Court Weeks in Pennsylvania.

A York State Editor, who has become fascinated with the legal institutions of our old Keystone State, says it is worth something to see the law put on its dignity and a clean shirt collar, in a country town, four or five times a year. We like it. Of course, there is not the starch and ceremony attendant upon the wigged and gowned and powdered Judges of the Assizes in olden time, when a Judge was supposed to be a little more than a man. Still there is a dignity, or solemnity, or a something, we hardly know what, in seeing one man or three men quietly slip from the crowd to the bench and set the machinery in motion by which men and nations rise and fall. And there's a kind of hearty self-satisfaction in the tones of the Crier, as he calls out, "Hear ye! hear ye! hear ye! all persons bound to sue or plead before our Honorable Judges now holding the Court of Common Pleas, Quarter Sessions, Oyer and Terminer and Orphan's Court, in and for the body of the county of Union, may at this time draw near and they shall be heard." (He used to say, in an under tone, "God save the Commonwealth and the Honorable Court." But we suppose that now he thinks the Commonwealth is old enough to take care of herself; and the Court grants so many Licenses it is past praying for.) So the people of the realm doff their hats and draw near with becoming reverence.

Pretty soon the Grand Jurymen are called. They walk into the box with faces as long as a bachelor's at his eleventh hour wedding. And don't you know that there's something grand in being a juryman of the realm—particularly a Grand Juryman! With what round eyed wonder do the little ones read the Sheriff's notice to the head of the house to go up to Court and do justice between man and man, punish crime, and promote the public weal! And what a grand idea the little ones get of father's consequence, from that very hour! Of course, he must be a big man, or the Court wouldn't want him to help them try law suits! And mark what quiet airs your Juryman puts on, in view of that "distinguished consideration!" for you must not forget that it is an honor, and so considered. Many a man has taken it in high dudgeon because the turn of the wheel didn't bring his name into the Jury list. And why shouldn't he! The right of trial by a jury of his peers, is one of the dearest rights of an Anglo-Saxon; and the luck to be a Juryman ought to be coveted. And how solemnly he kisses his wife and children as he departs for Court, to be gone a whole week—a little age to them! And what fine stories he tells them by the old firelight when he returns, of the sights he saw, and the things he heard! And how little eyes open in wonder at what the lawyers said to the jury, and how the Judge snubbed the lawers, and how this lawyer pitched into that one, and how the father went to pay $1 50, for the SUN & CHRONICLE, and what he saw there! Yea, verily! many a great man's first dream of greatness dates back to the old hearth at home where he listened to the story of his father's first week at Court.

The Constables are an important spoke in the Judicial wheel. They are the scouts, or sentinels, thrown out to reconnoiter and report upon the roads, the bridges, the taverns, &c. See them march up in row to make their returns, as grave as the Judge himself. See how that slippery fellow looks down to his feet and spits when the Judge asks him if he is sure there are no peddlers of forty rod whiskey in his bailiwick, just as though he didn't exactly know what he'd better say about it!

The Tipstaves should not be overlooked, for they are the most troublesome toads in the puddle. How narrowly they eye your big noisy boots, and how patronizingly they pat you on the back and whisper—"A little less noise, there—the Court is terrible cross!" They are always good fellows, if you keep your place—otherwise, look out for a poke in the ribs.

But Lawyers are the life of the Court—next to the Judge, the real running gears—the big guns of the concern. They are a kind of necessary evil. You can't well get on without them. You can always tell one afar off. No matter whether he has a case or not, he is sure to be known of all men and some women. Those having least to do, generally make the most fuss about it. All very soon learn the legal attitude and courtly practice—both feet on the table, and foretop stuck up, while the owner is constantly talking or making a noise just when some one is saying something you want to hear. This is to let you know that fine speeches and smart sayings, are alike unimportant to them—they know it all, now, and must attend to business! Smart chaps, they!

Then look over the audience, when the Court is full and in full blast. See what a variety of heads and faces! Isn't it a fine field for the humpologist! Read the Jury if can, and tell the verdict in advance. See how this man opens his whole nature to a crafty advocate who reads him through and through. His face is like putty on which you can make any impression you please. And see how that one draws back into himself and shuts out the most expert student of human nature, while you think you read him through, you don't know his alphabet. And there's another class whose faces are expressionless, and who know and care little about anything except to follow the leading minds in the Jury room.

