Grand Concert—next week.

We are requested to state that, during the coming week, the Musical Concert will be given in Lewisburg, by

Madame Anna Bishop, the world renowned Cantatrice, assisted by
Mr. Edward Seguin, the American Barbieri, and also
Gustave De Sybert, the eminent Pianist.

Mad. Bishop, most readers know, is one of the most celebrated singers living. The Programme accompanying the notice, has the titles of 16 different songs, some new, mostly patriotic and sentimental. Particulars will doubtless be announced in due season. D. C. LaRue, Manager.

☞It is stated that Gov. Curtin offers the President, from Pennsylvania, another Division of Volunteers, comprising eight regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and artillery—suggesting that they be sent in a body from Philad. to some point in the Traitors' region. (The Old Keystone still well ahead in this contest for good government.) The number of the division is put down at over 10,000, including "Wolfe's Light Artillery, recruiting at Lewisburg, 120."—James T. Mitchell, son of Rev. Thomson Mitchell, is 3d Sergeant of the (Williamsport) West Branch Artillery, now or lately at Harrisburg, included in the above proposition.

☞We have nothing important from Washington or Harrisburg. While the Committees are at work preparing important Bills, the gaseous speeches are very opportunely ejected.

—Both branches of our Legislature, by a vote unanimous save one, moved for an examination of the alleged crimes in legislation and contracts, last winter and spring. The House Committee are Messrs Greenbank and Rex, (Reps.) Vincent and Sellers, (Reps.) and Smith (Doug.) Now let the traducers come forward and make good their libels and slanders.

J. F. Cochran, of Allegheny, is chosen Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, in place of Yerkes, dec'd. This rights a wrong of the "ring" which gave the three Philada. Senators five offices and the two Allegheny Senators none!

Drs. John J. Barkley of Philada., and John L. Atlee of Lancaster, and Daniel W. Gross of Harrisburg, are appointed Trustees of the State Lunatic Asylum for three years.

☞We are indebted to Col. Crotzer for specimens of his Music Books—the Western Triumphal March, "Nix arthur from the Front," and the "Battle of Port Royal." The first is suitable for brass bands, the second a hurrah piece and the last a plaintive and beautiful piece suitable for middle fingers, and interesting alike to the performer and listener. Each is arranged for the Piano and very patriotic. He has also all pieces of new style of music—instruction books for all the various wind and string—Sheets of Praise, Home Circle, Union Harmony, a perfect method for the piano and organ—Andrew's Parlor Organ—Howe's Dance—Union Harp—Sacred Harp—Union Star—Bird's Reader—Andrew's Composition—Ball Room Prompter and Hand Book—Home Melodist—song Birds, &c. &c., and can supply orders promptly.

Ups and Downs.

In Africa, whites are captured and held as slaves by the blacks. From the following take-off advertisement in one of the U. S. Army papers, printed "down South," it would seem that "institutions" are getting somewhat reversed, in that quarter:

$500 REWARD—Run away from me on the 5th of the month, my mulatto man DUNCAN RHETT. Massa Rhett am five feet seven inches high, big shoulders, black hair, curly always whiskers, low forehead, and dark face. He make big boss when he go among de gemmen, he talk very big and use de name ob de Lord all ob de time. Calls herself "Southern gemman." Said I suppose will try now to pass herself off as a brack man or mulatter. Massa Rhett has a deep scar on his shoulder from a fight, scratch 'cause de lef ever made up my mind when he tried to whip her. He 'tink I no people in de farm. I mor dan spec he will make track for Berzen county, in de furrin land of Jersey, what I imagin he hab a new friends. I will give 400 dollers for him if alive, an' 500 if anybody shows him dead. If he dam nasty white trash niggers without mark stealed, Shemine will receive him lubingly. SAMBO RHETT.

Beaufort, S C Nov 6 1861.

This running away from one's "servants" is not very "patriarchical." Mr. Rhett ought to be ashamed of himself, come back like a good boy, and obey "the powers that be." If Slavery was good for Sambo, it may be good for Julius. "Sauce for the goose," &c. Was it John Randolph, or Gov. Wise, who predicted that in the South the master would run away from the slave ere long?

Hugh Young, of the Tioga Agitator, (an able organ of Republicanism in the North of the State,) has been appointed Postal to Santa Cruz. Hannah Wells Indian Burnside Expedition Heard from.

Terrible Storm—Losses—Union County Troops safe.

