

A correspondent of the Philad. Inquirer, gives the following account of the part taken by the 53d Reg Penna Vols. in the Frederickburg fight. Capt. Church's company, it will be remembered, is in this regiment.

The regimental colors of the gallant 53d Regiment P. V., led by its indomitable Col. John R. Brooke, aided by Maj. Bull, and acting Adjutant Lieut. Anderson, was seen to move forward alone to within fifty yards of the notorious stone-wall, which had become a sheet of living flame, belching the leaden missiles of death to those approaching. Here the regiment halted by order of the Colonel, and returned volley for volley. In a very short time their ammunition was exhausted, and it was found impossible to re-charge the regiment. After firing their sixty rounds each, those who were left deliberately took the remaining cartridges out of the boxes of their unfortunate comrades who had fallen and used them against the enemy. No success could result against them.

The Sixty-first and Sixty-fourth New York Volunteers pressed forward to within one hundred yards of where they stood, but could not reach them. They however, supported most nobly the Spartans who were then holding their position at a charge layout. While in this position the Colonel discovered a Rebel regiment approaching his flank. Cool and discreet under all circumstances, he deliberately, though his men had fired their last round, ordered the empty muskets to be brought to bear upon the approaching column, which was within fifty yards of him. The Rebels, seeing the movement, and supposing that a deadly fire would be poured into them, fell in love with the principle "that he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day," made good use of their legs and disappeared behind the stone-wall as soon as convenient.

So desperate was their position that aid could not reach them. They held their position at a charge layout for the unprecedented time of five hours, without firing a shot. The Sixty-first and Sixty-fourth New York were about one hundred yards in their rear, and for two or three hours stood in the same position, nor were they relieved until the safe mantle of night closed upon the most sanguinary struggle of the war and of modern times.

Col. Brooke certainly merits, if any man does, reward at the hands of his countrymen—his Government—for his manly bearing and soldier-like conduct on the field of battle. In thirteen pitched battles, besides numerous trading engagements, he has led his regiment.

The Fifty-third entered the fight with three hundred officers and men, and out of that number brought off one hundred and forty-five, losing over fifty per cent of her strength.

Col. Brooke answered the flag of truce sent by General Lee for the burial of our dead. While in command of the working party engaged in digging the graves for their comrades in battle, Rebel officers gathered round and entered into conversation with each other. The Col. heard them acknowledge the bravery and gallantry of our troops, and one of them was heard to remark that if ever those men had reached the crest of the hill there would have been no such thing as standing against them.

The present winter is terribly severe in Russia. A letter from St. Petersburg says: "In the memory of man there has not been such a winter as this at St. Petersburg—twenty degrees of cold; the river and sea looked in for a long time past, and not a flake of snow! Owing to the glass fell, horses and pedestrians can not keep a footing upon either the road or the pavements. The air is extremely dry; we breathe it with difficulty. Nervous people are particularly affected by it; accordingly, no one stirs out except upon business; and of carriages and promenaders there are literally none, even at the Nevskia perspective, between two and four in the afternoon, where there is ordinarily a great crowd."

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S LAST.—The President looks bigger and more worn—wonders at it?—yet he perceives his good nature, and some new story or low note from him is always in circulation. The last was uttered on Saturday, at the public reception, when a western paymaster in full Major's attire was introduced, and said: "Being here, Mr. Lincoln, I thought I'd call and pay my respects." "From the complaints of the soldiers," responded the President, "I guess that's about all any of you do pay."
