LEWISBURG, UNION CO., PA., FRIDAY, JAN. 9, 1863.

"THE UNION," established in 1814---Whole No., 2,509.

"CHRONICLE," established in 1843---Whole No., 978.

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY—

Tuesday Morning & Friday Afternoon.

☞A valuable Home is offered for sale in our paper to-day.

☞The gas in our borough is at present an uncertain commodity. What's the matter, Ralph?

☞The Philad & Erie Railroad Co. have recently placed sleeping cars on their road of the most improved kind.

☞J. A. Woodward has become associated with P. C. Van Gelder in the publication of the Williamsport Bulletin. This paper has been recently "ensmalled" to accommodate itself to the present high price of paper.

☞Every person in this vicinity who has not been vaccinated should attend to that duty at once, as that is the only safeguard against that terrible disease, small-pox, a few cases of which have made their appearance.

The Williamsport Gazette thinks the small-pox in that place has passed the climax. Since its appearance, there have been perhaps twenty or thirty cases, and two deaths.

☞Col. James Moore, late of Union Co., but now of Missouri, is spending a couple of weeks in his old neighborhood. He thinks that Secessionism in Missouri is about used up, its votaries are sick of it, and willing to give it up and live under the dominion of the Stars and Stripes, as formerly. He anticipates no more serious troubles with rebels in arms. He showed us a specimen of pure Missouri galena containing about 85 per cent. of lead, and says there is apparently an inexhaustible supply of it in that State.

☞We are indebted to some person, unknown to us for a Catalogue of the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania. It contains also a succinct history of Agricultural Education in Europe and America, together with the circumstances of the origin, rise and progress of the Agricultural College, terms of admission, &c &c. Persons wishing information in regard to to this institution will address Dr. E. Pugh, Agricultural College, Centre Co. Pa.

NEWSPAPER UNION.—The publication of the "Lancaster Union" newspaper, has been merged into that of the "Lancaster Examiner and Herald," the publishers of the former sheet, Messrs Thos. E. and J. J. Cochran, having sold their establishment to Messrs. Jno. A. Hiestand & Co., the proprietors of the latter. The Union was one of the best and stanchest Republican papers in the State, but there appeared to be no necessity for two large papers of exactly the same sentiment in Lancaster; hence its union with the Examiner and Herald.

☞The Legislature of Pennsylvania assembled on Tuesday, and organized. Geo. V. Lawrence, of Washington Co., was re-elected Speaker of the Senate, and John Cessna, of Bedford, Speaker of the House. Geo. W. Hamersley, of Philad., was elected Clerk of the Senate, and Jacob Ziegler, of Dauphin, Clerk of the House.

☞The Baptists of Pittston are about to build a house of worship.

☞The locomotive Northumberland, while moving a heavy freight train through Pittston, on the 7th inst., blew up, wounding the engineer and a brakesman severely, and others slightly.

LOSS OF THE MONITOR.—The celebrated iron battery Monitor, during a heavy sea off the coast of Hatteras, N. C., began to leak at an alarming rate, and finally sank to rise no more, on the 29th ult., taking down four officers and twelve men. This is sad news to all loyal people, not because the vessel was valuable, but because the noble deeds which it performed had enshrined it in the hearts of the American people, and revolutionized the navies of the world. It was built with a single purpose in view, and it did its duty nobly, thereby saving our vessels in Hampton Roads, and possibly, had it not been for its timely interposition, Fortress Monroe might have been wrenched from us. We all experience a certain degree of pride when we call to mind the manner in which this little naval fighting cock squared up to that terrible monster, the Merrimac, and leisurely began pounding it as a child would a rock, until it was forced to slink off to annoy us no more. This was more than any other vessel in our navy could have done; and, with a fair chance, the Merrimac might have sent half of the U. S. vessels to the bottom before they could have accomplished what the Monitor did.

The Rebels are getting fidgetty about the safety of Charleston. They doubtless have sufficient grounds for their uneasiness, for should our forces attempt its capture, there would be such a waste of saltpetre and pig metal as they never "dreamed of in their philosophy." It is hinted that an expedition is now fitting out for that purpose. We hope it is true; and should be pleased to hear of its being commanded by Ben. Butler—that hero who is so evidently loved by the Rebels!

Harrisburg Correspondence.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3, 1863.

There is little excitement here (Saturday) respecting the organization of the Legislature. Most of the Senators are present and I suppose the House members also. The attempt of certain presses to raise a clamor that an attempt was making to "arrest" or "bribe" certain Democrats to get them out of the way, is laughed at, here, as the crazy folly of some mad or wicked partizan with more moonshine than brains in his head.

