ited States, so called, and to which Texas had been joined about the time of the inauguration, gave no troops to the cause of the Union.

The Border States, so called, were not uniform in their action—some of them being almost for the Union, while in others, as Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas, the Union sentiment was very nearly repressed and silenced.

The course taken in Virginia, was the most remarkable, perhaps the most important. A convention, elected by the people of that State to consider their relative position toward the Federal Union, was in session at the capital of Virginia when Fort Sumter fell. To this body, the people had chosen a large majority of professed Union men, and almost immediately after the fall of Fort Sumter, many members of that majority went over to the original minority, and with them adopted an ordinance for withdrawing the State from the Union. Whether this change was wrought by their great approval of the assault on Fort Sumter, or their great resentment at the Government's resistance to that assault, is not definitely known.

Although they submitted the ordinance for ratification to a vote of the people, to be taken on a day then somewhat more than a month distant, the Convention, and the Legislature which was also in session at the same time and place, with leading men of the State not members of either, commenced acting as if the State were already out of the Union! They pushed military preparations vigorously forward, all over the State; they seized the United States armory at Harper's Ferry, and the navy yard at Gosport, near Norfolk; they received, perhaps invited into their State, large bodies of troops, with their warlike appointments, from the so-called seceded States. They formally entered into a treaty of temporary alliance and co-operation with the so called Confederate States, and members to their Congress at Montgomery; and finally, they permitted the insurrectionary government to be transferred to their capital at Richmond.

The people of Virginia have thus allowed this great insurrection to make its nest within her borders, and the Government has no choice but to deal with it where it finds it. And it has the less regret, as the loyal citizens have, in due form, claimed its protection. Those loyal citizens, this Government is bound to recognize and protect as being Virginia.

In the Border States, so called—in fact, the Middle States—there are those who favor a policy which they call armed neutrality, that is, the arming of those States to prevent the Union forces passing one way, or the Disunion the other, over their soil. This would be disunion completed. Figuratively speaking, it would be the building of an impassable wall along the line of separation; and yet not quite an impassable one, for, under the guise of neutrality, it would tie the hands of the Union men, and freely pass supplies from among them to the Insurrectionists which it could not do as an open enemy. At a stroke, it would take all the trouble off the hands of secession except only what proceeds from the external blockade. It would do, for the Disunionists, that which of all things they most desire—feed them well, and give them Disunion without a struggle of their own. It recognizes no fidelity to the Constitution—no obligation to maintain the Union; and, while very many who have favored it are doubtless loyal citizens, it is nevertheless very injurious in effect.

Recurring to the action of the Government, it may be stated that at first a call was made for Seventy Five Thousand militia, and rapidly following this a proclamation was issued for closing the ports of the insurrectionary districts by proceedings in the nature of a blockade. So far, all was believed to be strictly legal.

At this point the insurrectionists announced their purpose to enter upon the practice of privateering.

Other calls were made by this Government for volunteers to serve three years, unless sooner discharged, and also for a large addition to the regular army and navy.

These measures, whether strictly legal or not, were ventured upon under what appeared to be a popular demand and a public necessity, trusting, as now, that Congress would readily ratify them. It is believed that nothing has been done beyond the constitutional competency of Congress.

Soon after the first call for militia, it was considered a duty to authorize the commanding general, in proper cases, according to his discretion, to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus; or, in other words, to arrest and detain, without resort to the ordinary process and forms of law, such individuals as he might deem dangerous to the public safety. This authority has purposely been exercised but very sparingly.

Nevertheless, the legality and propriety of what has been done under it are questioned, and the attention of the country has been called to the proposition that one who is sworn to take care that the laws be faithfully executed, should not himself violate them.

Of course, some consideration was given to the question of power and propriety before this matter was acted upon. The whole of the laws which were required to be faithfully executed, were being resisted; and, failing of execution in nearly one third of the States, must they be allowed to finally fail of execution, even had it been perfectly clear that by the use of the means necessary to their execution some single law, made in such extreme tenderness of the citizen's liberty that practically it relieves more of the guilty than of the innocent, should to a very limited extent be violated? To state the question more directly, are all the laws but one to go unexecuted, and the Government itself go to pieces lest that one be violated? Even in such a case, would not the official oath be broken if the Government should be overthrown, when it was believed that disregarding the single law would tend to preserve it?

