A Short History of the Dreisbach Church, in Buffalo Valley.

No regular record has ever been kept by the German Reformed and Lutheran congregations worshipping in what is known as the Dreisbach Church, in Buffalo Tp., Union Co., Pa. Its origin, with its first names and members, is in a great degree involved in obscurity. However, we will endeavor, from fragments in our possession, with our personal knowledge for several of fifty years, to give a partial if not a complete history of this church for a period of ninety years.

It appears, by a partial record of births and baptisms of infants, commencing in 1771, being regular dates up to 1773, that there was a German Reformed and Lutheran church in existence in Buffalo Valley, at or near the place where the Dreisbach Church now is. Whether the congregations then existing had a regular church office to worship in, or whether they worshipped in a private building, we are not informed, but consider the latter the most probable. As to the pastor who labored among this people in those early days, our records are entirely blank. But we find the following names mentioned as parents who had their infants baptized church members: (First) Henry Kessler, Henry Pankratz, John Sauer, John Binnick, John Kessler, Leonard Weller, Philip Sieder, John R. Klein, Christian Bickel, Henry Bickel, Von Test, Christian Ewig, Stephen Paulman, John Sieder, George Frederick, and others, who were (as tradition says) of the first settlers of Buffalo Valley, at a time when it was yet a vast wilderness, and its soil marked by the footsteps of the Indians, who, by their barbarous deeds, frequently perpetrated on the then thinly settled whites, often caused them to forsake their homes and their all, and flee to the East (their former homes) for the preservation of their lives.

As our record afterward ends in 1775, the writer is under the painful necessity of passing over a period of thirteen years unnoted. We come down to 1788, at which time records show that both congregations had unite and erect themselves a building as a church, to be used by both parties, as a Union Church. At the same time, Martin Dreisbach (the then settled) did donate unto said congregations a tract of a half-acre of land, for the purpose of erecting thereon a graveyard and the church building afterward the said Martin Dreisbach being, at the time, an Elder in the Reformed congregation, and not only gave his land gratuitously for the purpose, but also assisted liberally in erecting the building. The congregations, in respect to the donor, called their new church the Dreisbach Church, which name it has retained to the present time.

Here again we will give some of the names who were church members and assisted in building the church in 1788, to wit: John Ayrand, Elias Vonnemann, Trustees; Martin Dreisbach, Joseph Green, as Elders; Peter Frieserick, Henry Dreisbach, as Deacons, in the Reformed congregation—and Herman Jacob Shell, as Pastor; Christian Sturm, Adam Christ, as Trustees; Casper Bower, Henry Metzger, as Elders; Jacob Metzger, John Sauer, as Deacons, in the Lutheran congregation. The foregoing were constituted the proper church council at the time when the building of a church was erected.

We also give some of the names of private members at that time, to wit: Henry Ayrand, John Dreisbach, Mathias Barnert, Jacob Dreisbach, Martin Dreisbach, George Frederick, Jacob Bower, Henry Dambart, George Ayrand, John Brown, George Fisher, Michael Vocht, John Pankratz, members of the Reformed congregation, and John G. Bush, George Bower, John Bellman, Stephen Duchman, Jacob Gelhart, John Metzger, Leonard Weller, Mathias Alspach, Adam Kretschman, William Roskey, Peter Fisher, Leonard Gaenger, Adam Metzger, George Bickel, Christopher Bickel, Jacob Walker, Christopher Baldy, John Kreider, as members of the Lutheran congregation—of whose history, some are remaining in the Valley to the present day.

We again find a partial record of births and baptisms, commencing in 1791, which was carried down to 1825, where it ends. We give some of the earliest names found upon the same (omitting those named from time to time in 1791, Ludwig Smeindler, William Gensler, 1792, Peter Frieserick, John N. Sied, Abraham Hoch, Simon Baekner, 1793, Conrad Struble, John Baekner, John Hoy, George Pfeifferer, 1794, John Hummel, John Hailer—) to wit: our record again ends—1805, Andrew Reedy, Benjamin Zellner, John Winkler, John Zellner, John Reber, Peter Fischer, George Wurnly, Lorenzo Barnhart, George Reas and others were members of the Dreisbach Church.

Our records are silent in regard to the pastor who served the congregations from 1791 to 1809, a period of 18 years (excepting Rev. Mr. Smeindler, in 1798.) The following are the names of the different Pastors:

would say that by verbal information by him received from some of our ancestors, a certain Peter Ayrand—(Fourth)—(Fifth)—(Sixth)—(Seventh)—(Eighth)—(Ninth)—(Tenth)—John C. Walker, Herold—and Dreisbach, have been pastors in and served the congregations during that time.