But all this is foreign to our purpose. It is like some speeches, touching everything but the case in hand. We set out to say that the Union County Court meets in Lewisburg Monday the 15th Dec., 1862—and that any good man or woman, boy or girl, who wants our paper can find some neighbor to bring along the money for it—$1 pays for 8 months, $1.50 for 12 months, $2 for 18 months, and so on. Four copies in clubs for $5, and ten for $10. Cash always in advance. Best and cheapest paper in the county—always right—send along your money—thankee! and

A Right Happy Thanksgiving to All!

Save Scraps of Paper, Rags, etc.

In consequence of the great increase in the prices of paper for printing, writing, etc., it will be well for persons to save useless letters, (which they can tear into small pieces,) envelopes, old account books with the covers off, old pamphlets, in fact everything in the paper line, even to scraps of newspapers. These command now from one to three cents per pound, which prices will pay. Boys and girls can make holiday money by attention to this matter.

We would also advise persons to save cotton and woolen rags, old carpets, etc. This refuse now brings from ten to eleven cents per pound.

When a half sheet of paper will do in writing, do not use a whole one. Let your children practice on the slate, to learn writing, at school, instead of wasting white paper. Use shavings and matches in lighting fires, instead of old paper.

If people generally would pay attention to this apparently small, though, in the aggregate, very important matter, the prices of paper could, in a measure, be kept down to comparatively reasonable figures. If not, every newspaper, book, and magazine, hereafter printed, must raise their rates of prices. Much material has been wasted heretofore, which may be saved hereafter.

Three Largest States.

The three largest States of the Union offer a wonderful proof of the occasional power of small majorities. Thus—the

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| New York Opp. maj. on Congress is | | | 7,362 |
| Ohio | do | do | 1,755 |
| Pennsylvania | do | do | 386 |
| Total maj. in the 3 States | | | 9,503 |

That 9,503 maj. gives the Opp. a maj. of THIRTEEN Congressmen in those three States—less than a thousand each.

Massachusetts gave 25,000 Adm. maj.

So the surplus Rep. vote of Mass. could have carried N Y., Penn. and Ohio, and then have 15,000 left to make New Jersey and Delaware all right!

Vermont gave 23,000 Adm. maj.
Iowa gave 15,000 "

Either of these States offsett New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio's Opposition majority.

THE SAME, EVERYWHERE.—In the old World, the lovers of Freedom and America everywhere lament the late victories of the opponents of the Administration in our Loyal States. The lovers of despotic and aristocratic rule sing, "Aha! aha! so would we have it."

Our friends, the liberal English papers, denounce the operations of the "290" as piracy, and demand its capture. But the London Times and all the Tory presses defend and applaud that pirate.

—These are facts. We earnestly ask those well-meaning, right-hearted citizens who vote a certain ticket because it has the label "Democrat," Why is it that the Rebels in arms, and the life-long enemies of our country abroad, rejoice in the success of that ticket? Must they not have some plot or agreement with your leaders?

NEW YORK.—Seymour has 10,613 maj. Opp. maj on Congress, 7,362. There is 10 Republican maj in Legislature.

| | |
|---|---|
| Rep. vote less than in 1860 | 66,156 |
| Opp. do | 5,724 |
| Vote reduced by | 71,880 |

All informal returns from the Army give 7 votes for Wadsworth to 1 for Seymour.

☞The Lewistown Democrat makes a shrewd guess that the Democrats in Union Tp, Tioga Co, Pa., must have enlisted—as not one voted. But twenty Democrats, in 1860, voted there, two of whom, with one hundred and two Republicans, have since volunteered. The remaining 18 doubtless are converted to our side—or, wouldn't vote so as to suit Jeff. Davis!

☞Another man in New York city has been convicted of helping slave trading, and is sentenced for five years. Thus is the Administration in earnest in putting down that abhorred traffick.

