Lay in heaps like gathered grain. HOOKER foremost in the fray, Holding the stern foe at bay-O, it was a fearful day!

There brave BERRY sunk to rest-On the Sons of Freedom pressed, Risking all at her behest, Cherishing the precious thought, As their toilsome way they fought: "Thus must Liberty be bought!"

I protest, on bended knee, By their record that we see, They have bought a victory.

By God's love of truth and right, By their deeds done in His sight, We were victors in that fight!

Ay-tho' scores and hundreds slain Lie in heaps on hill and plain-JUSTICE never fights in vain!

Joe Parsons, of Baltimore.

As we passed along a hall, we first saw him, crouched near an open window, lustily einging, "I'm a bold soldier boy." Seeing the broad bandage over his eyes, I said-"What is your name, my good fellow?"
"Jo, sir," he answered, "Jo Parsons."

"And what's the matter with you?"
"Blind, sir—blind as a bat." "In battle ?"

"Yes-at Antietam. Both eyes shot out at one clip." Poor Joe was in the front, at Autietam ;

a minnie ball passed directly through his eyes, across his face, destroying his sight for ever. He was but twenty years old, but was as happy as a lark! "It is dreadful," I said.

"I'm very thankful I'm alive, sir. It might ha' been worse, yer see," he continned. And then he told us his story.

"I was hit and it knocked me down. I lay there : Il night, and next day the fight was renewed; I could stand the pain, yer see, but the balls was flyin all 'round, and I wanted to get away. I couldn't see nothin, though. So I waited, and at last I heared a fellow groanin beyond me:

"Hello !" says I. "Hello yerself!" says he. "Who be yer," says I, "a Rebel?"

"You're a Yankee." "So I am," says I, "What's the matter with you?"

"My leg's smashed," says he. "Can't yer walk?"

"Can yer see ?"

"Well you're a Rebel, but will you do me a little favor ?"

"I will," says be, "ef I kin." "Well, ole butternut, I can't see nothin'. My eyes is knocked out, but I kin walk. Come over yere. Let's git out o' this. You pint the way an' I'll tote you off the field on my back."

"Bully for you," says be. And so we managed to git together. We shook hands on it. I took a wink outen his canteen, and he got on to my shoulders. I did the walkin' for both, and he did the navagatin'. An' of he paired and satisfaction guaranteed.

JACOB HARLEY. didn't make me carry him straight into a Rebel Colonel's tent, a mile away, I'm a liar! Hows'ever, the Colonel came up, an' says he, "Whur d'ye come from? who be yer?" I told him. He said I was done for, and couldn't do no more shootin', and he sent me over to our lines. So, after three days, I came down here with the wounded boys, where we're duin pretty well, all things considered."

"But you will never see the light Which are offered low for cash, atour Mills again, my poor fellow," I suggested, sympathetically.

"That's so," he answered, glibly, "but Planks, and a Premium for Rails and Shing-I can't help it, you notice." I did my dooty-got shot in my eye-and that's my misfort'n, not my fault, as the ole Fair. man said of his blind hoss. But, 'I'm a bold soldier boy," he continued, cheerily renewing his song, and we left him in singular merriment. Poor, sightless, unlucky, but stout-hearted Jo Parsons!

THE WIND .- The wind blew furiously nearly all day yesterday. We don't men-tion it as an item of news, because everybody knew it, but we make a record of it. Livery Business at the Old Stand on South It blew with the greatest possible gust-o. We saw a few hats blown off and each owner of each particular "tile" made vigorous and not always graceful movements Third street, near Market, and respectfully solicits the patronage of his friends to recover the runaways. Alas! we know how prevoking it is to unbend our dignity to the task of chasing a bat, but it is laughable to see another become a sudden victim to the accident. Eigerly best Violin Rosin—call at the Post Office and examine. he looks around him, the hat is scarcely a dezen feet distant. He advances, and gets his hand almost on it; the hat recedes a little ; he follows it ; the hat retires a little farther; impatiently, he makes a "spirited charge," and almost has it; the hat povokingly turns on its rim, and rapidly performs an "onward Then comes the scene. movement." Forgetful of dignity, forgetful of his frantic appearance, with streaming, horizontal Coffee, Tea, Sugar, Spices, Nuts, bair and coat tails he sets out on the "double quick" and finally into a run. Small boys of intemperate speech shout at him, "Sail in," "I'll bet on the bat," "Go it, old pop-two to one on the beaver," and other gratuitous and very annoying criticisms; but the hat must be regained

For ages has the treatment of pulmonary diseases eccupied the greater portion of the attention of the scientific of the medical world, but none acquired more eminence in his treatment of these diseases, than the celebrated Prussian Dr. Hoofand, the originator of the Raisannic Cordial. His lifewas devoted to the production of remedies that would stand untrialed. How well he has succeeded, the American people are able to judge: and we positively assert, that no preparations that have ever been placed before them, have conferred the same amount of benefits on suffering humanity, or have elicited so many commendations from all classes of society, as the remedies of Hoofand, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson 2 Co., of Philadelphia.

The Cordial is designed for a class of diseases more general and more fatal than any other to which the people of this country are subject—those springing from a slight rold."
