Once on a time, some little hands And, with a wish to keep it dry, They raised a wall five inches high: Within the wall, and 'round the walks, They made a fence of slender stalks, And then they formed an arbor cool, And dug in front a tiny pool. Their beds were oval, round, and square, Thrown up and trimmed with decent care. In these they planted laurel twigs, And prickly holly, little sprigs Of ash and poplar, and, for show, Bright daffodils, and heart's case low, With pink-edged daises by the score, And butterenps and many more. One rose they found, with great delight, And stuck it in with all their might; This finished, then they went away, Resolved to come another day.

The sea, meanwhile, with solemn roar, Approached and washed the sandy shore But all this time it did not touch The little spot they loved so much; And many a stranger passing by, The garden spied with smiling eye, But no one ventured to disturb A single plant, or flower, or herb. Still, when the children came again, They found their labor all in vain; The flowers were drooping side by side, The rose and heart's ease—all had died No one could make them grow or shoot, Because they had not got a root; And then the soil, it was so bad, They must have withered if they had.

Now so it is, some children fail, Just like the garden in my tale; They have good wishes, pleasant looks, Are busy with their work and books, Their conduct often gives delight, And you may fancy all was right: But by-and-by- with sad surprise, We see how all this goodness dies; Instead of being rich with fruit, They fade away for want of root.

Oh, pray that He, who only can Renew the heart of fallen man, May plant you in His pleasant ground, Where "trees of righteousness" abound, So shall ye be, in early youth, "Rooted and grounded in THE TRUTH."

General Rosseau.

The tried and true Kentuckian, made a speech, recently, at the Continental, in Philadelphia, from which we clip a few

"Do not recognize as loyal any one who comes between the Government and the suppression of the rebellion. Strike him as your fee; and don't allow his talk about constitutional rights to come between you and your duty. It is all fudge. I do not know a man to-day in Jeff. Davis' army who is not a strong Union man.

"He was in favor of the abolishment o Slavery. Had be the means, he would free all the slaves new in the bands of every seccessionist. In spite of riots and uprising, he would use the strong arm of the Government to put down the enemies of the Government.

"Fathers, brothers, sons had been lying stark and stiff upon the battle field, and he could not look with friendly gaze upon the men who at home are willing to oppose the cause of the soldiers.

"There was no cause for the war. The North did nothing to bring it on. "Will those who oppose the soldiers, say what they want? They say they want peace. They tried that in Kentucky. They had a neutrality party, and carried white flags r their arms with which to greet Jeff. Davis. Peace! Why, it means the withdrawal of the Union armies, and that means submission to the meanest man in the United States, and that is Jeff. Davis.

"Let ue have such an exhibition of our strength as will make the Rebels tremble. and deal the rebellion such blows as will cause it to be suppressed, and that will be the best kind of peace we can have. Peace by separation will be no peace at all. We can not live separate from the South. Why should the South be above the laws which we obey?

"The speaker was a southern man; no drop of his blood was of northern origin ; but be was for the government of the United States when it waged a war with rebels and traitors. The government will triumph, and the right must eventually prevail.

"The negre question was undoubtedly the means of bringing about the war. It men had lived loyally under the government, there would never have been any threatening of the slave property. But no slavery in the land should deprive the nation of its liberties. The slaves had been the means of furnishing sustenance, strength and provisions to the Rebel armies, and wherever the strength of the rebels is found, it is to be hit in the head. As to equality, there is no necessity to discuss that. It makes no negro a white a mule a Copperhead's equal, because he lets him out of the stable. The speaker did not come to fish with did not come to fight with negroes, but if a little way off, where they could whip the Rebels, he deemed them quite as go Secessionists, or Copperheads either." mense ebeering, and laughter.]

Such is the spirit of a Kentucky slaveowner, who has fought the Rebels, and to and Market Sis, where she will keep on hand a good assertment of LADIES' TRIMMING. whom War is a stern reality, instead of a RIEBONS and NOTIONS of all kinds-als plaything for heartless politicians.

DENOUNCED AS A LIAR -The Richmond Dispatch notices with surprise Vallandigham's statement that every person he conversed with at the South resolved to perish rather than yield to the pressure of arms, but that all expressed a willingness to discuss terms of re-union if also Bran, Wheat and Indian and Rye when resolved to perish rather than yield to the the "Yankee" troops should be withdrawn. ordered. ICE CREAM and C The Dispatch says : "We are sure we have in every varie conversed with many more Southerners than be ever did, and we never heard the first one speak of re union."

The Fort Wayne (ludians) Gazette says that a copperhead in that place declares that he is opposed to the draft, "because every democrat who goes to the army and lives to return home is sure to come back an abolitionist." Pretty much so. A good, intelligent soldier, becomes manfully in earnest.
