UNION COUNTY STAR AND LEWISBURG CHRONICLE.

BY O. N. WORDEN AND J. R. CORNELIUS.

At $1.50 per Year, always in Advance.

LEWISBURG, UNION CO., PA., FRIDAY, JAN. 24, 1862.

"THE UNION," established in 1814---Whole No., 2,507

"CHRONICLE," established in 1843---Whole No., 928.

But One Paper this Week.

We received a good cash job of work on Saturday last—and such chances, these times, are not to be despised, you know—the execution of which was very important to parties concerned, but which prevents our issuing more than one half sheet this week.....But this has Good News enough for a whole week.

UNION COUNTY FUNDS.—The County Auditors have made their Annual Settlement. We understand they report the County out of debt, with the annexed surplus assets:

Cash paid over by Ex-Treas. Laird to Treas. Mertz	$683 61
Due on Duplicates	1476 86
	2160 47

This surplus will of course be required for Feb. Court, and the Soldiers' families.

If we start the year with this capital—after having paid our Extra War Tax for both State and County—we are favored. Let every citizen tax-payer seek to reduce Court and other expenses at home, and a reduction of County Tax may reasonably be anticipated.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon last, a youth—Joseph M. Nesbit, Jr. of Chillisquaque, opposite Lewisburg—was riding in a sleigh upon the public highway, when one of those ill-mannered dogs which infest society barked at his horse. The animal started, and threw young Nesbit out against a fence, with such a force as to tear the skin above the eye, and fracture and flatten part of the bone of his forehead. The blood flowed profusely, but he was soon found, and conveyed home, where he received the best of treatment, and although the wound is dangerous it is hoped will not prove fatal.

HENRY D. MOORE, Republican, was on Monday last re-elected State Treasurer of Pennsylvania for one year. The final vote on joint ballot stood—

☞Brigade Surgeon, Geo. S. Kemble, formerly of Union county, publishes the list of our killed and wounded in the late victory at Port Royal Ferry, S.C. John Weidenheimer and A. Herbert, of Penn. 50th, died from wounds received.

☞We recently issued an Extra STAR & CHRONICLE, containing the Governor's Message, without comments. Probably no Pennsylvania State Paper, treating of subjects of such magnitude, has met with so much commendation as that First Annual Message of Gov. Curtin.

☞The Charles Dreisbach estate, midway between Lewisburg and Mifflinburg, sold as follows: Farm of 20 acres, $105 per acre, to Wm H Kleckner. Storehouse property for $2500, to Wm Spotts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Government has received despatches fully confirming the intelligence from Kentucky. The facts reported in the press despatches are substantially correct.

☞The Breckinridge Democrats of Pa. have resolved to hold a State Convention on the 4th July instead of 4th March as the old-fashioned Democracy usually did.

☞As a specimen of the way in which Grain comes to Lewisburg, we notice that last Friday John Walls & Co. took in 2,308 bush. and 40 lbs. of Wheat.

☞See several New Advertisements in our paper to-day.

DOGS.—Two respectable farmers of this county have handed in to us a form of petition respecting the affliction of dogs, with a request that brother editors would copy it, and readers procure signatures to it, if so disposed. We think the positions of the petition are tenable, and hope they may be enacted into a law, and enforced.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives in Assembly met:

We, the undersigned, would pray your Honorable body to pass an act over the State of Pennsylvania, to tax dogs not less than one dollar per head, said tax to be collected by the Overseers of the Poor, and to be used for the support of the poor in the same manner as other poor tax; and we would pray you to pass such law for the county of Union. Your petitioners think such a law would lessen greatly the number of worthless dogs kept and thereby lessen the depredations committed by dogs. You must be well aware how well Pennsylvania is adapted for sheep raising, and how many farmers would keep sheep if they could be protected from dogs. You must be aware that the value of wool is well understood, and we would ask such a law, or a better one, for the purpose of encouraging sheep raising in our State. And we will ever pray, &c.

That Battle at Port Royal Ferry.

BEAUFORT, S. C., Jan. 4, 1862.

Safe in camp once more, after having a chance to "smell powder," and seen the enemies of our country's flag fall beneath the determined and energetic blows of those who are willing to give their lives in its defence. If the mails are as tardy in bringing letters to you as in bringing the Chronicle to me," you will have heard of the complete success of the Union arms at Port Royal Ferry, ere this—yet I will offer simply what I saw and heard for the consideration of your readers.