The small-pox is yet troublesome in the city, and vaccination is prosecuted with none too much rigidness.

There are yet many shoulder straps and blue-coats in Harrisburg—the latter are mostly convalescents from the Hospitals: what the former are doing, nobody knows.

Gov. Curtin continues much worn down, and sometimes prostrated, from his arduous attention to the extraordinary duties of his office. He is ably aided by Sec. Slifer, his deputy Thomas, the venerable Attorney General (Meredith,) and the other officers of the Executive Department.

Capt. Henry K. Ritter is on hand, looking very robust and cheerful. He says his Company and Regiment enjoy good health, and receive the best of treatment down in "Old Virginia." Assemblyman Strouse and Senator Johnson also are here.

CAPT. RITTER.—Prompt to time, Monday last, Henry Kessler Ritter appeared in Harrisburg. He was in the 172d Pa. Reg., direct from Yorktown, Va., prepared to attend to his duties even before going to see his family. In his military dress, the Captain appears a soldier in all his many inches. He is in capital health, and says he left the men of his Regiment well, generally—Lieut. John A. Ettinger, commanding his company.

Two Democratic members of the House, and a Senator of the same stamp, are drafted men, and could not be exempt under any law. If the Republicans felt disposed to be tyrannical they could have refused to furlough these men, and thus the Republicans would have two majority, close, on joint ballot. But Gov. Curtin, considering that the people have elected these men, thought proper to parole them. They are Brown of Milton, and the two representatives from Adams. (Capt. Ritter, on our side, was not drafted, but volunteered. He also is furloughed.)

Capt. E. H. Rauch, the old Republican Clerk of the House, is serving under Col. Coulter, in the immortal 11th Pa. Reg. Capt. Rauch came to set the machinery of the House in motion, and looks rather worn by the hard service he has seen.

Of the last year's officers in the Senate, Clerks Orlady of Huntingdon and Hitchcock of Luzerne, with door keeper Bubb of Lycoming, are now in the Army, battling for their country, and Hitchcock suffering from a grevious wound received in battle.

Andrew J. Peters of the Middleburg Volksfreund, has a position in the Senate this year, in place of young Brower of the Danville American, who had an office here two years. By all accounts, Wilbur Brower was one of the most attentive and worthy officers, and I hope "Andy" will be equally faithful and popular.

The Senatorial Republican caucus was very harmonious—but little contest—and fair acquiescence in the will of the majority.

The Democratic House caucus was very exciting. It is understood by the outsiders that the "copperhead" or extreme ultra wing of the party was floored. W.

January 8.

Wednesday evening, the Democrats had their preliminary caucus relative to U. S. Senator. One of the semi-butternut stripe offered a platform so obnoxious to the more moderate and patriotic portion, that they obtained an adjournment until Monday. So says report. That party all "speak with bated breath," as if suspicious of each other, not knowing which of their incorruptible 67 may be "wigwagged" by those bugaboo of Democratic babies, David and Simon. I do not hear that any Republicans fear that any of their 66 are at all "shaky."

You remember that when Gen. Cameron visited Luzerne county on some business, the Democracy thereabout raised the alarm that their virtuous Senator, Mr. Stark, was to be seized, imprisoned, abducted, morganized, &c., "all for to" get him out of the way of the aforesaid Simon in the contest for U. S. Senate. Thereupon the presses of that pursuasion, all over the State, set up a simultaneous wail, and prophesied that "Nine Thousand Democrats of Luzerne"—(who could neither be drafted, nor coaxed to volunteer)—would "arm themselves to protect and escort Senator Stark to his seat at Harrisburg." Well, upon the organization of the Senate, all were ready, and waiting for Senator Stark. He came in at last, alone with no evidence of dungeon or "9,000 Democrats" behind him—and thus exploded that humbug!

Capt. Ritter requests me to state that his absence in the army prevented him from making out a list of persons to whom he may direct such documents as are left with him, for distribution. He therefore asks such as may desire them, to give him their names and P. O., and he will serve them in rotation as far as he is able to do so. W.

Rosecrans' Great Victory.

