Aid your County Paper!

THE STAR & CHRONICLE

COMMENCED a new volume, January, '62. Its main design is to furnish a reliable, interesting Family Newspaper. We have several Correspondents among the Soldiers, and, (having the TELEGRAPH in our office,) often give News in advance of the Dailies. We sustain the Administration in its efforts to put down Treason, maintaining that Slavery, having caused the Rebellion, shall ultimately pay its cost.

Convinced, from six years' practical experience, that the Advance Pay System is the best for all concerned, we shall continue it. We therefore ask all former patrons, and others so disposed, to renew or begin their subscriptions, at the rate of 12½ cts. per month, 81 for 8 months, $1.50 per year, &c. Payments from a distance may be made in the new 1 and 3 cent postage stamps, gold, or notes current in Penn'a.

As some reward for those who may be kind enough to speak a good word for our paper to their neighbors, or who wish to send it away as a present to distant friends, we offer the following Premiums, and Reductions to Clubs, (the papers to be sent wherever ordered, on receipt of the pay:)

For the largest Cash Club at $1 each —sent in on or before Saturday, Feb. 22, (last day of Feb. Court)—a good $5 FAMILY BIBLE, lettered in gold with any name desired.

For $25 with 25 names, an extra copy, and either of the following desirable $1.25 Books: "The Horse and his Diseases"—"Township and Local Laws of Pennsylvania"—or "Eliza Acton's Modern Cookery."

For $15 with 15 names, an extra copy, or either of the last named Books.

For $10 with 10 names, or $5 with 4 names, the amusing little book, "HYMENOLOGY."

For every $1.50 subscription, "HYMENOLOGY."

We now publish a half-sheet, semi-weekly, for our County subscribers, but do not promise to continue to be at that extra trouble and expense except as long as the War News may require it and our patronage may warrant. Those who prefer a whole sheet, weekly, can have it in that form.

The "Union" newspaper was started 47 years since, and as the Senior of the Chronicle has been engaged in it 15 years, the "Star & Chronicle" may be considered as an "established" journal. It enjoys the best patronage of any in the County, making it one of the best Advertising mediums in Central Pennsylvania. We give, Officially, the County, Sheriff's, Borough and Post Office Advertising; also, Markets, Marriages, Deaths, and Local News, as well as general intelligence, and try to merit the many favors we have heretofore received from the public.

PUBLIC SALES.

As the time for Auctions is again at hand, we would remind all concerned that the STAR & CHRONICLE Office continues prepared to print Bills neatly, quickly, and on fair terms. It should also be remembered that, naturally, printed Sales bring more and better customers than written ones. The more extended is your notice, in Bills and Newspapers, the better the bargains. We notice the following Public Sales:

SAT. 8 Feb—John Reber's estate, Mifflinburg.
Thur. 6 Mar.—James R. Zeller, East Buffalo.
Wed. 12 Mar.—Jacob Dunkle, Buffalo.

☞ Wednesday morning last, the Flying Artillery—after giving three hearty cheers "to the citizens of Lewisburg for all their kindness shown them,"—departed for Harrisburg. As they were drawn up in front of the Revere House, they were generally acknowledged to be the most robust set of soldiers that have yet left our place. They are from Center mostly but a few from adjoining counties. Ten others have since left. We have found among them some of the most respectable, intelligent, and well-behaved gentlemen, a few—as in every Company, and every Town—who were noisy and vicious and (like other men where they are furnished with liquor) sometimes troublesome. On the whole, they have behaved themselves as well as could reasonably be expected of hale, hearty men, with little or nothing to do. We expect to hear from them, when in more active service.

The comparatively trifling discomforts felt by our citizens from a short stay of a small number of soldiers, may suggest many reflections. Suppose them quartered upon us, against our will, by the year! Suppose them to number hundreds and thousands—armed, entirely lawless, under strong excitement from victory or defeat, from want of food or money! Imagine, again, that they were foes instead of friends—that they had only shinplasters to pay for everything they chose to take—that they would drive men, women and children, from their houses and other buildings—(if nothing worse!) This latter is the common fate of towns in the Border States overrun by the Cotton State invaders. Should the "anticoercionists" and "compromisers" prevail, we should have just such marauders through Pennsylvania, devouring like locusts, and punishing like Tories or Indians!

