FOR PRESIDENT.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Don't forget to attend the exhibition of Tableaux at Independent Hall to-night. It will "pay."

We will print the remarks of Mr. Orwig (alluded to by our Harrisburg correspondent) in Friday's paper.

Friends of the Soldiers, attend the lecture, to-morrow night, by the agents of the U. S. Christian Commission, at the Evangelical Church.

The case of Shriner for Young vs. Wm. Rule was decided in favor of Mr. Rule, which foreshadowed the laborers of last week's session of Court.

KELLY TOWNSHIP OUT OF THE WOODS!
Yesterday five recruits were sworn into the service and credited to Kelly township which fills the consolidated quota for that district. Bally for Kelly! Who's the next customer?

Some of the young men of this place have organized a Thespian Society, and promise their first exhibition at Independent Hall, next Thursday evening. They have incurred considerable expense in getting up the enterprise, and the performance will doubtless be an acceptable one. (See Advertisement.)

Maj. James H. Larimer, a native of Centre Co., was recently shot by a band of guerrillas. He was Maj. of the 5th Pa. Res. under Col. Simmons, and when killed was acting in the capacity of Inspector General on Maj. Gen. Crawford's staff.

We learn that the citizens most concerned with asking the Legislature to allow them to construct a Turnpike between Lewisburg and Buffalo X Roads. The travel on that route is immense, and during the muddy seasons the road becomes almost impassable at some points. Hope the enterprise may succeed, and that right speedily. The stock will pay well.

In Friday's paper were a couple of items connected with the recent term of Court which we requested our readers to "put down." Here is another that will do to put down with them: In the Grand Jury Rooms, after the labors of the Jurymen had closed, a motion was made that that body endorse the Administration of Abraham Lincoln. The eyes were required and every one patriotically responded "aye."

HOW THEIR SYMPATHIES RUN.—The Copperheads in the Ohio Legislature are trying to secure the release of George W. Bickley, the founder of the treasonable order of "Knights of the Golden Circle," who was arrested in Kentucky recently, and imprisoned in the Ohio Penitentiary. The Copperheads of our State are petitioning for the pardon of Isaac Fishel, the deserter from the Union ranks, who piloted Lee's army through the borders of our State, previous to the battle of Gettysburg. If the Copperheads are not Jeff Davis' dogs, pray whose dogs are they? It is slender to call them Union men.

The Schleswig-Holstein affair is assuming a serious aspect. A war has been inaugurated, the end of which is hard to foresee, perhaps all Europe may be involved before it terminates. An engagement which lasted six hours took place recently between the Germans and the Danes, at Nussund. The Danish outposts were driven in, but the assaults were repulsed. In the battle the Prussians lost 160 of their men. They used 74 guns.

Jay Cooke, Subscription Agent for the U. S. 5-20 Bonds, has issued a circular to the various banks and agents, in which he says:

"Looking hopefully to the future, I think we may regard the success of this loan as the herald of the approaching day of peace, re-union, and permanently established prosperity, in which the citizens of every section shall participate. And when the history of those times shall be written, we shall have no cause to regret that we and you, and all connected with this negotiation, have tried to perform our duty."

Wonderful how mild and amiable the Copperhead papers have become since the return of the veterans on furlough. Formerly they denounced everything and everybody concerned in the war, from Pres. Lincoln down to the lowest contraband camp follower; now, however, some of them have the effrontery to complain that the return of the veterans is not marked by a proper amount of enthusiastic demonstration. The Lock Haven Democrat, (which, however, has more character than most of the Cop. papers) goes so far as to hope that Capt. Haines "may again enter the field with a full company, and we trust our citizens will do all they can towards consummating this desirable object." The "object," of course, is to advance the interests of the "whites," "unconstitutional," "Mabey," &c., war against "our Southern brethren."

Harrisburg Correspondence.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.