The writer now comes to where his personal knowledge commences. In 1809, Rev. A. G. Hime became the regular pastor of the Lutheran congregation, and labored faithfully for some time. He was succeeded as pastor, in 1831, by Rev. J. G. Anspach, who has labored successfully among its members to the present time.

In 1844, Rev. J. H. Fries became the regular pastor of the Reformed congregation, and labored faithfully until 1850, when it pleased God to remove him from his people to Heaven by death. In 1839, Rev. A. H. Casper became the pastor, who labored faithfully down to 1855, after which said congregation was supplied by Rev. E. Kiefer for some time. In 1856, Rev. Henry Ayrand became the pastor, for a short time; he was succeeded in the same year by Rev. B. Rosman, who labored successfully down to 1859, when he was called by the Synod to Chambersburg as editor in the printing establishment of the Reformed church; after which, Rev. C. H. Leinbach became the pastor, and has labored successfully to the present time.

The writer is not prepared to give a statement of the strength of membership of the church, at any time from its organization down to the year 1850, which time the church was fully reported, when it numbered about 45 regular communicating members in the Reformed and about 75 in the Lutheran side. At the same time there was a more regular record maintained, which record shows that the Reformed congregation now numbers about 80 regular communicating members, and the Lutheran about 120.

The Dreisbach Church being, according to tradition, the first church ever organized in Buffalo Valley, its members covered a scope of territory, some 20 miles square, on which we can now count 28 or 29 churches of different denominations. As, at the time when the Dreisbach church sprang into existence, there were no churches in Buffalo, New Columbia, White Pine, Buffalo & Roads, Union, Forest Hill, Millbury, Rays, Hartington, East of Ray, Gusterville, Middlebrook, Crossville, (New Berlin) and East Buffalo, as to what many very properly styled the mother church of Buffalo Valley.

In 1850, the building erected in 1788 was taken down, and a brick building was erected on the same place. Owing to its being put up very hastily, it soon gave way, and, to avoid some accident, at a regular meeting of both congregations called on the 20th of Feb. 1860, it was by a majority of those present decided that the old building should be taken down, and a new one be erected, in case the necessary funds could be raised. A building estimated at four was immediately elected—shortly after which, a subscription book was put in circulation, the result of which proved that the liberality of the members would warrant the undertaking. Another meeting was called, 12th of March, 1860, at which time the plan and size of the building were agreed upon; the building committee took a vigorous hold of the matter, and had the building put under contract—the result of which shows that the said congregations have been enabled, by the blessing of God, to witness the laying of the cornerstone of their new church edifice, on the 15th of A. D. 1860.

The following, now (1860) constitute the proper church Council in both congregations:

REFORMED. Pastor—C. H. Leinbach, J. G. Anspach, Trustee—Abraham Young, George Sleer, (Myrdel) Dunkel, John Husick, Elders—(Samuel Zellner, Benj. Schraack, Dea.—John C. Dunkel, John Bickel, Dea.—(Samuel Dunkel, Henry Honck, Building—David Roam, John S. Schraack, Contra.—(Fred. Hippke, Adam Young.

The cornerstone of the present church edifice was laid on the 6th June, 1860. Ministers present—John G. Anspach, Millinburg; Chas. H. Leinbach, Lewisburg; C. G. Leininger, Freeburg; Th. H. Leinbach, Tulpshoesen; J. C. Baehner, Millinburg; J. K. Millet, Freeburg, Pa; and Chas. Hammer, Cleveland, O. Rev. T. H. Leinbach preached on Saturday at 2 P. M. in German from Lu. 5, and Rev. J. C. Baehner followed in English from Neh. 2:18. Sunday morning, Rev. C. G. Leininger in German from Is. 28:16, followed in English by Rev. C. H. Leinbach. At 2

German from I Peter, 2: 5, followed in English by Rev. J. K. Millet. Collection and subscription amounted to $240. There were about 1700 persons present on Sunday, it being a beautiful day. The services throughout were interesting and impressive. Three plates, engraved on brass by W. Laid Harris, Esq., were deposited in the corner stone; they contain the names of the Officers of each congregation at the time of the erection of each church.