One of the most important achievements of the war has just taken place in Tennessee. A powerful army commanded by their most experienced Rebel officers, and apparently competent of an easy victory, were casting eager glances toward Nashville and the loyal portions of Tennessee with the view of soon driving out Rosecrans and his band of tried and true warriors, and then marching triumphantly onward to Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, desolating the rich plains of these States, and laying waste what they could not use. But how bitterly were these bright prospects wrenched from them! Rosecrans moved out from Nashville, met them at Murfreesboro, attacked them, and, after a long, terrible, appalling struggle, sent them reeling back to Tullahoma in dismay, and at latest accounts was following them, hoping to destroy or scatter the whole army. Should he succeed in doing this, the campaign in the west will be of short duration, as there appears to be no other large body of Rebels in that region, and with the glorious Army of the Cumberland, Rosecrans will make short work of smaller bodies and guerrilla bands.

GENERAL BUTLER TO GO INTO ACTIVE SERVICE AGAIN.—Gen. Butler, who arrived from New York in obedience to the summons of the President, will at once be ordered to one of the most thickly populated slave districts of the south, where he is to organize an African army wherewith to hold, occupy and possess a chain of posts guarding a most important line of communication. It is believed that the work assigned him, which he is just the man to perform, will be to his mind, and that he will speedily make the proclamation a living word to slaves.

A white man near Danville, Pa., was convicted, at last Court, of an assault with intent to commit a rape upon a girl under ten years of age, and was sentenced to proper punishment. Not one Democratic paper in the neighborhood notices the fact, nor displays it, as a proof that all white men should be slaves, and that the Rebels are just as bad as the Abolitionists. But if a black man commits the same crime, the fact is copied half a dozen times into every Democratic paper, as an argument that blacks should all be slaves, and that the "Abolitionists are just as bad as the Rebels."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' MINIATURE DIARY AND ALMANAC FOR 1863.—This convenient and beautiful little Annual is sent FREE to any Superintendent or Teacher in the United States, on receipt of a stamp to prepay the postage. It is something new, useful and attractive; and no teacher should be without it. Send for a copy to J. C. Garrigues & Co., 148 S. 4th Street, Philadelphia, Penna.

The Viceroy has ordered one-quarter of the cultivated land in Egypt to be sown with cotton. If the requirement is carried out, as no doubt it will be, the next year's crop will be two thirds greater than any that has been raised heretofore.

GREAT LONDON.—It has been ascertained that if we were to analyze the population of London, and compare the number of its individuals of each class, with an ordinary sized town, say a town with a population of 10,000, we should find in the vast metropolis as many persons as would fill two towns with Jews; ten towns with persons who work on the Sabbath; fourteen towns with habitual gin-drinkers; more than ten towns with persons who are every year intoxicated in the streets of London; two towns of fallen women, to say nothing of those who are partakers of sin; one town with gamblers; one with children trained in crime; one with receivers of stolen property; half a town with Italians; four towns with Germans; two with French; while there are as many Irish as would fill the city of Dublin; and more Roman Catholics than would fill the city of Rome. Nor is this all. There are as many publicans and beer and tobacco shops as would fill two towns of 10,000 each open every Sunday; and if we allow only twenty-five customers to each place, as representing the amount of attendance for the day, we have 500,000 people, say half a million of men and women thus occupied, while 384,015 only are attending the house of God. In London there are 50,000 public houses and beer and tobacco shops open on Sunday, and only 750 Protestant churches and chapels for divine worship.

We spend the best part of our lives in making mistakes, and the remainder in reflecting how easily we might have avoided them. The fact is that the mistakes may have been beneficial instead of the reverse, and we possibly could not have avoided them under any circumstances.

J. P. Hall has been appointed Post Master at M'Kee's Falls in place of Philip Hilbish.

☞The following letter, addressed to a sister of the late Harris Wertz, from a comrade in arms, has been handed to us for publication.—EDS.

CAMP OF 5TH REG. P. R. V. C., Dec. 26, 1862.

Your brother is no more. He fell in the recent engagement (perhaps I should say slaughter) at Fredericksburg, while gallantly charging with the rest of his comrades, to drive the enemy from their well chosen position, and with many others, he was permitted to rise no more. The ball penetrated his neck, and proved instantly fatal. A host of the enemy charging upon us this time, we were compelled to retreat in disorder, and his body could not be recovered at the time. Two days after, going out with a flag of truce, we brought out his lifeless remains, and he now lies buried upon the South bank of the Rappahannock river, one of the many noble martyrs, who have shed their blood in endeavoring to crush treason, and uphold the flag he so well loved. I assisted in carrying his body from the bloody field, and myself marked his grave, and though no fond sister was present to witness the sad spectacle, rest assured that the tears that filled his comrades' eyes and the muttered revenge over the hallowed clods, were as sincere, as heart felt, as full of meaning, as ever could be shown by any one on a similar occasion, in similar circumstances.

