☞The name of the "Shamokin Bank" has been altered, by the County Court, to that of "Bank of Northumberland County," but remains at Shamokin. To avoid mistakes, people will do well to remember to not confound this with the old "Bank of Northumberland," at Northumberland.

☞We understand the Sunbury Gazette to say that Northumberland county pays nothing for the relief of the families of her Volunteers. The Judges and Commissioners are all Breckinridge Democrats, but have claimed to be favorable to the prosecution of the War, and friendly to the Soldiers. Their refusal or neglect to aid families who may need more than the bare wages of a private, we believe to be an exhibition of the cold shoulder unparalleled in Pennsylvania, and will awaken a suspicion that the name "Democracy" is with such officers a very thin veneering of a spirit formerly called "Toryism."

☞All the ex-Breckinridge Editors in Clinton, Lycoming, and Northumberland counties, are distressing themselves about the President Judge of the Union district. As none of those editors live in the counties concerned, people generally suspect their tears are of the crocodile "persuasion." Our District (as well as the Black Republican Editor of the Chronicle,") is satisfied with its choice. If our neighbors are dissatisfied with them's, we can't help it—and very sorry!

☞The Philadelphia City Item prints the late 4th of July Address of Rev. H S Dickson, D.D., and says editorially—

"On our first page will be found a very able and very patriotic Address, by the Rev. Dr. Dickson, of Lewisburg, Pa. This paper is peculiarly worthy of perusal, and we hope our friends will read and circulate it. Our attention was called to this exhaustive paper by one of our most intelligent, most liberal townsmen, a gentleman of the very highest respectability, and widely noted for his exalted patriotism and thorough manliness and nationality."

☞We learn from the Messenger that Rev. I. S. Weiss, late of Nittany, has been installed as Pastor of the German Reformed Mifflinburg charge, and a committee appointed to ordain and instal the Licentiate, J. K. Millet, in the Nittany charge.

Rev. J Gardiner Penney (Bloomsburg) has accepted a call from the Baptist Ch's in Bloomsburg, Brier Creek, and Berwick, and Rev. John R. Shanafelt (Snydertown) from the Rush and Shamokin churches.

☞Elias Dreisbach's farm of 65 acres, on the Turnpike two miles east of Mifflinburg, was bid off at Administrators' Sale, Friday last, by Ge. Dreisbach and J. M. C. Rauck, at $101 per acre.

The Dewart Farm of 100 acres, in the neighborhood of Selinsgrove, the Sheriff sold to George Schnure and John Hummel, at $55 per acre.

☞We know of but one person from Lewisburg at the first landing upon South Carolina soil, and from him we give a letter in another column. We are glad DAN. got an "envelop," for in it he sent a pod of unpicked cotton, (our first trophy from Secesh,) and a few numbers of The Camp Kettle, a little paper issued aboard the boat he sailed with.

☞A young lady called the other day to advertise for a brown silk hair-net she had lost, but concluded not, apparently in fear that her name might appear with it. However, if anybody will bring us the net we will hand it over to the owner, and not print her name until after she says "yes" to some good chap worthy of it.

PENNSYLVANIA EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION.—A meeting of representatives of the different classes of schools and literary institutions in our State, is called at Harrisburg, to commence Tuesday, Nov. 26, at 10, A. M., and continue four days. Excursion Tickets are promised.

☞Messrs. BEAVER and RITTER of our District—true "Union" men—have, each, over 4500 votes, and less than 300 against them. We doubt whether anybody goes to Harrisburg with as "stiff" a majority as that—over 4,200 each!

"LAFAYETTE," and "WARREN," are good names. They are the names of two of our best men of the Revolution. But, just now, the Traitors, and—we are sorry to say—some who say they are Democrats have as much spite at the names, Warren and Lafayette, as the old Tories had. Is this to be accounted for by the fact that the Forts of that name contain so many convicted or suspected Rebels? If so, let them remember that they have chosen to renounce the protective laws of PEACE, and in its stead to accept the bloody risks of WAR! War amazingly alters many things. The sword has a keen edge, as open Rebels and their secret allies daily learn. In time of War, the innocent too often have to suffer as well as the guilty. War infringes even upon our rights.