At last, we have reliable intelligence from the naval expedition of 125 vessels which began to move out of Hampton Roads (Fortress Monroe) on Saturday the 11th inst. That day and Sunday they proceeded—Southward, instead of up some of the tributaries of the Chesapeake. On Monday, they came within sight of the Hatteras Inlet, on the coast of N. C. But, in the meantime, a storm had arisen, which made it difficult to navigate, and it was found some of the ships drew too much water for the channel. (It was also suspected that some of the pilots were traitors.) For several days, they were occupied in getting into the stiller waters within the Bay, or Lather.

Monday night and Tuesday, arose the worst storm known in the region. Some steam vessels cut loose from their tows, others stood out to sea, and others were driving in various ways. The propeller Cleary of New York, of 600 tons burden, was wrecked with a cargo worth $100,000. Five or six other vessels were founded, and some probably lost. On Wednesday, 15th, Col. Allen, of Burlington, N. J., with D. C. S. Wills, was drowned, and four or five seamen were also lost during the storm.

During the storm, no fire could be made for cooking, and as they were only provisioned for a day or two, and could not get ashore, many men had only dry beans to eat, and water as rains fell to drink.

On Monday 20th, Gen. Burnside sends to the Government intelligence that most of the ships had come in before the storm—that all concerned secured their boats—that he was building a wharf, landing stores, and proceeding with hope and cheerfulness.

ARMY LETTERS.

☞The Union County Soldiers under Captains Hassenplug and Linn, and Lieut. Kelly—and also Lieut. Beaver, from the Signal Corps—were on board the Cossack and the Star, both of which have arrived safe within Hatteras inlet. Last evening we received two letters from Capt. Linn, giving a rosy view of his sufferings &c., during their short but dangerous trip—they will appear in our next paper.

From the "Rooks Guards."

CAMP CALIFORNIA, Jan. 24.

We still remain three miles from Alexandria. Time has passed very slowly for two weeks, it having rained every day, and the mud so deep that we kept housed in our tents. To-day the sun shines and the wind blows, which seems to inspire our men with new life. They are all willing and anxious to advance and make the acquaintance of the enemies of our country. We have good Officers, and Union county shall not be ashamed of the men she has sent to the 53d Pa Reg.

We were much pleased to receive a visit from four citizens of your place, last week, (and are always glad to have our friends from Union county call upon us and see how comfortable we are in our canvas houses.) The evening passed very pleasantly with them. The roaring of the Rebel batteries on the Potomac follow us, hitting off their extra powder and ball upon the oyster boats passing their blockade, might have been strange music to our visitors' ears, but on returning it did not break our rest, and we hope not theirs.

Teams have just stopped at each of our marquees, and unloaded 10,000 rounds of ball cartridges, in addition to 6,000 rounds already on hand. These 16,000 rounds of powder and ball, we understand mean a speedy move forward, to some quarter unknown to us. The men are also directed to pack their knapsacks and hold themselves in readiness for further orders, but Companies are to be inspected three times a day until the word march is received.

We have very few sick, and none seriously ill at present.

NEAR IBERIA, Jan. 7, 1862.

Benj Grosh—The rumors of war with England, create alarm here—it would not be much encouragement for us unfortunate emigrants in Missouri.

The Western Division of Union Army is making things move now, and if Price is not pretty counting he and his men will be caught. The Secesh do not come back by daylight, but are around nights—probably our former neighbors, now in Price's army—to plunder all they can. On the 29th Dec. they stole a horse from John Keith, one from preacher Barnhurst, and one from me, and New Year's night they took my third wagon. Your house was rumsaged from top to bottom, furniture taken, and fences torn down—but I have saved some of your stock &c.—and having taken a horse-back ride to Rolla, created a fear which tends to put a check on these depredations.

John Bennage, after having been concealed for a week, on Saturday went to a Rebel officer and took some kind of an obligation, for which he and "Dock" were given a "protection," but Bennage says he was deceived in the matter; he remains but the Rebels have left.

George Irwin, and many others of the Home Guards, have united with the regular Union army.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Jan. 22, 1862.

The President, Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, has received information of a brilliant victory achieved by the United States forces over a large body of armed traitors and Rebels at Mill Spring, in the State of Kentucky.

He returns thanks to the gallant officers and soldiers who won the victory, and when the official reports shall be received, the military skill and personal valor displayed in battle will be acknowledged and rewarded in a fitting manner.