☞Sermon in the Presbyterian house, Lewisburg, 10½ o'clock, morning of Thanksgiving, (Thursday 27th inst.,) by Rev. R. A. Fink.

☞We learn that Captains Crotzer and Owens are on the sick list.

Nine pickpockets were arrested last week in Harrisburg. Twice have lodgers in Herr's hotel been robbed, their rooms first having been entered by false keys, and a stupor caused by chloroform. Be careful when traveling, not only there but everywhere else.

A young man has just been sentenced to death, in Pittsburg, for stabbing an entire stranger, when drunk, evening after 4th of July.

A stranger named Briggs (supposed to be intoxicated) fell into the Outlet Lock in Middletown, Wednesday night, and was drowned.

A Cleveland paper says the people of that town are using mouse-traps, old jack knives, and shirt buttons, for "small change."

Brig. Gen. Neal Dow, of Maine Liquor Law notoriety, is now commander at Pensacola, Fla., in place of Col. Wilson.

Pres. Allen has resigned the Presidency of Girard College, and retires to his home in Bucks county.

Year Past of the War.

WHAT HAS BEEN GAINED.

At length, the forces of the Union, nearly a million strong, seem advancing by sea and land from every side against that portion of our land still cursed by the despotic, bloody rule of the slaveholders' rebellion. Such an advance has already been attempted, but baffled. Yet, it would be absurd to say that the Union arms have made "no progress." We appeal to the most undeniable facts.

One year ago, the Rebels held the southern shore of the Potomac from a point not far below Washington, with Norfolk, Yorktown, and that portion of Virginia which lies on the Eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay. Now, all this is in the undisturbed possession of the Unionists.

One year ago, they held Centreville, Manassas Junction, Leesburg, Harper's Ferry, and the south bank of the Potomac, above Washington, for fifty or sixty miles, whence they inflicted on us the sad disaster of Ball's Bluff. Now, these are all in Union hands; and our main army threatens theirs across the upper Rappahannock, and renders their possession of the Shenandoah valley precarious and unsafe.

One year ago, we stood on the defensive in Eastern Virginia, holding only a diminutive crescent over against Washington and a like patch under the guns of Fortress Monroe. Now we hold at least a half of the Old Dominion, and are likely soon to hold more.

One year ago, Kentucky was mostly in Rebel possession. Their main Western Army, under Sidney Johnson, lay strongly intrenched at Bowling Green, while Bishop Polk barred the Mississippi against us from his strong and well manned fortifications at Columbus. Marshall and Zollicoffer threatened us further East, and kept down East Tennessee in their rear. Now, Kentucky, though repeatedly traversed and ravaged by the Rebels, is virtually deserted by them.

One year ago, South-Western Missouri, unwisely abandoned on the displacement of Fremont from command there, was given up to Rebel marauders, with most of the Southern part of the State. Now, scarcely a guerrilla band, and no formidable force of Rebels, remains within the State, which Rebel murders and robberies have nearly converted to the most radical advocacy of Emancipation.

One year ago, Arkansas had not seen the Federal flag waving since Treason expelled it from her soil. Since then, several bloody battles have been fought within her limits, every one resulting in a Union victory, and a Union army has traversed the State from the Boston Mountains to the Mississippi, without serious opposition. Arkansas has had very nearly her fill of rebellion.

One year ago, no Federal flag waved in Tennessee, though one-third of her people were loyal to the Union cause. To-day, we hold her capital, Nashville, her only considerable port, Memphis, and a large portion of her territory, and all her navigable waters. Alas for the fatality, the imbecility, the treason, which have thus far precluded our penetrating and liberating that home of persecuted, butchered, but unfaltering Unionism, gallant, glorious East Tennessee!

One year ago, the Mississippi below Cairo was exclusively in Rebel hands. To-day, the Union flag floats over every mile of it but for a league or so opposite Vicksburg; while New Orleans, the chief mart of the Rebel Empire, the emporium of the Great Valley, has been undisputedly ours for more than half a year.

One year ago, we held no part of North Carolina but Fort Hatteras. Now, we hold Newbern, Washington, and two-thirds of her coast, and control the waters of Albermarle Sound.

