UNION COUNTY STAR & LEWISBURG CHRONICLE---MAY 15, 1863.

BB. The popular hymn-song, "My country ! 'tis of thee," was composed by a Baptist clergyman of Massachusetts, who has written much good poetry, chiefly of a religious character. The following, from his pea, is a stirring call upon all patriots to sustain those entrusted with the salvation of our free government in this hour of peril and agonizing effort.

Fling Out the Banner! BY REV S F SWITH

Fling out the banner on the breeze ! Shake out the starry fold ! Summon the stalwart soldiers forth. The mighty and the bold ; The bell of Freedom from its tower Its solemn call has tolled.

Marshal the legions for the fight, The youthful and the brave; Stand for the noble and the right, The glorious Union save ; Stand for the cause for which their blood Our patriot fathers gave.

Dread not the angry foeman's rage, Dread not the tempest's crash ; Dread not the billows, though the cliffs Along the shore they lash; Dread not the awful thunder's roar, Nor lightning's piercing flash.

Above the clouds, the brilliant sky Shines in immortal blue, And light, like Heaven's approving smile Streams in its glory through ;. Be patient 'till the strife is o'er, Have Faith to dare and do.

Bear on our banner ; let it tell The triumph of the brave ; On every breeze that sweeps our hills In glory let it wave, O'er all the land, o'er all our streams, O'er every soldier's grave.

A year of battles ! not in vain This contest of the free ; This rousing of the nation's heart, Like storms that rouse the sea ; The fiery test has but refined The love of Liberty.

Her altars and her watch fires tell The deeds her sons have done, And every field where rest our dead, And every fortress won. And every State redeemed shall be Another Lexington.

And every height beneath whose foot Breaks out the purling rill, Where thirsty soldiers drink by night, Strong in the freeman's will, Shall be another freedom's shrine, Another Bunker Hill.

Then fling the banner to the wind, The emblem of the free ; Strike the sweet harp tones that proclaim The reign of Liberty ; And bid the melody rebound From every trembling key.

And count each star that stude the blue, Whate'er the past has been, A wayward wanderer welcomed back To fill its place again ; A loving band of sister lights, Just like the old thirteen.

Etrike not one jewel from the crest The loving mother wore ; Reset the genus upon her breast, Each where it shown before ; Clasp in the glorious cynosure The entire dear thirty-four.

A COPPERHEAD, SMASHED .- While the brauch train on the Hollidaysburg rei road properly authenticated for settlement to was conveying a load of passengers to court in that place, a rich incident occurred. In the front part of the car, several ily engaged discussing our ## Deserters are Felons at Common Law.

It would I e well, if those who have deserted from the army, better understand the position they occupy. These who at tempt to resist an arrest, do so at the per il of their lives. We learn from the Philadelphia Ledger, that in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Berks county, in the trial of an officer and private for shooting a deserter, who attempted to escape, the Judge-Hop. W. J. Woop-WARD, distinctly laid down the law that a deserter is a felon at common law, and that the officer was justified in ordering the guard to fire, rather than permit the escape of the deserter.

We repeat, it would be well for deserters in this county, as well as friends who have been encouraging them to resist an arrest, to bear this fact in mind. And at the loe House below the River Bridge. it should be further remembered that Lewisburg, Nov. 29, 1850 FRANK ANGSTADT every drafted man who has failed to respand, has been decided to be a deserter. He is just as much a felon as the actual desurter, and whatever resistance be makes to an arrest will be at his peril.

The Easton Free Press states that the case of Jacob S. Hartzell, a distiller of whiskey to Northampton county, who refused to make a return of the amount of his business under the Internal Revenue law, has been settled, and the amount that Mr. Hartzell is to pay is about eight thousand dollars. It will thus be seen that this was rather a dear speculation for our Northampton distiller.
