WAITING !

When he comes back all glorious, Wuh the love-light in his eye, From the battle-field victorious, Who'll be happier, then, than 1? See, the big arm-chair is waiting, Vacant still, in its old place-Time ! press quickly on the hours, Till I see his pleasant face !

He was too young, they told me, To much against the foe ; Yct, when his country needed aid, His mother bade him go ! 'Twere meet slaves should tremble Whom tyrants hold in thrall ;

But MY noy was a freeman born, He went at Freedom's call.

My small, weak hand, would waver, The shortest sword to bear : But he stands steady in the ranks, And holds his musket there. My faint heart would falter, The b. t le-ground to see ;

But his is strong in Freedom's might, He fights for her and me.

I am watching still, and waiting, As mothers watch and wait. Whose sons are in the army now, And it is growing late ; My life is past its morning, It's near sunset in the sky-

Oh, I long once more to clasp him In my arms before I die. Yet farther off the army goes-

He will return no more Till our glorious flag is free again To float o'er sea and shore. Where'er it waved, in days gone by, Its folds again shall rest,

From the depths of the lowest valleys To the highest mountain crest.

And he, my boy, my darling, The pride of my old heart Where'er his place may be, I know

He will fulfill his part. Not until the war is over

Shall we meet in fond embrace-

Time ! press swiftly on the hours, Till I see his pleasant face !

Not all so Hard. "It's so hard to have nothing to eat but porridge, when others have every sort of dainty," muttered Charlie, as he sat with his wooden bowl before him.

"It's hard to get up so early, these bitter cold mornings, and work all day, when others can enjoy themselves without an hour of labor."

"It's very hard to have to trudge along through the snow, while others glide about in their sleighs."

"It's a great blessing," said his grandmother, as she sat at her knitting, "it's a great blessing, to have a roof over one's head when so many are homeless; it's a great blessing to have sight, and hearing, and strength for daily labor, when so many are blind, deaf, or suffering."

"Why, grandmother, you seem to think that nothing is hard," said the boy, still in a grumbling tone.

"No, Charlie, there is one thing that I think very hard."

"What's that?" cried Charlie, who thought that at last his grandmother had found some cause for complaint. "Why, boy, I think that heart is very bard that is not thankful for so many blemings."

The Washington Chronicle tells us, that, before the Federal army arrived in Falmouth, the Rebel authorities seized all the free negroes and slaves of suspected Union men, and sold them for the benefit of the Southern Confederacy. This most origi-nal and Christian method of raising the wind, will doubtless increase the admiration of the freemen of Britain, as well as the "Dimmicrats" of the North, for their "misguided" Southern brethren, to a greater beight than ever.

We do not see one of the sham-Demoeratic presses denouncing these acts as "unconstitutional." But they are continually harping about the "unconstitutionality" of releasing the slaves of traitors, under the act of Congress. By their own choice, traitors divest themselves of all rights under the Constitution of the United States.

"ONE SHORT."-The Delta, of New Orleans, has this paragraph :

"It strikes us that Capt.James M'Quoid, of the steamer Iberville, is in a tight place. He went up the river the other day, and upon his return yesterday he was 'one negro short.' Inquiry was instituted, and it turned out that he had sold the man. Gen. Butler has locked M' Quoid up in the Parish prison, 'there to remain until be returns the negro.' We like the condi-Planks, and a Premium for Rails and Shing-Gen. Butler has looked M' Quoid up in the tions, although old Barker will call us by the fearful name 'Abolitionist ! Abolitionist !' for saying so."

It begins to look as if lawless Power is about to be brought in subjection to Law, even in the South, where barbarous license has reigned so long and so bloodily.

"Hard Times."-We find in the Maine Repository the following in regard to this familiar old phrase :

"We know there is a cry of thard times." But, really, it is not so. Everything that the farmer raises, sells readily for money. and at a living profit. The money market, with the exception of small change, is as easy as usual. Every laboring man finds steady employment at good wages, either as a soldier or a common labore Mechanics of all kinds are in good demand at fair prices. We ought not to say "the times are bard," for two reasons : First, because it is not true ; and secondly, because the cry tends to frighten everybody, thus stagnating all kinds of business, and actually make times bard, when otherwise they would not be so."

FAITH .- Dr. Mountain, a Chaplain to Charles II, was asked one day, by that monarch, to whom he should present a erstain bishoprie, just then vacant. "It you had but faith, sire," replied he, "I could tell you who." "How so," said Charles, "if I had but faith?" "Why, yes," said the witty cleric, "your Majesty night say to this Mountain, be thou remaxed into that Sec." It was so ordered 1