But it was not believed that this question was presented. It was not believed that any law was violated. The provisions of the Constitution that the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require, is equivalent to a provision that such privilege may be suspended when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety does require it. It was decided, that we have a case of rebellion, and that the public safety does require the qualified suspension of the writ which was authorized to be made.

Now it is insisted that Congress and not the Executive is vested with the power. But the Constitution itself is silent as to which, or who, is to exercise the power; and, as the provision was plainly made for a dangerous emergency, it can not be believed the framers of the instrument intended that, in every case, the danger should run its course until Congress should be called together—the very assembling of which might be prevented, as was intended in this case, by the rebellion. No more extended argument is now offered, as an opinion of some length will probably be presented by the Attorney General. Whether there shall be any legislation upon the subject, and if any, what, is submitted entirely to the better judgment of Congress.

The forbearance of the Government had been so extraordinary, and so long continued, as to lead some foreign nations to shape their action as if they supposed the early destruction of our National Union was probable. While this one discovery gave the Executive some concern, he is now happy to say that the sovreignty and rights of the United States are now everywhere practically respected by foreign powers, and a general sympathy with the country is manifested throughout the world.

The reports of the Secretaries of the Treasury, War, and Navy, will give the information in detail deemed necessary and convenient for your deliberation and action, while the Executive and all the Departments will stand ready to supply omissions, or to communicate new facts, considered important for you to know.

It is now recommended that you give the legal means for making this contest a short and decisive one; that you place at the control of Government, for the work, at least four hundred thousand men and four hundred million dollars. That number of men is about one-tenth of those, of proper ages, within the regions where apparently all are willing to engage; and the sum is less than the twenty-third part of the money value owned by the men who seem ready to devote the whole. A debt of six hundred millions of dollars, now, is a less sum, per head, than was the debt of our Revolution, when we came out of that struggle; and the money value in the country now bears even a greater proportion to what it was then, than does the population. Surely, each man has as strong a motive, now, to preserve our liberties, as each had then to establish them.

A right result at this time will be worth more to the world than ten times the men and ten times the money. The evidence reaching us from the country leaves no doubt that the material for the work is abundant, and that it needs only the hand of Legislation to give it legal sanction, and the hand of the Executive to give it practical shape and efficiency. One of the greatest perplexities of the Government is to avoid receiving troops faster than it can provide for them. In a word, the people will serve their government, if the government itself will do its part only indifferently well.

The above is a portrait of David M'Creary, of Naples Tioga Co., on the east line of Angelica [illegible] as follows: In October last he was treated for the consumption by three physicians of Bedford county, and by Dr. Newton of the Lafayette College, Philadelphia, for a period of nearly eight months, notwithstanding which he rapidly sunk, and at length was confined to his bed, and was entirely out of his mind. He had given up all hope when he heard of the "Blood Searcher," and was induced to try it. Four bottles restored him, and he is now well and able to attend to his occupation; but the most valuable testimony is found in the full particulars of this remarkable case may be seen in a Circular to be had of any of the Agents.

We also refer to a case of Nancy Blackney, of Elderton, Armstrong Co., Pa., cured of Scrofula after being unable to get out of bed for three years.

ALL IN BOTTLES.—I beg leave to call the attention of the citizens of the U. S. to the above WINES and LIQUORS, imported by UDOLPHO WOLFE of New York, whose name is familiar in every part of this country for the purity of his celebrated SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS. Mr. Wolfe, in his letter to me, speaking of the purity of his Wines and Liquors, says:

"I will stake my reputation as a man, my standing as a merchant of over thirty years' residence in the City of New York, that all the Brandy and Wines sold by me are pure as imported, and of the best quality, and can be relied upon by every purchaser."

Every bottle has the Proprietor's name on the wax and a facsimile of his signature on the certificate. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves. For sale at RETAIL by all Apothecaries and Grocers in Philadelphia.