☞The CONSTITUTION says:

"The privilege of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, except when in cases of REBELLION or invasion, the public safety may require it."

"TREASON against the U. S. shall consist only in levying War against them, OR in adhering to their Enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Let the Democrats (North and South) who growl about "Warren" and "Lafayette," carefully chew and digest the above extracts from the U.S. Constitution.

☞"More of the Same Sort."—Every time the people of Kentucky decided for the Union, the traitor Breckinridge with his crew cried out, "'t was n't fair—let's have it over again!" The last trial so disgusted them, that they ran up their true colors, but declare it "wasn't fair."... Just so, after Union-Brady had for three years, by honest petition, asked for re-annexation, its opponents (as a last resort) agreed to submit it all to a vote of those concerned—said vote, by the law, to be final and conclusive. The vote proved to be in favor of Union. Whereupon, in true Brock style, the Winesport Democrat now says, "unfair—let's have another contest about it!" So it seems these Brockites regard a decision in their favor as binding, but a decision against them they will not heed except upon compulsion—thus proving themselves aristocrats, and not Democrats. And as no Lycoming Republican paper has attempted to prolong this useless local contest, while both their Democratic papers have, it is apparent that a political game is attempted at the people's expense.

☞SOUTH CAROLINA was a Tory State in the Revolution, and has been a pest to the Nation ever since. She inaugurated this War, and ought justly to be the battle-ground. It cost the Whigs of '76 much blood and treasure to rescue that State at first, and will cost their descendants more. She has now got the fight she has been laboring after for thirty years. Says the North American, "if the people of South Carolina are determined not to let other States be at peace, the more that country is laid in ruins the better it will be for the rest of mankind. If the injury which the war has already done to property, on land and sea, were all concentrated in South Carolina, that abominable State would be a howling wilderness."

☞We see Hon. Henry C. Hickok proposed as commander of a Regiment of School Teachers for the War. The Major has the requisite pluck, the will, and the turn for the science of war; and if he had another bushel of nerves and muscle in him, would be A No. 1 for the Teachers' Big Gun.

"Let Slavery take care of itself" is Gen. James Lane's solution of the slavery question. American soldiers are not to be degraded to negro catchers, and let slavery take the consequences of the war it has dared to invoke.

☞Who has more or better Army correspondents than we have? Union county is well represented, almost everywhere. Send in the Letters from the Volunteers—all have something of general interest.

☞Thomas Strohecker, late from East Buffaloe, is Captain of a Volunteer Company, under Col. Maxwell (a West Pointer.) Both visited Lewisburg, last week.

☞J. Wilson Shaffer, (late of Union Co.) volunteered from the County Clerk's office, Freeport, and is now Quartermaster for Gen. Hunter, in Missouri.

☞Dr. Wm Hayes' appointment is that of Brigade Surgeon Regular army—a position most responsible, requiring experience and the highest professional skill.

☞Col. Hartranft's Regiment (including Linn's and Hassenplug's Companies) is the 51st instead of the 52d as we stated in our last.

☞John B. Linn Esq has removed his Law Office half a square below its former location, to that of his father, James F. Linn Esq.

☞Col. Edward Smith, Post Master, has purchased the Drug Store of Capt. C. D. Roush, at New Berlin.

THANKSGIVING.—Gov. Curtin has appointed Thursday, Nov. 28th, as a day of thanksgiving and praise.

☞Remember, no business on Thursday next—it's Thanksgiving Day!

Maj. Wm. B. Shriner, of West Buffaloe, killed a Calf last week, five months old, which weighed 265 pounds. Who can beat it?

From the Captain of "Slifer Guards."

CAMP PIERPONT, Va., Nov. 14.