Tuesday, 31st Dec., orders came to be ready at a moment's warning, and at 6 in the evening we (part of the 50th Pa Vol.) left Beaufort in flat-boats, with canteens full of water (couldn't get anything stronger—the whiskey is kept for the officers!), 48 hours' rations in our haversacks, and 40 rounds of buck and ball cartridges—and thus, sitting in our boats, with contrabands for oarsmen, we "watched the Old Year out and the New Year in" upon the broad waters of the Port Royal, in South Carolina. Gen. Stevens with the N.Y. 79th was in the advance with six boat-loads from the old Wabash, (we think the Wabash is "some,") with two rifled cannon and two howitzers, the last being with us. About 8 o'clock on New Year's morn we landed, the enemy having fled as we came within sight. We had to wade in the water to reach the shore. Our Company, G., was the first to land and form. We marched four miles, part of the time double quick, to a white house opposite a brick yard—and were here joined by the remainder of our Regiment, and by the Michigan 8th. We now began to think that our wishes were about to be gratified, and we would have

A BATTLE!

As we came out of a cotton field, one Company of the N. Y. 79th was thrown out to the right as skirmishers—the Rebel battery opened fire upon them, and next upon us—then you may believe there was "fun," as we marched half a mile under their fire, part of the time shot and shell falling around us like hail. We were as cool as could be expected. As one shell burst near our color-bearer, he fell, and we thought he was killed, but he was a tall man, and only "dodged" the shell! We were marched a quarter mile below the Ferry, to a house, where we stopped. The N.Y. 79th were ordered to the left, and the Mich. 8th were drawn up as skirmishers and marched towards the enemy's batteries as coolly as if on parade. The right wing was ordered between these two regiments. They proceeded boldly to the woods, received the fire of the enemy, gave two volleys in return, then charged bayonets on the double quick, when the Rebels took to their heels. Our Pa. 50th were following them up, when a shell from our gun-boats warned us to retire—that shell burst in the midst of the Rebels—and our Col. Christ was so near that he saw 12 of them carried off. Our Adjutant, Rogers, was about 60 yards off when 20 shots were fired at him without effect. The fire on our side was so heavy that the batteries were all silenced—Col. Leasure, with two Companies of the Roundheads, Pa. 100th, being the first to enter the Fort upon the Ferry road. We suppose we could have followed them to the Railroad, and cut off the communication between Charleston and Savannah, but we had done all we were ordered to do. We captured a 32-pounder, spiked; near it was written, on a sand-bag, "Unlock this if you can!" it took just 25 minutes to get that file out. Our loss fell principally on the Mich 8th, which had 1 killed and 8 wounded, 2 of whom have since died. The enemy lost between 100 and 200. They numbered several thousands; of our force, but 800 were closely engaged.

Jan. 2.—We camped last night near the Fort. This morning, were drawn up in line of battle, the woods being alive with the Rebels, who received large re-enforcements during the night. For about two hours, our gunboats were shelling the woods: we destroyed the buildings and the Fort, and then left under cover of our gunboats. It was amusing to hear and see the negroes as we passed along; they came out from every plantation, bringing us water, milk, and peanuts, exclaiming, "De Lor' bress and keep you, widout a hair of your heads hurt." And "De great God, massa, but I'se glad to see you—why didn't you come sooner?" and so on.

On the morning of the 3d, sixty contrabands came over and reported the Rebels had been all the day before and all night burying their dead, and two wagon loads (supposed to be of Officers) were taken 4 miles to Gardner's Corners; among those killed is reported Capt. John C. Barnwell of the Beaufort Artillery. D.M. REED.

*We can assure our Volunteers that we take much care to send them our paper, regularly, and hope the mail arrangements to them will soon be as satisfactory as they are from them. Be not discouraged, for your many friends all like to hear from you when you have any news.—EDITORS.

John Tyler, the traitor, died at Richmond on last Friday, after a short illness. His age was 72.

☞The scene of the late Union victory in Kentucky—the most decisive gained by our land forces thus far—is near to the Southern border of the State, midway between Bowling Green and the Virginia line. Zollicoffer, who was killed, was one of the most eminent of the Tennessee Rebels, and had been noted for his persecutions of Brownlow and other Unionists in East Tennessee. He had chosen his positions on the Cumberland river, and was well prepared. But he has fallen, leaving 200 dead men on the field, and his army broken up or put to apparent route. The assailing forces were from Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota and Kentucky, and lost no high officers, but many brave privates have sealed with their lives the proof of their unselfish devotion to the Union of our fathers

FOR THE STAR & CHRONICLE.

Who Cares for Soldiers who are Poor?