☞ Amasa M'Coy, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in the Albany and Ballston Law Schools, has been delivering a Lecture on the position of the London Times as to our great Rebellion, which is much admired, and commended by our President, Governor, and other good judges. On the 8th Jan. at Harrisburg, it was delivered before the Legislature, who urge that it should be repeated in every county seat in the State. Judge Beaver assures us that our citizens, he thinks, would be pleased to hear it. Let those who desire, join in addressing Gov. Curtin an invitation, and a time will be fixed. Mr. M'Coy places no price upon his effort to inform and combine public sentiment, but he is entitled to a good support while in the work.

☞ The Union County Teachers' Institute, at New Berlin last week, was attended by 42 teachers, and by other friends of popular Education, who enjoyed an interesting and profitable meeting. Among the participants appear the names of Supt. Heckendorn, Profs. Leas and Sassaman, Messrs. C E Haus, C V Gundy, H Swineford, J H Smith, L E Kessler, N Ball, E R Ziegler, J A Owens, J S M'Creight, W. Leiser, J T Smith, A Schoch, M'Fall, H K Sanders, E Kohr, H D Albright, S Ziebach, J G Royer, D Kohr, Deibert, and of Misses M Metzger, Slifer, Gundy, German, Miller and Kessler. The citizens of New Berlin were earnestly thanked for their kindness. The next meeting is to be at Lewisburg, at the call of the Executive Committee—Messrs. D Heckendorn, C E Haus, and J H Smith.

☞ The Chester, (Pa.) Delaware County Republican has an extended notice of the Boat Yard of Frick and Thomas of that borough. They employ 80 hands, and advertise for 100 house carpenters and joiners for enlargement of business. They have purchased 40 acres of timberland in Upper Providence, in charge of Wm. Moore, to furnish knees, &c., for their boats. It looks as if "Bill" was driving ahead old fashion.—Adjoining their yard and wharf, is the establishment of Reany, Son, and Archbald, (the Pennsylvania Works) who are engaged in ship building for the Government.—These two enterprises have given the primeval town of Chester a great start.

☞ Esq Mertz, who returned last Wednesday with a company of visitors to the Potomac, reports all well in Capt. Thos. Chamberlin's and Capt. Roush's Companies, also Lieut Orwig and his Union county men. Capt. James Chamberlin was sick, but was thought to be better when they last inquired. The mud is now unconquerable—but the soldiers, to a man, sigh for a chance at the Rebels.

Our New Press!

To accommodate us in Job Printing, we have recently added to our stock one of NEWBERRY'S small Presses, for Labels, Cards, and small jobs generally. Come and see, and keep the little hand press in motion.

☞ Rev. Dr. Henry Harbaugh was to lecture in Wilkes Barre, Wednesday night, before the Historical Society, on "Home Feeling."

☞ Dr. James D Strawbridge, Surgeon under Gen. Rosecranz, has been visiting his friends in Danville, Lewisburg, &c.

The Penn'a Assembly adopted a set of resolutions in favor of the expulsion of Traitor Bright—3 opposing the manner of the resolves. In reality, the Legislature unanimously demanded his expulsion.

Senator Johnson read in place an Act to lay a State Road in Union and Lycoming counties—taken up, and passed finally. [We know not what it is]

Mr. Beaver has proposed in the House an act relative to road viewers in Hartley, Lewis and West Buffalo townships.

Two or three Williamsport Lawyers have started petitions to Harrisburg for a new Election (just as Breckenridge wanted "a new election" every time he was defeated in Kentucky!) in Brady township. Those who do not wish any more of the time of the Legislature wasted on this matter, may better remonstrate or memorialize against putting the people there to any more trouble or expense, as both parties, in Harrisburg and at home, agreed to submit to the decision of the ballot-box.

Tuesday and Wednesday last, Gen. Grant, with a Union force, was up the Tennessee River, near a supposed Rebel force of 15,000, at Fort Henry. Grant has ten gunboats, which threw some shells into the enemy's entrenchments. A great contest is expected. Our troops are now in Tennessee, and threaten both Bowling Green and Columbus, in Kentucky.

The minute details of the Battle between Somerset and Mill Spring, in Kentucky, prove it to have been more disastrous, to the Rebels, than Bull Run was to us. The Rebel loss in Kentucky is now put down at 400 killed and drowned, 1200 wounded, 700 prisoners and deserters, 18 guns and a great amount of supplies, with the army broken up, and good forts and a large territory given up to the Unionists. Our loss was small.

The last London Times professes a strong opposition to any interference in American affairs, yet abuses the Unionists roundly. Our official intelligence from Europe is represented as friendly and hopeful to the U.S.