When I last wrote to you (which was certainly some time within the memory of the "oldest inhabitant,") I think we were somewhere down in Western Virginia, or at "Camp Misery," near the Maryland border, where we spent a couple of weeks picketing on short rations and guarding "Bucktails." Since then, our circumstances have altered materially. From a little, isolated band, shut in by mountains, we have come to swell the numbers of the "Grand Army of the Potomac"—an army surpassing, in extent and discipline, anything that could even have been dreamed of a few years ago in our country, but renowned as yet only for preserving a "masterly inactivity." Then, I was content to "turn in" at nights with three or four others in a little tent that scarcely sufficed to contain our baggage; now, I have a "palatial residence" of canvas fully eight feet square, with "modern conveniences" in the shape of a camp-bed, a bureau of cracker-boxes, and last but not least, an underground store, whose bright glow gives a cheerful aspect to the whole, and proves peculiarly attractive to "the boys" this wet evening. Our camp is in a woods, a little to the right of the Leesburg turnpike, and on the extreme right of the central division of the army, which extends in one unbroken line to a point below Mount Vernon. The soil is of a spongy character, retaining moisture a long time, and proving rather detrimental to health, unless the tents are floored, or the men well provided with guns and woolen blankets. Still, our Regiment is not especially unhealthy, the men having a peculiar knack in "finding things" that subserve their comfort, such as boards and bricks (for fireplaces,) as many a dismantled building in the neighborhood can show. In my own Company, there are seldom more than five on the sick report—which, out of ninety-three is not an extraordinary number—scarcely more than would fall sick at home out of so many. Still, we have been very unfortunate in the recent loss by death of Sergeant Hunter J. Seofield, of West Buffaloe, a man peculiarly fitted for his position, and beloved by all the Company. He was one of those industrious characters, who, while in the service, never knew an idle moment, but was always busy at something, and ever ready for any duty that might be assigned to him. Accommodating almost to a fault, he was known and respected throughout the entire Regiment, and when his death was announced, there were numerous expressions of sympathy from every quarter. His body was sent home, accompanied by Sergeant M'Call, and to defray the expenses of his funeral and aid in the support of his family, we have raised a purse of over $150, which will be sent by express to-morrow.

Whether we will be ordered to go into winter quarters here, or be called on to make an advance movement, is yet a matter of doubt. But here we are, ready for anything that our General-in-Chief may command, though it would be rather discouraging to lie idly by, without one brilliant blow in this quarter, when our comrades-in-arms in Western Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, and along the Coast, are winning so many laurels. But, patience! our time will come yet. The old Thermopylæ remains untaken, and with Manassas must fall the hopes of the Old Dominion.

I meet many old friends in the different Regiments lying around us—first, sixth, fourth, &c. I felt proud when I visited the 49th, one evening, and found a number of my old M'Veytown schoolboys, one of them a Lieutenant, some Sergeants, others in the ranks. They were all glad to see me, after an absence of over two years, and while in their midst I felt more than ever the greatness of our cause, which has enlisted not merely the sympathies but the active co-operation of so many thousands of brave young hearts. I might mention the names of many officers and men, in our Pennsylvania forces, who were well known to our Lewisburg people as students, mechanics, &c.

This morning, we received a handsome present, from Col. Slifer, in the shape of eighty gum blankets, accompanied by a kind and patriotic letter, which I take the liberty of sending to you for publication. No one can appreciate such a favor so well as a soldier, exposed as he is often to the damp ground, and to the pitiless rain while standing on camp-guard and picket, without shelter and denied the comfort of a fire. Think of it! you who remain at home, surrounded by all the luxuries and comforts of life—you merchants, who, having gained a competency, are still laying up the wherewithal to luxuriate—you wealthy farmers, with granaries filled with wheat, and cribs bursting with corn—and give a little of your abundance to those who hazard their lives that you may live in safety. The weather is growing cold, the Army is large and increasing, and the Government, unprepared for a war of such dimensions, is utterly unable to furnish, at once, all the comforts needed by so many soldiers. Blankets and woolen socks are especially wanted, and of these there is not a farm house in Buffaloe Valley that could not spare some. Let us show that we have the interests of the Union at heart—that we are as patriotic and sacrificing as the people of the South. Let "fair maid and stately dame" ply the needles during the long winter evenings for the benefit of the soldier, as in Revolutionary times, restoring to the household the industrious aspect of "those golden days when Bertha spun." Let Union be the Banner County in giving of its fullness to the great cause in which we are enlisted.