For the past week, Messrs. Johnson, Turrell, Wilson, Lowry, Hoge, Dunlap and Champerne (Rep.) and Montgomery and Kilian (Dem.) have "tried" the Senate, but not to much profit—the votes always coming out even—so there was "nothing done." Today, however, we have news that Dr. St. Clair (Rep.) is elected in the Indiana district, by 1100 or 1300 maj on a small vote. The Cops run Mr. Douglas, of Armstrong county—a fair man, but on the wrong side—and in running him they have conceded the legality of the election, and we have now 17 men who will go on with business under Speaker Penney. The law requires so many days to pass before the Senator can take his seat, that he can hardly be sworn in before the first of March. (In our day and time, the term for Election Judges and Conferees meeting might be shortened.) Here are two months, then, wasted, at an expense of $400 per day. By this delay, the Cops have gained two of their objects—they gave the State bondholders a gain of 3 or 4 per cent. on their interest, and they prevented the passage of any law to aid Volunteering to avoid the draft. They are entitled to all the credit for these two acts.

Thursday evening, there was a lively debate on the subject of paying for the damages of war in our Southern counties—truly an important question. Young Kelly made a feeling and telling speech, and Mr. Orwig also took a hand in a speech which will read well if you can afford room for it for your patrons. This afternoon has been milder weather, and Leech and I went over to see the earth-works thrown up just south of this City, to salute the Rebels coming up from Carlisle way. They are somewhat extensive, and will give some idea of military matters to those not familiar with them. I trust they may be preserved, for the information of those in after days, but hope we may never need them in any "emergency" during our own times. W.

Gov. Brough and Intoxication.

The Ohio State Journal relates an incident in which Gov. Brough was recently the principal actor. He observed a young officer, an educated and refined young man, on the streets of Columbus, in a state of beastly intoxication. Gov. Brough immediately telegraphed to Sec. Stanton for his removal. The request was immediately granted, and the young man, on recovering from his debauch, found himself minus his commission. The most strenuous efforts were made, by influential friends, to procure the restoration of the officer. But Gov. Brough was inflexible. He declared he had long made it a rule on the Railroad of which he was President, to dismiss any man subject to intoxication. He could not now adopt a different rule in a matter of still greater importance. Knowing how great the harm which might result from an intemperate officer, he could not take the responsibility to share the risk in this case. Thereupon the officer and his friends started for their home. The lesson was a hard one, but who dare say that Gov. Brough did not do right?

We wish Gov. Curtin and all other Governors would pursue the same course. There are scores of drunken officers in our army and navy, disgracing it. Drunken leaders lose victories, swell expenses, and are very bad examples to their men.

A circular issued by the Rebel Commissary General fell into the hands of Gen. Gilmore, at Jacksonville, Florida, which goes further toward exposing the exhausted condition of the Rebel army than anything we have yet seen. It is addressed to leading secessionists of Florida, in strict confidence, and urges them, in the strongest language they can use, to send beef cattle to the army. They say their dependence for subsistence is Florida, all other beef and hog growing districts having been captured by the Yankees. It further states that their supplies can not last more than a month or so longer. And now Gen. Gilmore has severed the cattle region from the fighting region, leaving the Rebels to get along without the beef which they must have. What they will do next remains to be seen.

An English writer, who fought with the Rebels from Bull Run to Fredericksburg, makes the following disclosure: "I have frequently heard distinguished Southern leaders speak of McClellan in the highest terms of compliment. His successful retreat through the Chickahominy swamp is considered by officers to be equal to the best deeds on military record. It may not be generally known, but men of high position and high veracity have said in Richmond, that McClellan offered his services to the South when the war began, and that he asked to command a division. He was answered that if his heart was in the cause let him join the ranks, like Longstreet and others, and fight his way up to that position. There are documents which place this question beyond dispute, but I have not seen them."

The position of McClellan as stated above was doubtless known to the Copperhead fraternity, from the beginning, which accounts for their sticking to him through thick and thin, like cockle burrs to a grizzly bear.