The new edifice was dedicated with services commencing on Saturday morning, 12th Oct., 1861, continuing till Monday evening. Ministers of the Lutheran church present—J. G. Anspach, (the pastor) and Messrs. Elshoyer, Albert and Myers. Reformed ministers present—C. H. Leinbach, (the pastor), A. B. Casper, J. G. Brown, B. Rosman, and L. Carr. On Sabbath, sermons were preached in the main audience room by Messrs. Albert and Rosman, and in the basement room by Messrs. Elshoyer and Brown, yet nearly half of the persons present had to remain outside of the building. The two Pastors performed the dedication ceremonies.

The church building—the third and best erected on the spot—is a neat brick structure, 65 by 45 feet in size, well finished and well furnished, at an expense of about $1,500. And a sacred spot it is, hallowed by the worship of more than three-fourths of a century. Our pioneer forefathers were wise men. They not only selected their earthly homes in the best and most fertile localities, but they erected their churches in the most eligible places. The Dreisbach Church is in the center of the valley, on an elevation, aside of a river; its white, graceful spire, rises, a hallowed center of attraction, towards which the eye can devoutly turn from the comfortable homes of its membership. They yet need a bell, to herald the approach of worship, and toll the knell of the departed.

This edifice was 33 by 45 feet in size; it was entered by one large door in the vestibule, and by two doors out of the vestibule into the audience chamber; had a gallery on three sides; and seated about 400 persons. It was also provided with an organ, not in use of late years. The entire cost incurred in the erection of this building, was $1,000.00. The Corner Stone was laid on the 24 June, A. D. 1839, with appropriate religious services by Rev. J. H. Perry, J. G. Anspach, P. S. Fisher, and D. Goetzard. The dedication took place on the 8th December, same year. Ministers—Rev. J. G. Anspach, J. B. Casper, J. E. Schindler, Isaac Goetzard. The speaking were the Pastors and church Officers of the two congregations at that time:

GERMAN REP. EVANG. LUTHERAN Pastor—Rev. H. Fries, J. G. Anspach, Elders—(Jacob Leiby, John Rinkel, Dea.—(Philip Frederick, John Rinkel, Dea.—(John Ritter, William Noll, Dea.—(Samuel Zellner, George Kerstetter, Trustees—Samuel Reber, John Shookler, Building—(Jacob Ritter, John Shookler, Contra.—(Samuel Reber, Peter Engel.

The particulars of the fights opposite Lewisburg are coming in. The aggressive movement is said to have been ill-considered, hastened by false spies who misled the Union forces into the enemy's power, and we had not boats enough to assist our troops who passed over. The enemy cut the throats and stabbed our wounded. Some of the latter were driven into the river, and were drowned rather than fall into the hands of their inhuman enemies. The bravery of Baker and his men (from Mass., R. I. and Penn.) is unquestioned.

The Union forces were on three sides of Price and McCulloch, who it seems sure must fight or give up the State of Missouri to Fremont.

The Lancaster and Pittsburg troops have been received in Kentucky with much enthusiasm. A Rebel Company was made prisoners by the Home Guards.

Wm. Smith, one of the privateer "Jeff. Davis," has been tried in Philad. and found guilty of Piracy.

The Western part of Virginia has voted almost unanimously for the new State of Kanawha.

The traitor Breckinridge says he will resign his seat in U. S. Senate!

Exchanges of prisoners (without acknowledging the Confederate States) are going on between the Union Government and the Rebels.

A gentleman arrived at Cairo, Ill., says the Arsenal and Cannon Foundry at Memphis, Tenn., has just been destroyed by fire, and that Gen. Polk has sent troops from Columbus, Ky., to New Orleans and Memphis.

WEAR DEMOCRATS, read this from one who has been a leader in your party. Perhaps it will invigorate you:

"Gen. B. F. Butler made a speech at Burlington, Vermont, on Wednesday evening. He said that if any foreign nation dared to interfere in our intestine war, we would cease dealing with southern traitors as erring brothers, delicately and tenderly, and should arm every loyal Union man, North and South, both black and white, hand and foot, until treason and its abettors are exterminated, and the meddlesome world was taught a salutary lesson. This sentiment was received with overwhelming applause."

On the 3d inst. the steam grist mill of John Allison, and the steam planing mill of Thomas M'Acley, adjoining each other, in Altoona, were entirely consumed by fire, together with all their contents. These properties were insured in the Perry County Fire Insurance Company to the amount of $3,500.