One year ago, we held no part of Georgia, save it may be some little island. Since then, we have captured and firmly hold Fort Pulaski, shutting the port of Savannah against blockade breakers and privateers.

One year ago, we held not a foot of Texas. Now, Galveston, Sabine Pass, and all her ports, repose under the folds of the Federal flag.

One year ago, a Rebel expedition from Texas had overrun a great part of New Mexico, worsted our little army there in a pitched battle, and threatened to annex the whole vast territory to Jeffdom. Arizona was already in the possession of the Rebels. Since then, they have been whipped, routed, chased home, (where but a disorganized remnant arrived,) and New Mexico, with Arizona, is now completely restored to the Union.

One year ago, the Rebels held Pensacola, and nearly all the ports of Florida, threatening to capture Fort Pickens. Now, those forts are nearly all in Union hands, and a very moderate force would suffice, by the help of the Proclamation of Freedom, to restore the State wholly to the Union.

Our blockade of the Rebel coast is far more effective than one year ago, mainly because the ports to be closed have been reduced fully one-half.

Such are the auspices under which our strongly re-enforced and re-organized armies are about to advance for a final struggle with the half-clad, half-shod, ill-fed, shivering, "poor whites," who are forced by a relentless conscription to fight the battles of Aristocracy, and Slavery—the battles of a privileged, bullying caste—against their own rights, and those of mankind. If the Slaveholding villains who concocted this most atrocious rebellion, were alone to suffer its unutterable woes, there would be little cause for regret; and we trust that our commanders will take care to bear heavily upon them, and let off the duped, misled, deluded poor, who form the rank and file of the Rebel forces, as easily as possible.

THE UNION FLAG NOW FLOATS IN EVERY STATE OF THE OLD UNION!

Former officers who have proved incompetent, half-hearted, or corrupt, have been weeded out, at least to some extent, and our officers are now, mostly, true and TRIED MEN, and our men more disciplined and earnest.

Let us, then, be hopeful. Although disappointed in the past, we may look for a brighter future.

WHAT'S BECOME OF ALL THE SPECIE?

What's become of all the specie?
Where are all the dollars gone?
Nothing but shinplasters greasy
Do our meagre pockets own.
Have the banks for ever suspended?
Shall we not, Oh ragged times,
See each biller's hard lot mended
By the ring of silver chimes?
What's become of all the specie,
Banks and brokers ought to know,
Still new rags come forth to fleece ye,
Postal stamps are all the go.

Have our dollars turned rebellious,
With some cash grabbing cashier?
Or has they melted all our pewter,
Thats plated and dished our fare?
Round with notes I now folks ranging,
And for change they beg and bawl,
But, though prices are daily changing,
Still we know no change at all!

Have our shillins mint drops, say ye,
Dropt away buying meals?
Has our currency, I pray ye,
Been made virtuous in the wall?
Every day the must is coming,
Yet no coin at all have we;
Is't shipped for lucrative Rolls shine in
To speculators across the sea?

Every one, what'er his trade is,
Can but ask, if this ado
Lasts much longer—pray, young ladies,
What will become of us and you?
In main money's speculation,
Ills will be low and high;
Belles and beaux, whate'er their station,
Can't raise a partner—not the mind!
What, then, becomes of matrimony?
Marriages will be no more,
Hymen's bank, or golden honey
Must suspend, 'mongst high and low.

Sensible---and Patriotic.

Last week, Gen. M'Clellan visited his old friend, Gen. Scott, in New York city. Some of the political tricksters and tory sympathizers attempted to get him to a "public dinner," to give them a chance (cloaked by his name) to vent their hatred of the Government: but he refused. It is a good sign to see him decline to be used by such men for the purpose of exciting prejudices and animosities, to divide the loyal people. It is creditable to him as a man, and as a citizen. The President who gave him his chance for distinction and honor, has the right to advance any other man he deems it advisable.

