MARCH!

BY BAYARD TAYLOR—IN THE N.Y. TRIBUNE.

With rushing winds, and gloomy skies,
The dark and stubborn Winter dies:
Far-off, unseen, Spring faintly cries,
Bidding her earliest child arise:
March!

By streams still held in icy snare,
On Southern hill-sides, melting bare,
O'er heids that motley colors wear,
That summons fills the changeful air:
March!

What though conflicting seasons make
Thy days their field, they woo or shake
The sleeping lids of Life awake,
And Hope is stronger for thy sake,
March!

Then, from thy mountains, ribbed with snow,
Once more thy rousing bugles blow,
And East and West, and to and fro,
Proclaim thy coming to the foe:
March!

Say to the picket, chilled and numb,
Say to the camp's impatient hum,
Say to the trumpet and the drum,
"Lift up your hearts! I come, I come!
March!"

Cry to the waiting hosts that stray
On sandy Sea-sides far away,
By marshy isle and gleaming bay,
Where Southern March is Northern May:
March!

Announce thyself with welcome noise
Where Glory's victor eagles poise
Above the proud, heroic boys
Of Iowa and Illinois:
March!

Then down the long Potomac's line
Shout like a storm on hills of pine,
Till ramrods ring and bayonets shine:
"Advance! the Chieftain's call is mine:
MARCH!"

A Negro's Account of the Wildcat Retreat.

An owner whose slave accompanied a young Confederate officer on the Wildcat expedition, asked the darkey, on his return to Nashville, how long the army was on the march from its encampments to the battle field?

"About four days," was the reply.

"Well, how long were they in marching back?"

"About two days, Massa."

"Why, how is that, Joe? Could the men travel any faster back, when they were broken down with a four days' march, and a severe fight, than they traveled forward after a good rest in camp?"

"Oh, I'll tell you what made the difference, massa," said old Joe, "it was the music. They marched toward Wildcat to the tune of Dixie. When they marched back, the tune was, 'Fire in the mountains—run, boys, run!"

☞Having now obtained a Foot-hold among the Fre-Mont-ains of Tennessee, we intend sending our Porter or a Butler with a message to our old Burn-sided friends, Grant ing them the privilege of paying their debts to the North, as well as securing their "rights," of which they Bragg so much. May the Pillow under their leaders' heads be as scorpions until they pay the Price of treason, and their traitor carcases be Polk'd into the Toombs.

Where is Your Boy?—We saw him last, late in the evening, in company of very bad boys, and they each had a segar. And now and then some of them used very profane language. As we looked at your son, we wondered if you knew where he was, and with whom he associated. Dear friend, do not neglect that boy. He will bring sorrow into your household, if you do not bring proper parental restraint to bear upon him—and that very soon.

A NICE PLACE.—A correspondent in our army in South Carolina says that the soldiers at Port Royal and Tybee are having fresh shad and green peas, brought in to them by the negroes. It is as warm as summer, and corn and grass are from six inches to a foot high. They will have green corn presently.

"Abolitionists."

According to our neighbors of the Democratic presses, hosts of people in the Northern States are turning to be Abolitionists. For instance, Gen. Butler has turned Abolitionist. Col. John Cochrane, delegate in 1860 to the Charleston Convention, has joined the Abolitionists. The editor of the Albany Argus advocates arming the slaves; of course he too must be an Abolitionist. Dickinson also endorses the same doctrine. In fact, leading Democrats who are Democrats, are becoming Abolitionists; the "bogus," like Polk, Green, Breckenridge, and a host of others, going over, body and breeches, to the South. Our neighbors will soon be "the last end of nothing—hammered out small." The Commonwealth, a leading paper published at Frankfort, Ky., says, that those who do not endorse the doctrine of Gen. Cameron, are infinitely worse than open and avowed Rebels. So the Kentucky press is going over to Abolitionism. The Christian churches, the Army, and a vast majority of the people, are all abolitionists. Democratic Editors! if your definition is right, you must make up your mind to live among an Abolition people, or pull up stakes and migrate to "Dixie."

"PATENT" DEMOCRACY.—The "retired" James, whose "sands of life," &c., having been asked what the present Democratic party was? replied:

"When a man who votes, does not know what the man he votes for means, and the man he has voted for doesn't know what he means himself—that is Democracy."

The Editor of the West Bend (Wis.) Post is in trouble. All his hands enlisted, and he went down to Milwaukee in search of others. He engaged a jour. for six months, took him home, and the same day he found him sworn into service for the war. The editor's wife has now gone to type-sticking, and he advertises for wooden legged printers.

A young man of our acquaintance, who is paying his addresses to a lady, stayed so late, a few evenings since, that the family were compelled to whitewash the wall the next morning to obliterate his shadow.

A man is a brute, to be jealous of a good woman; a fool, to be jealous of a worthless one; but a double fool to cut his throat for either of them.

ADVERTIZE.—Manufacturers, Merchants, Mechanics, Public Officers in City and Country, Publishers—all who wish to buy or sell—would do well to employ the columns of the Lewisburg Chronicle, which has a large and increasing circulation in a community containing a large proportion of active, solvent producers, consumers and dealers, as any in the State.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,

which is entirely vegetable, and contains no spirit.

(From J. Newton Brown, D. D., late editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.)

Although not disposed to favor proprietary Patent Medicines in general, the case of Hoofland's German Bitters is one in which I feel bound to depart from my rule, and to bear my testimony to their virtues. I do this the more readily because I have had the opportunity of knowing the composition of the article. I consider it a fine tonic, and in my judgment, will prove highly beneficial in cases of debility and disease of the digestive organs. Yours, truly,

J. NEWTON BROWN.