The "Chronicle" continues to be a welcome visitor, and is eagerly sought after by the boys. Lieut. Orwig visits us occasionally, and one of his first inquiries is, "Have you any late Chronicles?" I trust it will continue to come as regularly as heretofore.

With many warm wishes for the welfare of our many friends at home, I remain Yours truly,

THOMAS CHAMBERLIN.

[We send as regularly to one Tom as to father, and repeat our offer to send every week to every Company wherein is a Union County volunteer. But we can not follow their movements without orders from them when and how to change the directions of their papers.—The following is the letter of Col. Slifer, which appears not to have been written with any design for publication, but which the "Guards" desire to see in print.—ED. CHRON.]

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 8, 1861.

CAPT. THOMAS CHAMBERLIN—Dear Sir, I have learned that you have eighty men in your Company who are without gum blankets. To supply the deficiency, I have ordered that number to be sent to your address at Washington. The express charges are paid to that place. I trust you may have no difficulty in getting them forwarded from there to your Camp. When they reach you, I shall be much obliged if you will attend to their distribution. For this small contribution to the comfort of your men, I claim no merit. I ought to have done much more. Physically unable to endure the hardships of camp life, I feel that I owe much to the patriotic men who have voluntarily relinquished the society of friends, the tender endearments of home, and are imperiling health and even life itself, to do what it is as much my duty to do, as it is theirs.

Our Government guarantees to its children the same common blessings, and for its preservation there should be a willingness to make a common sacrifice. When I contrast what you and your men (many of whom are my neighbors) have done and suffered to crush rebellion, with the little I have done, I feel ashamed of myself. The man who has nothing to give, or no words of cheer to speak—who, in this struggle, is indifferent, and yet claims the shield and protection of the Constitution and the Laws, which others are sacrificing their all to uphold—is morally no better than the thief who meanly appropriates to himself his neighbors' hard earnings. If I can at any time do anything to alleviate your hardships, you can command me to the full extent of my ability.

Please accept for yourself, and convey to each man in your Company, my kindest regards. I need hardly say that you all have my sympathy, and my sincere prayers. May He on whom not a sparrow falls to the ground," graciously shield your hearts from evil! May your health and your lives be precious in His sight! that, when the war is ended, you may return to your homes, where many warm hearts are ready to greet you, and long live to enjoy your merited reward, the plaudits of a free and grateful people.

Sincerely yrs, ELI SLIFER.

From Capt. Linn's Company.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, ANNAPOLIS, MD., } Monday Evening, November 18, 1861. }

We have come back to the very place we started from, last Spring—over the very Railroad we helped to build—even our old servants and retainers are with us. But, to-night, I will merely give an account of our journey.

Last Friday afternoon we had orders to march. We were illy prepared, and had much to do, but it brought about the best of spirits. Saturday, preparations went fast and furious—last letters indited—last messages sent—the remains of old duds boxed up to be sent home—tents struck—good-byes said to the friends we had here, or had lately made—and about dusk marched down to the Railroad, and were aboard. We had four sick, in the hospital—but three crawled out, and are nearly well, now. We left Seth Housel, at Harrisburg (sick with measles) with the utmost regret, for he had endeared himself to all. We hope he will join us yet. All that long, dark night—a cold, wintry wind blowing—we were going to Baltimore. We arrived there at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning, and were marched to the depot—all along cheered by the people—handkerchiefs and flags waved to us—then the Union Relief Association gave a splendid lunch of bread and butter, cheese, coffee, &c. (Think of that, for Baltimore! We were welcomed everywhere.) After a weary wait, we were marched down to take the boat—and lay in the street, just where the Massachusetts men were attacked, all the afternoon—and then back to the Depot again, as a boat could not be procured. About dark, we were put on the cars, and at one o'clock at night arrived opposite the St. John's College, Annapolis, in the broad full moonlight, beneath a gloriously beautiful sky, under a row of broad branching trees, we drew up in our first line of battle. By two o'clock, we were housed, some of our men doing their first sentry duty as proud as a student when he first begins to reads Virgil. To-day we pitched our tents, but will not go out of our present quarters until forced to move by some incoming Regiment. There—rest and sleep comes with a grace to me now again. We have a bright wood fire, quarters just above the kitchen, and Dick's face is gleaming as the warmth and very expressive of content.