Toombs, two Cobbs, and Crawford of Georgia have issued a Circular. It urges every woman and child to burn down every city and village, and men to "prefer even the charnel house as a home" for slaves, wives and children, rather "than loathesome vassalage to a nation already sunk below the contempt of the civilized world." These traitors evidently see halters around their own necks, and seek to drag all their countrymen into their own desperate condition.

FROM RICHMOND—reports of a riot, cheering for the Union, and city under martial law. No particulars.

A singular coincidence is presented in the fact, that two battles fought on Sunday, have resulted in disaster to the commander who made the attack. Gen. M'Dowell, who led the assault at Bull Run, was defeated—while Gen. Zollicoffer, who opened the fight at Somerset, lost his life. So the attack on Big Bethel, and several other movements, begun for Sunday work, resulted disastrously. We leave the reader to make his own comments.

Mrs. Sarah Larrabee, of Rockville, Mass., has now four sons, seventeen grandsons and one great grandson in the army. The old lady of 85 years walked to Salem on Tuesday last, to see the last of them depart for the battle-field, and then walked back, about six miles.

ARMY LETTERS.

From Capt. Hassenplug's Company.

FORT HATTERAS, N.C.

Dear Parents—We left Fortress Monroe on the night of the 11th Jan; it was a beautiful night, and I stood on the upper deck until 11 o'clock.

Jan 12. Woke about daylight. Found quite a change: previous mornings, there was such an uproar and disturbance, that no one could rest; but, this morning, all was quiet. On the first deck, I found Jno Lloyd and some of the other boys, sitting around, looking very much downcast. I inquired what the trouble was. Some felt giddy, and sick on their stomach; others said they had to "vomit all their insides out;" many wished they had never seen the Ocean. I felt good, and kept the upper deck; but most of the six Companies on board kept their berths during the day. I thought the waves ran high, and the boat rocked. Not much could be seen, on account of a fog. About noon, we heard a steam whistle; we replied, and after a time met a little propeller, which had lost her course, with Gen. Burnside on board; the Captains spoke to each other through their trumpets; we soon left them in the rear. Afternoon, the fog disappeared, but nothing was in sight, save sea-gulls, and the sandy coast, with here and there a few houses, trees and wrecks. All looked sad and dreary on our right; in front and on our left, were the mad waves lashing each other into a perfect foam. As I stood on the hurricane deck, watching, there came into my mind of terrible shipwrecks—the burnings of vessels on the sea, the unfortunate crew, frantic with fear, grasping and clinging to broken spars and timber, to save their lives, but finally perish in the bosom of the waters. Then, imagination wandered towards the home of my childhood; I could see you all, and hear mother "wonder where her soldier-boy is to-day!" Everything appeared natural, as though I was in reality with you, but instead of that, I was floating on the billows of the Atlantic. I have spent Sundays in the quiet of home, on the plains of Kansas and Mexico, in the camp, and on the tented field—but never, never while I live, will I forget the first Sunday I spent on the Ocean. The sea became rougher, and I was obliged to cling to the timber to keep on deck. After the sun had set, the waves swept over the second deck. Our Captain said it was too late to attempt to enter so dangerous a place as Hatteras Inlet: he turned about and sailed the back track until midnight: met Burnside and the propeller, and told him he had better hold up, but on B. went for the inlet: we did not anchor, as it is unsafe in a storm.

Jan. 13. After a good night's rest, I went on deck—found the boys sicker than ever, and the boat about the place where we turned back last night. The waves rolled and tossed us tremendously. Saw several steamers—one was towing Burnside's propeller. About 11, A.M., the Fort was in sight: the Rebels built it, on the point of a neck of pure sand, and it has been repaired since its damage by Butler's expedition: and a few cabins, where soldiers are quartered, can be seen from deck. A small steamer came out to pilot us in across the breakers. More vessels are said to be wrecked at this point than at any other cape in the United States. The breakers are caused by the waters of the Ocean and the Sound coming in contact. Many vessels are now across, and the ocean is full as far as we can see.

Jan. 14. The past night has been very stormy, and continued so during the day, many of the vessels in the harbor floating to and fro, their anchors not being able to hold them. To-night, the boys have a great time writing, as to morrow we can send our letters ashore. Probably it will be the last opportunity for many of us to write home, as we expect an engagement within four days, but where we will land I am unable to say. Remember me to all.

[Correspondence of the Star & Chronicle.]
Head Quarters 531 Reg. Pa. V.C.
Camp California, near Alexandria, Va., Jan. 30.