The courage that encountered and vanquished the greatly superior numbers of the Rebel forces, pursued and attacked them in their entrenchments, and passed not until the enemy was completely routed, merits and receives commendation.

The purpose of this war is to attack, pursue and destroy a rebellious enemy, and to deliver the country from danger menaced by traitors. Already, daring, courageous spirit and patriotic zeal on all occasions, and under every circumstance, is expected from the army of the United States.

In the prompt and spirited movements and daring battle of Mill Spring, the nation will realize its hopes, and the people of the United States will rejoice to honor every soldier and officer who proves his courage by charging with the bayonet and storming entrenchments, or in the blaze of the enemy's fire.

By order of the President:

EDWIN M. STANTON, Sec. of War.

Interesting from Europe.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 26.—The Europa arrived here last night, with dates to the 12th inst.

ENGLAND.—Notwithstanding a pacific solution of the Trent case, warlike preparations continues at Woolwich.

Mr Seward's despatch was considered in Cabinet Council, on the 9th. The Times understands that answer will be returned expressing gratification at the disavowal of Com Wilkes' act, accepting the satisfaction rendered, and assuming that the president in the Trent case will rule that of the Empress Smith. As to the general discussion of the law of neutrals, the Government will decline any answer until they have had the opportunity of submitting the whole question to the law officers.

The London Post announces that a thorough understanding has been arrived at with the American Government. Not only had they given the required reparation, but, in doing so, Mr. Seward will have succeeded in impressing on the English Government the notion that they have not only obtained the present indemnity, but no small pledge of future security.

The Times has a strong editorial opposing any ovation to Mason and Slidell. It says that "they are the most worthless booty it would be possible to extract from the jaws of the American lion," having been long known as timid and habitual haters and revilers of England. "The civility due to a foe in distress, is all they can claim. England has returned them good for evil, and given now their only effort will be to entangle her into war with the North. England would have done just as much to rescue two negroes. Let Mason and Slidell therefore, pass quietly on their way, and have their say with anybody who may have to listen to them."

Other journals advise a similar course. They allude to Mason's strong advocacy of the fugitive slave law, to prejudice the public against him.

The Times denounces the stone blockade as a most atrocious crime.

Great interest is excited relative to the movements of the Tuscarora and Nashville at Southampton, engaged in watching each other.

FRANCE.—There is said to be much satisfaction in official circles at the settlement of the Trent affair, which caused a rise of 1 per cent. on the Bourse.

The Moniteur denounces the stone blockade.

RUSSIA.—The Journal of St. Petersburg publishes an article congratulating Mr. Seward on the uprightness and intelligence of his policy, and demanding that the Trent affair may become the starting point of negotiations by the Powers of the common principles upon the question of neutral flags.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 25.—A tremendous gale prevailed all through Western Vermont this morning. The train which left Troy for Rutland at 7.15 this morning, encountered the gale in the town of Shaftsbury, and while passing an embankment 30 feet high, a fierce wind broke one of the cars from the coupling, and threw it down the embankment. The aged Missionary, Rev. Harrison Gray Otis Dwight, from Boston, was instantly killed; John Robinson, the roadmaster, was severely injured and can not survive, and two ladies were severely injured.

Latest News

FIVE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.—The steamer Anglo-Saxon has arrived. The Rebel steamer "Nashville" was reported as sold to English owners. The U. S. steamer "Tuscarora" was still at Southampton.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Letters received from Hatteras state that the steamer "Louisiana" had been floated off the bar where she was grounded, and was then safe, though the damage done to the engines rendered her useless as a transport.

The battle between Somerset and Mill Spring in Kentucky, turns out even more favorable to the Union cause than the first reports indicated. The Rebels must have lost 200 to 300 killed, and were completely broken up and driven from very strong works. It has the most depressing effect upon the South, as they lost some of their best, well equipped men.

FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 29.—Some negroes arrived here at seven o'clock this morning, having deserted to small boats from the opposite side of the river, east of Sewell's Point; they report that the fact of the iron plates for the steamer Merrimac were put in yesterday by the Rebels and that she was to be launched to-day.

John M'Mahon, Co. F 90th N. Y. Vols., shot Michael Dolan, private in the same company, this morning. The act was done deliberately; the motive was said to be an old family quarrel.

A small Union force recently attacked a house at Occoquan, in which 9 Texans were killed and but 1 escaped. Our loss was 1 killed.

The Rebels fear an attack upon Mobile.

