years—a long, eventful life:

"Stop, courteous passenger! till then hast read—
The living may gain knowledge from the dead.
Five times five years, I lived a virgin's life;
Ten times ten years, I was a virtuous wife;
Ten times ten years, I was a virtuous wife;
Ten times ten years, I was a virtuous wife;
Ten times ten years, I was a virtuous wife;
Now, lived of mortal life. I here repose.
Right mighty Kings of Scotland, and one Queen,
I. twist my cradle and my grave, have seen;
Pour times five years, the Commonwealth I saw;
Ten times, the subjects rise against the law.
Twice did I see old Fraisev pulled down,
And twise the closk was humbled by the gown;
I saw my country sold five English ore.
And Stast-five race destroyed to rise no more.
Such desolution in my mind has been—
I have an end of all perfection seen."

The horses stolen, 15th of January last, from the form of widow Ross, situate on Plunketts Creek, Lycoming county, were April brought home last week, having been found at Harleysville, Montgomery county, twenty miles north of Philadelphia. The thieves, William Reynolds and William May. Moothart, both from the vicinity of Moorsburg, Montour county, after taking the horses, which they did about eleven o'clock, rode them to Torbuttsville, Northumberland county, where they secreted them during Friday the 16th. Traveling at night, and remaining quiet during the day, they effectually eluded pursuit. Arriving at the place above named, they were offered a bid, and concluded to sell their plunder. Moothart was arrested in Philadelbhia, April last, on a description of his person and officers sent to the Chief of the Detestive Police, by Judge Eldred, and brought to the juil of this county by constable Sloan. Whilst in prison bere be was visited by Judge E., to whom he confessed, and gave information which led to the recovery of the horses. Soon after this, he succeeded in effecting his escape by burning loose the clasp of the inner door, and digging a hole through the wall of the yard. Where he is now no one, perhaps, in this section, knows; but to judge from his former conduct, he will hardly continue long without stealing other horses. He is described as a large, red faced man, addicted to liquor. Reynolds is still at large. Information as to either will be gladly received by the Prosecuting Attorney of this county .- Williamsport Gazette.

SLANDER .- A few days ago, Copper heads were busy circulating reports that our nine months' men would not go into another fight, that they had thrown down their arms, &c. Without having heard from the boys, we are safe in denoancing this as a Copperhead lie. Our boys in the 126th do not desire to come home in disgrace, and they never think of throwing down their arms .- Juniata Sentinel.

COMMENDATIONS.

From Hon Lewis P. Camerali, M. C., Ohio

My family and friends all concur in the spinish that the (Aswell) Philades is more life, like than any thing they are mw. My likewest has been repeatedly taken by different Arriets in various mays, but I have mover yet had one which presents of true to unture, all the features any expressions of countermore as this.

From Hon. E. Joy Monnis, last Minister to Italy.

The exprisite finish, leadily and suffiness of your pertraits, employed the their density of color and fall. We follow as placements are not tall to commend them to the affection and patrongs of all who appreciate true.