EXCISE BUSINESS IN NEW YORK.—We are happy to inform our fellow-citizens that there is one place in our city where the ghost of Hennessy, and country merchants can purchase pure Wines and Liquors, as pure as imported, and of the best quality. We do not intend to give an elaborate description of this merchant's extensive business, although it well repays any stranger or citizen to visit Udolpho Wolfe's extensive warehouses, Nos. 18, 20 and 22 Beaver st., and 17, 19 and 21, Marketfield st. His stock of nothing less than 1,000 pipes, some 3,000 cases of Madeira, Sherry and Port Wine, Scotch and Irish Whiskey, Jamaica and St. Croix Rum, some very old and equal to any in the country. He has also three large cellars filled with Brandy, Wine, &c., in casks, under Custom-House Key, ready for bottling. Mr. Wolfe's sales of Schnapps last year amounted to 180,000 dozen, and we hope in less than two years he may be equally successful with his Brandies and Wines.

His business merits the patronage of every lover of his species. Private families who wish pure Wines and Liquors for medical use, should send their orders direct to Mr. Wolfe, until every Apothecary in the land make up their minds to discard the poisonous stuff from their shelves, and replace it with Wolfe's pure Wines and Liquors.

We understand Mr. Wolfe, for the accommodation of small dealers in the country, puts up assorted cases of Wines and Liquors. Such a man, and such a merchant, should be sustained against his tens of thousands of opponents in the United States, who are nothing but miscreations, ruinous alike to human health and happiness.

DR. O. PHELPS BROWN'S

ACADIAN BALSAM

FOR THE PERMANENT

CURE OF CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, COLDS, & GENERAL DEBILITY, &C.

THIS remedy is offered to the afflicted as a means of speedy relief for the higher complaints of the organs of vital fell scourge, Consumption, to which, unfortunately, so many promising natures yield. Youth and age are alike subject to its ravages.

EVERY PERSON

can sense one or more of the symptoms above who is troubled in some form or degree of these complaints, which, if not arrested in its early stages, will surely fasten the fatal fangs of consumption upon the victim. To such we say, they will not avail themselves of it, and they will be disappointed in finding a remedy so safe and reliable, and at the same time so powerful in its effects. Many have neglected to use it, from the fact that they have been induced to try some of the many worthless nostrums which are palmed upon the credulous by the press of this country, and thus have lost confidence in all. This is a fatal error, as the Acadian Balsam is not what is claimed for it, nor can it be relied upon in the last stages of consumption, when all remedies fail in curing long and fixed diseases, as any remedy known at the present day. The Acadian Balsam is not a cure-all, but is a remedy for the above diseases, and for them it is unequaled. Let the afflicted remember that what is claimed for it are facts, and that it is not a remedy that will only relieve, but will cure. Every bottle will be warranted to give satisfaction, or the money will be refunded.

While the discovery of this remedy does not believe that people should be constantly using themselves with medicines.

TO PREVENT SICKNESS,

there are many cases where a remedy is needed to "save all and expedient at first as simply an assistance, as is done with the food of the patient. An impure state of the blood, through debilitation of the body, like the system with morbid humors, and predisposition becomes liable at any time, aided to a feverish inflammatory state, pain, and all sorts, separately performing functions of the system, to our well being. In such cases the Acadian Balsam is the positive organic tonic in their aid, and refuses to perform the process of separating the morbid elements from food, and the whole mental being is with much reason to sink under the burden of life. The patient is afflicted, accounts his case a complication of disorders, and often refuses to resort to medication from his thorough distrust of any prospect of cure. To such of the ACADIAN BALSAM, as thoroughly worthy the confidence of all. Every symptom of consumption is surely and permanently eradicated by its use. Its effects are more effective than strengthening and renovating to the entire system. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Colds, General Debility, are also speedily cured by its use. Night-sweats, Loss of Flesh, and Wasting away of the Muscles, Loss of Appetite, Soreness of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs, Liver Complaint, Palpitation of the Heart, Difficulty of Breathing—all these affections disappear in an incredibly short time after using Dr. O. Phelps Brown's Acadian Balsam.

It nourishes and strengthens the patient who is too much reduced to partake of ordinary food. It heals all internal sores, tubercles, and inflammation.