M'Clellan is evidently disgusted with the stupid tricks attempted to make a "martyr" and a "hero" of him. Some even propose him for Senator from a State of which he is not a citizen! They get very short speeches out of him. John Van Buren, in a drunken jubilee at a low public ball, nominated M'Clellan for President. This is the same John who would "let the wayward sisters go in peace"—let the Rebellion triumph! Does he suppose M'Clellan is of the same opinion? If not, his good name is injured by this ill-timed move for the Presidency. Let it first be determined whether we have a Union, and not try a scrub-race when the very Government is in extreme peril! No true patriot would now agitate the Presidential issue. Well may M'Clellan exclaim, "Save me from my friends"—such friends!

A young lawyer of Cincinnati, who has been recruiting an infantry company, sold himself as a substitute for a drafted man, deluding himself with the idea that the sum pocketed was so much clear gain, not deeming that he was damaging his prospects for wearing shoulder-straps. Gov. Tod, on learning the circumstance, immediately revoked his commission, and he now goes into the ranks as a private.

Rev. James Colder, with over half the former Winebrennarian church of Harrisburg, have formed a new organization, styled the "First Freewill Baptist Church of Harrisburg." They purpose erecting a house of worship, next season.

Gov. Curtin offers $500 reward for the detection of Henry Roland, of Bedford county, a deserter, who shot Lt. Baughman, who was arresting him—Baughman having since died.

Rebel letters describe Richmond as a hell upon earth. Thugs and Plug Uglys rob and murder at pleasure—hardly the show of police. Flour, $25 a barrel, and butter $1.50 a pound.

Government has "nabbed" some clerks in the Department, and in the New York custom house, engaged in "speculations" and cheating. That is the way—put the rascals through at once.

Three boys were killed by the falling of a tree in a coon hunt in Greene Co., Pa. The falling tree went in an unexpected direction, knocking down another tree and crushing the boys.

The new Republican Judges of the Supreme Court at Washington, have abolished the old silk robe wearing nonsense, and appear in Court dressed like other gentlemen.

Latest News

Gen. Sumner is before Fredericksburg, and demands its surrender. The progress of the Union army that way is hindered by the destruction of roads and bridges which have to be rebuilt.

The Rebels, reinforced, have reoccupied Holly Springs, and threaten battle. Large numbers of Union troops are going down the Mississippi, and cotton coming up.

Parson Brownlow and Congressman Maynard have reached Nashville on their way home. Warm Union meetings have been held in Nashville and in Memphis.

Sixty thousand persons have taken the Union oath in New Orleans.

Col. A. J. Hamilton, it is published, is appointed Military Governor of Texas. He never set foot on Free soil until he was driven out of Texas for being a Union man. He now approves of the Emancipation Proclamation, and says he wants the Union so established as to break up the Slave Aristocracy.

SOMERSETTS!—So long as Miles, M'Dowell, Buell, and M'Clellan, seemed not to "hurt" the Rebels more than was necessary to keep up appearances, the Democrats all complimented Generals Sprague, Hunter, Cadwallader, Halleck, Sec. Stanton, Don Piatt, &c., as "good Democrats" and "sound, National, Conservative men." But when these latter men found themselves, as patriots and honest officers, under the necessity of condemning or removing those Officers, the tune was changed at once. The self-same Sprague, Hunter, Halleck, Piatt, Stanton, Cadwallader, &c, are now "no soldiers," not only, but they are declared to be "Abolitionists—Abolitionists!" and turned over into the same pew with Lincoln, Seward, Greeley, Lovejoy, Kelly, Tom. Stevens, and all the scarecrows used to frighten Democratic children. To doubt the integrity or capacity of any Democratic idol, is to make a man an "Abolitionist!" If so, the "Abolitionists" are getting to be millions in number, and comprise far the best portion of the old Jefferson and Jackson Democracy.

A STONE WITH A HEART IN IT.—A notable instance of benevolence is related of Amasa Stone, the great railroad man of Cleveland. He was among those drafted, in Cuyahoga county, and upon learning the fact bid $200 for a substitute. Shortly after, a man applied for the position, and Mr. Stone wrote a check for the above amount. Mr. Stone, on making enquiries regarding the pecuniary affairs of the man, learned that he was poor, and and had a wife and seven children depending upon him. He recalled the check for $200, and wrote one for $2,000, and gave it to the substitute.