Y—— he has fallen—he is dead—but we have the happy assurance that they who die in so noble a cause as that which he fought to sustain shall never die. Their names shall be forever engraved upon the hearts of the millions of our own comrades and countrymen who watch the daring of the bold defenders of liberty with more sincerement. History shall record his name, future generations shall read it, and, reading, thank God for such noble hearts as his.

E. D. RIDDLE.

FOR THE STAR & CHRONICLE.

A friend writing to the Chronicle, under date of 11th Dec, has amused your army readers considerably by applying the philosophy of the dog and rabbit story to the fortunes of the Fredericksburg fight. Like your humble servant, the writer, on that eventful day, must have witnessed that fierce fight from the respectably safe position held by the patriotic crowd of quartermasters, commissaries and sutlers, on the north bank of the Rappahannock, who were held there in martial array by Burnside for the same purpose, doubtless, that the army of old women (as history does not inform us of commissaries, quartermasters and sutlers in those days) were marshalled by that out and out Scotchman Bruce, at Bannockburn. He says "If Tyler's Brigade had not broken, our division would have stormed the wall," &c. Now, when we consider the facts admitted by all, that Tyler's Brigade, when it charged went over some regiments of Allabach's brigade then lying down, and did not retire until they had advanced further than any previous brigade during the day, as their dead close by the wall testify, all must see how utterly ridiculous it is for non-combatants to draw invidious distinctions between the brave boys on the field. If that brigade had carried what an army in successive charges had failed to do during the day, "our division," as the writer says "would have stormed the wall." Now, as Tyler's brigade was the advance brigade of "our division," all required of the P. brigade was to storm in the rear of Tyler's brigade. Heaven help the fair fame of our "bold soldier boys" if the record of their deeds depends upon rumors picked up outside of fighting distance by either a commissary or A SUTLER.

Camp near Fredericksburg, Jan. 2, 1863.

On the 5th inst., Thad. Stevens, offered a joint resolution, which was passed, providing that the Government should furnish transportation to the sick and wounded soldiers who have been furloughed or discharged, as well as the remains of those who have died or been killed in the service. Right.

A man by the name of John Barnes, was so much injured in the head, on Tuesday of last week, in Penn township Lycoming county, by a tree falling on him, that he died on the following day. The deceased was from Wellsborough, Tioga county, where we understand he leaves a family of children.

North Carolina papers are full of complaints at an order from Gen. French directing the burning of all the cotton in the counties bordering on the Roanoke river which is not moved west of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad by the 15th inst.

A gang of guerrillas passing the house of a Union man in Kentucky, recently shot his wife who appeared at the window. It is believed that this "Confederate success" will increase the chances of recognition by the European powers.

Maj. Sprague, of the U. S. Army, has been allowed leave of absence till further orders. This is to enable him to accept the position of Adjutant-General of the State of New York under Gov. Seymour's Administration.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad having refused to convey the mails between those cities, for the compensation authorized by law, the service will be suspended from the first of January.

A telegraph dispatch dated 8th Dec., from Titusville, states that 400,000 gallons of petroleum oil were lost by the ice cutting through the boats on their way to Pittsburg.

The ship Sea King, which sailed from San Fancisco for Liverpool on the 9th of September, was lost when ten days out, and all on board perished save the third mate.

It is "expected" that trains will run over the entire line of the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad in July next.

The German Reformed Church will celebrate the present year, 1863, as the three hundredth anniversary of the Heidleberg Catechism as the rule of its faith,—that formulary having been adopted in the year 1563—three hundred years ago.

It is stated that 9,309 applications have been made for pensions under the act of July last—9,019 in the army, and 290 in the navy.

The passenger trains of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad now run to Grove Flat, two miles east of the first fork of the Susquehanna, and about 48 miles west of Lock Haven.

Portions of six Illinois regiments have just arrived at St. Louis. They were taken prisoners in Tennessee by Brig. Gen. N. B. Forrest, commanding the Tennessee cavalry, to the number of 800 with 18 pieces of artillery. They were repulsed at Jackson on the 19th. The vandals destroyed the railroad, telegraph, and Government property, and shot the slaves who had sought refuge in our ranks.