An expedition upon Savannah, avoiding Fort Pulaski, is predicted.

It is believed that Beauregard has gone with several Regiments to Kentucky, leaving Gustavus W. Smith in command at Manassas.

The Rebels made another Artillery fight on the Upper Potomac, but were worsted in the fray.

A Puzzle for the Readers of the Chronicle.

My Young Prophet.

He is not the Wandering Jew, nor an old Levite, nor an angel; and yet, as I learn from the Bible, his ancestor was in the world before Adam, and in the ark with Noah. He has caused man to weep, as he cried with outstretched arms. His voice is strong and sharp, and reaches the heart of all; he arouses people by declaring the day of the Lord, and windows and doors fly open at his predictions. He prophesies every day, and his sayings are always found to be true. Those who see him, love him; and those who early follow his example, may prolong their lives. He is strictly temperate, drinking neither wine nor strong drink; he is sober, yet cheerful, and industrious; his diet is very moderate, and he divides his plain fare with the hungry; he travels barefooted, summer and winter, and would rather lodge in a barn than in a king's palace. He goes without staff, sword, or cane, yet faces an enemy boldly, with such rude weapons as no man ever had; and when abused by violence, he is a pattern of humility. He has a tried and true watch, yet his language is said to suit the time, ancient and modern. He refuses to money when offered him, by London or elsewhere, and denies the attributes of religion. He sleeps in no bed, nor reclining, nor standing, but keeps constant and exemplary watch over those near and dear to him. He knows not his father, nor was he ever nourished at his mother's breast. He wears neither hat, cap, nor wig. His beard, in the most manly, is of a vermilion hue, and is very seldom cut. His clothing is neither dyed, woven, knit, or spun; neither is it of silk, cotton, wool, linen, hemp, or leather, and yet it is very beautiful in color, fine in texture, and fits and becomes him well. He is no imposter, and many of us see him daily. Who is he? H.

REYNOLD'S "GREEN MANURING," TESTED.

The Millennium of the 3d inst. contains a letter from Reuben Nicholas, of Delaware Tp., Northumberland county, to the Dollar Newspaper. Mr. Nicholas states that a three years' trial fully warrants him in saying, that Dr. Reinhold's green manuring system is the easiest, cheapest, best, and most natural way of renovating old and worn-out soils. He has also found that in the year 1860, while the fields that were manured with barnyard composts were badly injured by the ravages of the Hessian fly, the wheat grown on the very adjoining fields, manured with nothing but green vegetable substances, escaped the ravages of this and other insects, as Reinhold maintains in his book. Finally, Mr. Nicholas invites any, who may have doubts on the subject, to visit his farm, and see for themselves the advantage of the system. A READER.

[Should any of our readers wish to investigate the subject further, we can refer them to Dr. Reinhold's "Farmers' Promotion Book," which can be had of Dr. I Brugger of Lewisburg.—EDS CHRONICLE.

THE OLD CLOCK.

I.

O, the old, old clock, of the household clock,
Was the longest thing, and truest,
Its tickle, though old, had a touch of gold,
And its chimes rang with the sweetest.
'Twas a monitor, too, though its words were few,
Yet they made the wise and the foolish pause,
And its voice, still strong, warned old and young,
When the hours of freedom faltered.
"Fly, fly, fly—quick, quick to bed,
For the Dee glows yet warning;
Up, up, and go, or else you know,
You'll never rise early at morning."

II.

A frugal wife was that old clock,
And stood in the room ever nigh,
And blessed the time with a merry chime,
The merry hours keeping;
But a wise old room was that trusting clock,
As sound as the truest heart,
When the dark clouds lowered o'er the misty way,
And tempests were nigh,
"Fly, fly, fly—quick, quick to bed,
For the Dee glows yet warning;
You'll never rise heavily, you'll never get wealth,
Unless you're up in the morning."

III

Still to mark the round good round and round,
Runs a true old time—
While many a child for the night days bid,
And the mother's kiss is given,
The honest face of the clock we trace
That warned us from earliest childhood,
And the voice we hear, and the chime,
And prophetic words of morning."

Two Captains of the 63d Penn'a Regiment, named M'Henry and Chapman, while drunk at Alexandria, on Saturday night, quarrelled, near Gen Montgomery's quarters. The General came out and attempted to quell the disturbance, when M'Henry drew a revolver and fired two shots at him. The Captains were arrested and placed in irons.