I have less leisure to write, now, than last Summer, but will try to keep up some correspondence. Gib.—Lieut. Beaver, I mean—has just cut up a cake sent us—and that temptation, and prospective sleep, are making me wholly averse to continue. We will send you a copy of our Muster Roll as soon as it can be made out.

Yours truly, J. M. L.

[Capt. Hassenplug is with Capt. Linn,—the "Walls Guards" are expected with them, and all have a notion they are going to South Carolina, where Secesh was born.]

Latest News

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday Evening.—A convention, representing 45 counties—more than half of North Carolina—assembled at Hatteras on Monday; acknowledged the authority of the United States; deposed the Rebel Governor, Clark; and declared Marble N. Taylor, provisional.

Intelligence at Baltimore states that 1800 Rebels have laid down their arms in Northampton county, Virginia, thus restoring to the Union the whole peninsula east of the Chesapeake.

Capt. Wilkes (late of the famed Exploring Expedition) returning from Africa in the San Jacinto, heard that the Rebel Ministers, ex-Senators Mason and Slidel, had started from the West Indies for Europe in a merchant vessel, and started after them. Lieut. Fairfax took the Rebels off the vessel, by force, their Secretaries with them, but the family of Slidel continuing their trip. Our ship with the royal Rebel ringleaders, stopped at Fortress Monroe, but went to Boston with their plucked and mortified "game." Mason and Slidell are master-spirits in the slave-conspiracy, but their plans are thwarted, and their papers secured.

Gen. Butler is said to be preparing another naval expedition, to sail from Boston for some point in Cottondom.

Lieut. Worden, who had been confined by the Rebels in Montgomery since April, has been exchanged for a Lieutenant captured at Hatteras, and returns North. He says the South are raving mad over the capture of Mason and Slidell, but hope it may lead to England's losing friendship with the Union.

The Rebels own the loss, in the Belmont fight, of 261 killed, 427 wounded, and 278 missing. Gen. Grant reports our loss 85 killed, and 150 wounded, and about 150 missing. Our men showed sterling bravery, but the good of the action is not apparent, except as a check to a forward movement of the enemy.

The Rebels recently made another landing, in large force, on the eastern shore of Santa Rosa Island, but were soon discovered from Fort Pickens, the Unionists sent a few hundred shells among the invaders, who speedily fled, with great loss.

Gen. Dix has sent a force to raise anew the National flag over Accomac and Northampton counties, on the Eastern shore of the Chesapeake, in Virginia.

Gen. Hunter has returned to St. Louis, leaving Rolla and Sedalia fortified, and M'Culloch and Price have gone back into or near Arkansas. This looks as if Fremont's army had finished the War in Missouri for this Winter, except by guerilla parties, &c.

A grandson of Count Rochambeau, the commander of our French allies in '76—and a brother of the illustrious British General, Havelock—are among the distinguished foreigners who have lately offered their services to the U.S. Government.

Baltimore has already invested One Million Dollars in the National Loan.

FRIDAY MORNING—No especial news from Philadelphia.

The four "lower townships" of Centre county, boasting of their 900 Democratic majority, have not sent 50 men to the War. The remaining townships, which give from 800 to 1500 Republican majority, have furnished 1200 Volunteers.

Bradford county claims 1700, and Tioga 1400 men, in the U. S. Army. These would leave Susquehanna to make up 900, giving Wilmot's district 4,000 Volunteers—more than their quota.

The average Dem. maj. on Assembly in the four Dem. counties of Montour, Columbia, Sullivan and Wyoming, is 686—a gain of 33 on President. Tre-men-dous after so much fuss and crowing!

The Philadelphia Central Railroad has swallowed the remains of the Sunbury and Erie Railroad, and promise to "finish it—speedily"—again!