NEGROES HANGED IN CHARLESTON.—A British subject who has arrived from Charleston, South Carolina, within a few days, brings the information that nineteen negroes were hung in the streets just prior to his departure. This occurred in consequence of a discovery, made in a rather singular manner; the whites there for some time past have been closely watching the blacks, and thinking that they observed an unusual number of funerals among them, a white man disguised himself, and following in one of the processions, on arriving at the burial ground he discovered that the coffin contained arms, which were taken from it and buried in a vault, in which a number had already been deposited. The consequence of this discovery was the execution of nineteen of the most intelligent of the negroes.

A letter from a well informed source at Paris, received by the Asia, states that a few days before the letter was written the Minister of Foreign affairs, Drouyn de l'Huys, visited the Emperor and advised him that a modification of the policy of the Empire was required by the public voice; that he was so far committed to the present policy that he could not change, and therefore tendered his resignation, recomending Lavalette as his successor. The modifications needed were, in the first place, greater liberality in regard to Italy; secondly, the withdrawal of the French army from Mexico, and a treaty with that Power; and, thirdly, the joining in a note, to be signed also by England and Russia, to the Confederate authorities, taking ground that, as the rebellion has now continued nearly two years without success, the interests of humanity and civilization required them to lay down their arms. The writer adds that, after opposing these propositions, the Emperor, upon further consideration, took a more favorable view of the policy indicated. The writer asserts, in the strongest manner, that, notwithstanding the unexpected and surprising character of this information, it is strictly true.

The Richmond Examiner says: A body of Yankee cavalry, numbering, it is reported, some 4,000 men, made a raid on Monday upon the East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad, and destroyed two important bridges—one across the Holston and the other across the Watauga river. The bridge across the Holston, at Blountsville, was guarded by 200 of our cavalry, who were completely surprised and made prisoners without any resistance. The damage to the railroad is serious, as, beside burning the bridges named, the track is torn up in many places and the sills and iron burned. The distance between the Watauga and Holston rivers is nine miles, and the burning of the bridges across these streams involves a loss of that distance in our railroad communications. It will take several weeks to repair the damages, and they come at a time when the road is taxed to its utmost capacity.

CONFEDERATE SWEETENING.—Owing to some reason sugar and molasses have sold to a very unpleasant price in Richmond. (The same is true also in regard to alcoholic liquors, for which they should be thankful instead of grieved.) If they will listen to us we might possibly "guess" what has given the saccharine commodities such a remarkable lift. Our forces are after Vicksburg with a determination never to leave until that Rebel Gibralter succumbs to our arms. With this city in possession of the Union forces, the Mississippi will be under our control, which will sever the Eastern Rebels from the sugar districts as completely as though they were in Japan. The grocers aware of this, are taking time by the forelock, and have raised the prices on the stock on hand, convinced that they may not get another supply until the Lincoln gunboats cease roving up and down the spinal column of the Confederacy.

Latest News

The intelligence of the capture of Vicksburg was premature. Advices from before Vicksburg up to the 31 inst. represent the struggle as still going on. Our forces took the main battery and rifle pits of the enemy on Monday, but were repulsed. The gunboats were not doing much. The Rebels have concentrated all their troops from Jackson and Grenada, and it is supposed their force is 65,000 strong. Gen. Sherman's loss is estimated at from 4,000 to 5,000. Our Gen. Morgan and Col. Wyman were killed. Gen. Jos. E. Johnston commands the rebel forces there.

The rebel army, since its defeat at Murfreesboro, is greatly demoralized. Breckinridge was wounded in the ear, his adjutant general killed, and his division terribly cut up. Wounded rebel officers estimate their loss at from 12,000 to 15,000. An escaped negro heard Gen. Bragg say he would go to Chattanooga.

The Raleigh (N. C.) papers state that the Unionists had been greatly reinforced at Newberne, and the rebels fear a movement against Wilmington.

Reader, if you want a mild purgative for children, or one powerful for adults, take Ayer's Pills. They are sugar coated and pleasant to take, but are well enough known to the good without our recommendation.

Ayer's American Almanac for 1863 is now ready for delivery gratis, at the Drug Stores who are happy to supply all that call for them. Every family should have and keep this book. It is worth having. Comprising much general information of great value, it gives the best instruction for the cure of prevalent complaints that we can get anywhere. Its anecdotes alone are worth a bushel of wheat, and its medical advice is sometimes worth to the sick the Wheat's weight in gold. Many of the medical almanacs are trash, but this is solid metal. Its calculations are made purposely for this latitude and are therefore correct. Call and get an Ayer's almanac and when got, keep it.
