Oft has it been my lot to mark A proud, conceited, talking spark, (With eyes that hardly served at most To guard their master gainst a post; Yet 'round the world the blade has been, To-see whatever could be seen; Returning from his finished tour, Grown ten times perter than before, Whatever word you chance to drop, This traveled fool your mouth will step: But, if my judgment you'll allow, Fve seen-and, sure I ought to know"-So begs you'd pay a due submission, And acquiesce in HIs decision.

Two travelers of such a cast, As o'er Arabia's wilds they passed, And on their way, in friendly chat, Now talked of this, and then of that, Discoursed a while, mongst other matter, Of the Chamoleon's form and nature.

"A stranger animal," cries one, "Sure never lived beneath the sun! A lizard's body, lean and long, A fish's head, a serpent's tongue, Its foot with triple claw disjoined, And what a length of tail behind! How slow its pace! and then its hue-Who ever saw so fine a BLUE!"

"Hold, there," the other quick replies "Tis GREEN-I saw it with these eyes, As late with open mouth it lay, And warmed it in the sunny ray, Stretched at its ease the beast I viewed

And saw it eat the air for food." "I've seen it, friend, as well as you, And must again affirm it blue. At leisure I the beast surveyed, Extended in the cooling shade.

"Tis green, 'tis green, I can assure ye "Green?" cries the other, in a fury, "Why, do you think I've lost my eyes "Twere no great loss," the friend replies, "For if they always serve you thus, You'll find them but of little use."

. So high, at last, the contest rose, From words they almost came to blows, When luckily came by a third-To him the question they referred, And begged he'd tell 'em, if he knew, Whether the thing was green or blue, . "Come," says th' umpire, "cease your pother.

The creature's neither one nor t'other! I caught the animal last night, And viewed it o'er by candle light; I marked it well-'twas BLACK as jet! You stare-but I have got it yet, And can produce it."- "Pray, then, do, For I am sure the thing is blue."--"And I'll engage that when you've seen The reptile, you'll pronounce him green.

"Well, then, at once to ease the doubt, Replies the man, "I'll turn him out; And when before your eyes I've set him, If you don't find him black, I'll eat him." He said, then full before their sight Produced the beast, and lo-'twas wHITE' All stared; the judge looked wondrous wise "My children," the chameleon cries, (Then first the creature found a tongue,) You are all right, and all are wrong : When next you talk of what you view,

Nor wonder if you find that none Prefers your eye-sight to his own.

Think others see as well as you,

The Contrast.

When that architect of ruin, Jeff Davis was about assuming the reius of power in his military Confederacy, he thus assured his maddened, misguided supporters :

"The time for compromises is past, and we are now determined to maintain our position and make all who oppose us smell Southern guapmoder and feet Southern steel."

Lovely devil! amiable work! All who would adhere to the Old Union to suffer from firearms and the sword! And "On to Washington!" was the ery of Vice Pres. Stephens, as perfidious Virginia stealthily sought to seize Harper's Ferry and Fortre-s Monroe.

Contrast the "guppowder and steel" threats of Davis with the calm, gentlemanly assurances of our lawfully chosen President, Abraham Lincoln, when assuming his office. He said :

"In view of the present aspect of affairs, there need be no bloodshed or wor. There is no necessity for it. I am not in favor of such a course; and I may say in advance, that there will be no bloodshed, unless it be forced upon the Government, and then it will be compelled to act in self-defence."

True, poble words, worthy of the man who occupies the chair of Washington, and has a greater work to do than he had!

A striking contrast, in temper and in design ! Let him that "taketh the sword [unlawfully] perish by the sword."

The enermies to the Government hav lately 'dopted a stunnin thing in the way of a Badge. It's a hefty idec-immense. They tear orf the defenseless femail wot lives on copper pennies, who has her hed tied up in a rag with Liberty onto itjust as they have bin tearin the pin feathers out ov the Burd ov Liberty, an tryin to smash every else that has empthing to TOWEL-RACKS DOUGH-TRAYS, do with Liberty. This badge they pin onto thar kotes, an think they'll pars fer pat-riots-er any other riots. They muchly remind me of the Rebels wen they

One of two gentlemen recently conversing about the National Bridge of Virginia, remarked that there was an extraordinary incident connected with it, for that Gen. Washington once threw a dollar completely over, an achievment which has not been performed since. "No wonder," replied his companion, "for a dollar in those days could be made to go a great deal further than at the present time.