Thanks to Samuel Swengel, Lewis township, for a club of eleven subscribers to the Star & Chronicle. Any others who desire to unite with him have until Court (16th Dec.) to do so.

The Cricket Match which was to have taken place last Saturday did not "come off," in consequence of the non-attendance of the town boys. Another trial will be given at the same hour, next Saturday.

From Ocean to Ocean! FRIDAY, Oct. 25, 1861, the Telegraph Line was completed between the Atlantic and the Pacific. The first Message was sent by the Chief Justice of California to President Lincoln at Washington. New York and San Francisco have been interchanging compliments.

This is a great Work—this a glorious Union! May it be perpetual! Confusion to Rebels and Traitors!

Latest News.—By Telegraph. PHILAD., Oct. 28.—Gen. Scott received a dispatch yesterday from Gen. B. F. Kelly stating that, in obedience to his orders, he had attacked the Rebels at Romney, Va., at 3 o'clock P. M., of the 29th inst., and after three hours' engagement completely routed the enemy, taking all their cannon, much of their camp equipage and many prisoners. Our loss was trifling.

From Missouri, we learn by a despatch dated at Fremont's headquarters near Hannibal, that Gen. Fremont's body guard, commanded by Maj. Sartori, on the 24th inst., made a most brilliant charge on a body of some 2,000 rebels, drawn up in line of battle at Springfield. They completely routed the enemy, cleared them out of town, and hoisted the national flag on the Courthouse.

All quiet at Washington.

Letter from Missouri. The following is a letter, written by a lady in Missouri to a relative in Millinburg, Pa.:

HUMBOLDT, Sept. 17, 1861. DEAR SISTER: God has spared me through another trying scene, and given me an opportunity to send you a line. Every time I write, I think it will be the last, but yet we are spared. We were living here, thinking the place safe, and every one trying to make the best of time, when, on Monday last, just after we had finished our dinner, the advance guard of the enemy, numbering 150 men, rushed around the Hotel and fired into the company, swearing at us not to move. I screamed and fainted, while the women ran in every direction looking for their sons and husbands. When I came to, I found myself supported by a young man whose face was covered with blood. He had received a saber wound on the head and was badly hurt. When I inquired for Dr. Torbert he could not be found. All I could learn was that he had started for his horse and had been shot at twice and his horse taken. While they were running his horse off, he got down in the long grass, crept two miles, when he got hold of a mule and rode twelve miles to Iola, got the soldiers stationed there, and returned by daylight next morning, and have been pursuing them ever since. The enemy shot several men, robbed four stores, tore down a liberty pole, burned several houses, carried off all the money they could find, and then darted off like so many devils, shouting for Davis. I went up to a large Texian who was riding our horse, took hold of the bridle, and said, "this is my horse." He asked me if I was a Free State woman, and I said "Yes, for ever." He then asked me if I had a husband or brother here. I told him no, that "I hoped they were all fighting for the flag of our country." Said he, "You talk as though you were not afraid of us Texian Rangers." "I am not." He then asked me who was here to protect me? I said "You know before you came here that the men had all gone to Fort Scott to assist Jim Lane." He said, that if I had been a Southern lady I would have been protected. I told him that our government was able to protect its loyal daughters. Said he, "Madam, I have scalped some good women as you." Said I, "You are welcome to the top of my head if you want it, if that is 'Southern chivalry.'" Said he, "You can have your horse; you are the bravest woman I ever saw; you can have anything you want." They left us at sunset, and we sat all that long, dark, dreary night, expecting them to return. We are in the hands of the enemy, and will be in danger from these guerilla bands as long as the war lasts.

We are glad to learn that our old friend Hon. Josiah Beaver, formerly of Millers-town, Perry county, has been elected a member of the Legislature of Pennsylvania from Union county. Judge Beaver will make an excellent Legislator, and we congratulate the people of his district in their selection of so honorable, able and efficient a gentleman to represent them at Harrisburg the coming winter.—Blountfield Times.

In Lycoming county, Brown township, two election boards were held, each polling about 20 votes, all on one side. The Democrats having most of the Return Judges, accepted the return on that side, reducing the true Republican vote of Lycoming county about 20.

The Soldiers of the Shamokin Company it is stated were on guard duty, Election day, and could not vote. As they were mostly Republicans, it is believed their majority saved from defeat part of the Northumberland county Dem. ticket.

When the Seventh Penn's Regiment was paid off, there was $21,000 due them—and of this sum, $17,000 were sent home, by honest and faithful officers and privates, to their friends.
