who knows what poor Sal will have to eat, drink or wear, now?" groaned the old woman.

"And who is the feller that has taken her into such misery?"

"Why, she's gone off and got married to a critter called an editor, as lives in the village, and the devil only knows how they are to airn a living!"

AN AWFUL MURDER.—A correspondent of the Columbus (S.C.) Times gives the following melancholy illustration of the uncertainty of the types. A young gentleman by the name of Conkey having been united by the holy bonds of wedlock, sent the marriage notice, with a verse of his own composition, to the printer for publication, as follows:

"MARRIED—At Gotham, July 28, A. Conkey, Esq., Attorney at Law, to Miss Euphemia Wiggins, both of Gotham.

"Love is the union of two hearts
That beat in perfect melody;
Time, with its ravages imparts
No bitter fusion to its ecstacy."

Mr. Conkey looked with much anxiety for the issue of the Gotham Sentinel, in order to see his name in print. The compositor into whose charge the notice was placed happened to be on a spree at the time, and made some wonderful blunders in setting it up—thus:

"MARRED—At Gotham, July 38, A Donkey, Esqt. Eternally at Law, to Mr. Eupheunia Piggins, both of Goosdam.

"Love is an onion of two heads
That tells in softest melony;
Rime, with its savages, imparts
No better food to an extra dray."

Phancey Mr. Alexander Conkey's phelinx!

DAMPER TO PATRIOTISM.—About twenty young gentlemen of New Orleans, La., wishing to display their spirit, determined to wear no cloth except what was manufactured in a Southern State. So they bought some pieces of Kentucky jean, and had it made up into suits, but discovered, when too late, that the Kentucky jean had been made in Massachusetts!

Where are Bell and Everett, the "Union" candidates? Are they mum? or are they fighting for the Union?

VITRIFIED Water and Heat Pipe, for the CONVEYANCE OF COLD AND WARM WATER, for WARMING HEATED AIR and STEAM PIPES—as substitutes for their respective purposes, for the conveyance of Gas, Coal, Iron Pipes, Culverts, Drains, &c. Also, for the purpose of Lining Wells, Ice Houses, &c.

They have been tested in Europe for centuries, and are now used in numerous quantities there.

The leakage of the water, through the pipe, is less than in the case of those of Iron, because the vitrified body of the pipe, with all the Joints, Elbows, Bends and other branches, (both right and oblique angles), and other connections, is so perfectly glazed, that no water can escape, except by the ends of the pipes, which are connected by the Patent Socket Joint, which is perfectly water tight, and allows for the unequal expansion and contraction of the pipes, which is especially desirable in Steam Pipes. The Joints are made with Rubber Rings, which are perfectly impervious to water, and will not decay. They are now in use in many of the most extensive Water Works in the United States, and are now shipping them to all parts of the Union. See Circulars, Pamphlets, &c. Orders may be addressed to the Manufacturers, LUNK & BLACK, Office, S. A. HARRISON, No. 9 Chestnut St., Philad.

VITRIFIED CHIMNEY TOPS.

This is an article to which every Builder's attention should be directed. At the present time, from any one of our large works, you can get a Chimney Top, which will not crack by the heat of the fire, or by the weather, and which will not smoke, no matter what the direction of the wind may be. Those who have used them, pronounce them the most ornamental and Pleasing Chimney Tops. They are better than stone, in fact, perfect in every respect, and are sold at less than the cost of a Brick Chimney Top. Any one can have a Chimney Top of any desired pattern, by sending a drawing, or a description of the same, to the Manufacturers, and they will be made to order
