Hear the Southern Union Presses!

The Nashville Union, printed under the eye of Gen. Andy Johnson, is just about the truest and boldest Union paper published in any Slave State. Its motto is, "For Freedom and Nationality," and it is lived up to. Here is an extract from its issue of the 24 inst.:

"While Northern 'conservative' editors are perpetually clamoring against the confiscation of Rebel property, and declaring that a severe policy is unconstitutional, the Southern men who have been witnesses of the acts of the Rebels, and who love their country better than property, are calling on the Government to be more severe and more rigorous."

The Point Pleasant Register (of West Virginia) has been provoked to say—

"We know of some trifling devils, who are not worth five cents on the dollar of the debts they owe, and who couldn't buy a nigger if they were selling at a dollar per dozen, that are blathering about Southern Rights, applying the term 'Abolitionist' to loyal men generally, and make more fuss about the irrepressible nigger than the largest slaveholder in the county. In nine cases out of ten, they are composed of that class of contemptible bootlicks who hang around men of worth and position, and stand ready to do their fighting in the hopes of currying favor."

This is the class of creatures in the North who are shouting "Abolitionist" at every earnest friend of the Union.

The Louisville Democrat hits the Rebel sympathizers in the Free States, thus:

"The Secesh in different counties are getting up tickets, and calling themselves the Democratic party. Things offensive to one's olfactories don't change their scent upon a change of name."

The plot is rapidly revealing itself, and to our mind it is as clear as daylight that there is a faction in the North, professing conservatism, composed of old Whigs and Democrats, who have a perfect understanding with the Rebels, and who for selfish purposes are trying to break up the Union.

A few days ago, one of these Constitution-loving, Conservative Members of Congress, who used to be a pet with the Southern chivalry, made a speech, so violent against the Administration, and so partial to the South, that it called out the following compliment from a leading Rebel paper:

[From the Richmond Dispatch, June 21.]

"We print to-day the speech of Ben Wood, of New York, delivered in the Federal House of Representatives. It will be perused with interest by every one who remembers the gallant position he maintained in defense of the South long after the commencement of hostilities, in the very midst of fanaticism and star spangled banners, paying no heed to the clamors of the mob, but boldly and fearlessly bearding the lion in his den."

Can such "conservatism" as this be misunderstood? We quote, in conclusion, a paragraph from a "conservative" paper, the Chicago Times:

"The country, the Government, the Constitution, and the Union, must be saved; and the greatest enemies of them all are mad Abolitionists, that at this time have so much numerical strength in the control of the affairs of the nation."

So we must let the Southern Confederacy alone, and turn our thunders on Wendell Phillips and a handfull of Northern ultraists, who have neither position or numbers! Why is it, that, when Rebels have an army of 400,000 in the field, and are fighting with furious desperation, this mad-dog cry of abolitionism is kept up by a class of editors and politicians who were always noted for the disposition to fawn on and truckle to these Southern oligarchs who are now in arms against the Republic? Watch them!—Nashville Union.

SLAVEHOLDERS' OATHS.—About two thousand claims have been made under the bill abolishing slavery in the District of Columbia. Some of the claimants are of very doubtful loyalty—but they take the oath of allegiance for the sake of the pay. One of these men, well known for his treasonable affinities, was asked by a loyal friend how he managed to take the oath. His reply was: "I consider myself in the hands of the Yankees, a prisoner, and whatever I do, to save life or property, is really forced out of me; I am not responsible for it. And when my Southern friends take possession here, if they ever do, I shall consider myself absolved from any oaths I may have taken to keep myself out of jail!" This was cool, and particularly Southern in its style of morality. At least one fourth of the money appropriated under the emancipation bill will go into the hands of Rebels; but, as they readily take the oath, there is no help.

The Bloomington Pantagraph (Illinois) has a letter from its army correspondent at Jackson, Tenn., which states that Gen. John A. Logan (late Representative in Congress of "Egypt") recently made a speech to his soldiers, wherein he declared that he had been long enough nosed about by Southern politicians, and had seen enough of their cursed "institution," and hoped never to sheath his sword until it was thoroughly wiped out. Six months in the Union service, will make almost any Democrat, who has eyes and a heart, feel just so.

Calhoun Benham was Judge Terry's aid in the murder of Broderick, and one of those sent to Fort Lafayette as a traitor. He was released, by his Union friends, and now turns up as Aid to Beauregard at the battle of Shiloh or Pittsburg Landing. Of course it was very "unconstitutional" to cage the rascal, but all lawful for him to fight in the Rebel army!

One of the Louisiana "Tigers," captured by Fremont, was sent into Pennsylvania, with his slave. When the latter found he was really free, he "embraced the opportunity" to give his old master a flogging, in return for the many he had before received. The by-standers looked on composedly, until they thought the tamed "Tiger" had enough, when the contraband was ordered to stop, and "call it even."