Almost three months have gone by since "Co. H." was organized at Camp Curtin, and went forth to the field of action. During all this time, I have had the privilege of reading your excellent paper, but am sorry to say, that I have not seen in it a single letter from the 531 Reg. I have often wondered why this was so, for there are several Companies, principally composed of men from Union county, belonging to this Reg. Knowing that there are others here, far more competent to address you, than I am, I yet have concluded to assume the responsibility of penning you a few lines, that your readers may be aware that there are loyal men from Union county in the 531 as well as in many other Regiments from the patriotic "Key Stone State," that so nobly supports the arch on which depends the only hope of the prosperity of our once glorious nation, One and Inseparable.

We are assigned to Brig Gen. French's Brigade, Sumner's Division, on the line of battle on the Potomac, and occupy a position about three miles from Alexandria, on the Orange, Alexandria, & Manassas Gap R R. Our Regiment presents as fine an appearance as any I have seen in the service, and if good officers, good men, good arms, willing hearts, strict military discipline, constitute a good Regiment, then we claim to be classed among that number; and having become well accustomed to the life that a soldier leads, and being able to endure and perform all that is required of us, this Regiment will be one of the first to move forward to the scene of conflict, and will, we feel sure, if ever brought into action, do efficient service.

Our Colonel, John R. Brooke, is a young man of unimpeachable character, well worthy the position he occupies. He was in the Utah expedition, and had also a commission in the three months' service. His habits are strictly temperate, and he is exact in military matters with his men; he need give a command but once.

Our Lieut. Colonel, Richard M'Michael, who hails from Reading, Pa., is one of those men that you need meet but once to feel that you have secured a friend. When off duty, he is always among the boys, recognising every one with a radiant smile, or passing joke, which often creates no small amount of merriment. Woe betide the man, who would dare utter one word disrespectful of the "Old War Horse" or "Uncle Dick M'Michael." He was in service throughout the Mexican Campaign, and was also Lieut. Col. in one of the three months' Regiments.

Our Major, Thomas Yeager, from Allentown, Pa., was Captain of a Company in the three months' service, and possessing skill in acquiring military discipline, is well qualified to fill his position.

Our Quartermaster, Jacob Rice, was a citizen of Luzerne county. We have been indeed fortunate in procuring the services of one so well adapted, in every respect, to perform his duties. He has the warmest thanks of the entire Regiment for his many manifestations of goodness.

But, dear Chronicle, my letter would be far too lengthy if I were to do justice to all connected with the 53d, and hence will refer to those that I have not spoken of, (with a few exceptions,) as being men capable of discharging the duties assigned them. Among them, Capt. Church, Capt. Tate, and Lieut. Ammons, from your county, are by no means the least conspicuous.

Our Chaplain is Rev. Dan'l Barber, formerly from Washingtonville, and if there are any persons engaged in this war who have truly gone forth with the good of their fellow men at heart, he surely is one of that number. Would to God there were more such. His quarters are near the Hospital, where we have always a number of sick; he is among them day and night, and many a poor sick soldier has cause to feel thankful for delicacies procured by himself, and small sums of money bestowed with cheerfulness to purchase articles of necessity, which they could not well have enjoyed without his aid. His kind labors will not soon be forgotten, neither can they be too highly appreciated, and I am sure if there is a "haven of rest" in the future, then our good Chaplain bids fair to reach "that shining shore," about which he has so much to tell us.

The weather has been very unfavorable for soldiering, during the last month. It has rained almost incessantly, in consequence of which we have drilled very little. The camp and roads are in such a horrible muddy condition that supplies are forwarded with great difficulty. If some of your readers, who are accustomed to the enjoyment of a pleasant home in the winter season, were here a short time, they would very willingly come to the conclusion, that the soil of Virginia was not so "sacred," after all, as some would make it to be—at least, during a wet term. But, with all the inclemencies of the weather, and the great amount of mud in which we are at times almost entirely submerged, the men are by no means dispirited. They are only weary of the monotony produced and the inactivity that must necessarily prevail during such a season; and when sunshine again greets us, and the roads become passable, everything will move off briskly. It is the general opinion of men here who seem to think they know, that the bad state of the roads only has prevented an advance into the interior of the State. This is only supposition, yet we believe many days will not pass by until the great features of this campaign will be fully developed, and the people behold how wisely Gen. M'Clellan has employed the time in maturing them. Let the trying hour come when it may, you can feel hopeful of success on the Potomac. Our troops are well disciplined, and eager for the fray.