To see the vast amount of good things going over the railroads for the soldiers, one would think everybody cared for them. Yes, those who have fathers, brothers, sons, husbands, or even near relations, in the army, most certainly do care for them, and to them all these vast piles of boxes are directed. But who cares for the poor soldiers? In our army are quite a number of Irish, Germans, &c., who have no property at stake, and no other interest than a love of free government. They are fighting side by side with our own sons, to put down this ungodly rebellion, and to maintain good government. Now take your stand in a camp. A large box arrives. The soldiers shout for joy. The box is opened. It is filled with bundles of everything that is good to eat or wear. One after another is taken out, marked for Sam, John, Joe, &c. Each grasps his pack, and skips off to his tent. But you see a few men stand by and look on, till the contents are all out of the box—there is nothing for them. They turn and go away with a sad heart, saying, "Yes, you may laugh and be merry, but I have no friends to send me anything."

Why could there not be a meeting called, and committees appointed to canvass every town and township in Union county, to solicit turkies, chickens, money to pay the freight, and for once give all our brave soldiers a good and impartial treat? I believe that there is patriotism enough in our county to send a box to each company from this county, and give every soldier boy at least half a turkey and two chickens. Such hearty cheering would be given for this county, by the happy soldiers, as never was heard before. If we can stay at home and enjoy warm beds these cold nights, and sit down to tables where we have more than dry bread and meat three times a day, and are out of danger, we may well send the soldiers something extra to make them smile.

A SOLDIER'S FRIEND.

MAKING A DEVIL.—Rev. Mr. Foster was a facetious man, and usually ready at a joke and repartee. He had a parishioner, a carpenter by trade, pretty well stocked with ready wit, and withal somewhat given to boasting. One day while at work for his minister hewing a stick of timber, the carpenter was boasting, in his usual style, of the marvels that he could perform. The pastor, to put an extinguisher on him, said:

"Governor," (his nickname,) do you think you could make a devil?"

"Make a devil?" responded the Governor, "why, yes, oh! yes," (his broad-axe moving a little rapidly.) "Here, put up your foot. You want the least alteration of any man I ever saw!"

It was seldom that the minister came off second best in an encounter of this character, but he did this time.

A few months ago, the editor of the Charleston Mercury prayed that our ships might be sunk. Quite a number of them, laden with stone, have been sunk right before his eyes. The Louisville Journal hopes he is grateful for the answer to his prayer. This is another evidence of the accommodating spirit of the Yankees—expending thousands of dollars to gratify the desires of one of their bitterest enemies.

The colonel of a regiment stationed at Hilton Head, who came up on the Vanderbilt, and is now in Washington, says that he had no doubt of his ability to take Charleston with his single regiment, so great was the Southern panic. Houses ten miles in the interior are known to have been abandoned by their owners as hastily, and left in the same condition, as the Beaufort residences were found.

Jeff Davis is known to have given orders to Gen. Magruder to burn Yorktown on the approach of the Union fleet. The rebels persist in believing that Yorktown or Norfolk is the destination of the Burnside fleet.

The Cairo movement seems to have been a "reconnoisance" instead of an effort to strike a blow at rebellion—for it has "returned."

The two Rebel Senators from Missouri are expelled by a unanimous vote. Bright of Indiana is now on trial.

Great Victory in Kentucky!

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20.—The Lexington (Ky.) correspondent of the Commercial, of this city, gives the following account of the battle fought on Saturday:

Gen. Zollicoffer, learning that the Federal forces had appeared in his rear, marched out of his entrenchments at three o'clock, on Saturday morning, and attacked Gen. Schoepf in his camp. Our pickets were driven in at an early hour on Saturday morning, and before daylight the attack was made. The battle is said to have raged with great fury until three o'clock in the afternoon, when Zollicoffer having been killed, the whole force of Rebels fled in confusion to their camp. The loss is not stated, but it is thought to be heavy.

Our victory is said to have been very decisive, and will result in the rout of the whole force defending the right flank of the Rebels' position at Bowling Green.

Gen. Thomas, on Saturday afternoon, followed up the Rebels entrenchments, 16 miles from his own camp. He found their entrenchments deserted—the Rebels having left all their cannon, quartermaster's stores, tents, horses, and wagons, which fell into our hands.

The Rebels, in dispersing, had crossed the Cumberland river in a steamboat and nine barges, at White Oak creek, opposite their encampment at Mill Spring.

Two hundred and seventy five Rebels were killed and wounded, including Zollicoffer and Peyton. The dead were found on the field.

The tenth Indiana lost 75 killed and wounded. No further particulars of the Federal loss have yet reached here.

It is "reported" that the Rebels are evacuating Manassas.