A public sale of 300 government horses, rendered unfit for further service, will come off at Sunbury on the 26th inst.

H. A. FONDA has been appointed Superintendent of the Leckawanna & Bloomsburg Railroad. Mr. Fonda was formerly the Superintendent of the Cattawissa road, and recently of the Williamsport & Elmira road.

The Town Council of Sunbury have agreed to give three thousand dollars, to be raised by taxation, towards raising the required number of men, to free the borough from the coming draft, the remainder is to be subscribed.

At the meeting of the State Agricultural Society, at Harrisburg, Thomas P. Knox was chosen President, Amos E. Kapp, of Northumberland, Vice President for the 14th District. The Annual State Fair is to be held on the 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th of September—the place to remain open for the best offer.

There are not over 30 newspapers now in Harrisburg, but some of them are very scarce. The North has thousands of newspapers, some of them traitors in influence and we believe in design, which are barely tolerated because they do less harm than their forcible suppression might do.

The U. S. steamer de Soto recently captured the Rebel Steamer Cambrian, heavily laden with all manner of munitions of war. It is stated that her cargo was valued at $75,000 in gold—about $375,000 in American gold.

DEDICATION.—The new M. E. Church in Williamsport, was dedicated to the worship of God, on Thursday, the 19th inst. The services were conducted by the Rev. Bishop Simpson, B. D., Rev. Thomas Bowman, B. D., Rev. Thomas M. Reese, P. E., and other clergymen.

"The First National Bank of Bloomsburg" has elected the following officers: President—Chas. R. Paxton, Esq. Cashier—J. E. Lutz, and N. Johnson, Esq. Directors—Charles R. Paxton, Wm. McKelvy, Wm. Neal, George Hughes, and John Gray.

The largest gun ever made was successfully cast at the gun manufactory of Mr. Knapp, at Pittsburg, on the 11th inst. The length of the rough casting is 26 feet; its maximum diameter 66 inches; and its weight 180,000 pounds. The length of the finished gun will be 20 feet 3 inches; its maximum diameter 64 inches; and its weight 150,000 pounds. It will throw a solid shot of 1,000 pounds.

The Baldy Guards of Danville arrived home on Thursday morning last. They were received to a very appropriate speech of welcome by I. N. Grier, Esq., after which they partook of a lunch at the Montour House, and an elegant dinner prepared for them at the house of Mr. Heurtz, at which a handsome sword was presented to Capt. Eckman by the members of his company. The company has been re-enlisted for three years or during the war.

THE GAME LAW.—The game law fixes a penalty of $5 upon any person who kills or destroys certain birds out of season, as follows: Partridges from the 1st of February to the 1st of September; quail and rabbits from the 1st of February to the 1st of October; woodcock from the 1st of February to the 4th of July. It is during the time named that the species are propagated, and to destroy them at that time tends to their total extinction, hence the law for their protection.

DEATH OF A SOLDIER.—Benjamin Catherman, son of Conrad and Fanny Catherman, of Lewis township, died in Louisville, Ky., in the latter part of Jan., of small-pox. In September, 1862, he enlisted in the 7th Pa. Cavalry, under Captain Shaffer of Centre county. He was in several engagements in Kentucky. Last fall he was attacked with typhoid fever, but he so far recovered as to be able to do hospital duty. He was soon after taken with small-pox, from which he died as stated above. He served his country faithfully, and was loved and esteemed by all his acquaintances and fellow-soldiers, and his aged parents deeply feel the loss of their son.—Cor. Millinburg Telegraph.

MIRACULOUS!—James Gordon Bennett, in his old age, has taken to telling the truth! In his youth he was seldom caught at such tricks, and possibly his cheek tingles with shame even now, when he reverts to his new and singular doctrine. As evidence of his change of tactics, read the following extract from a recent N. Y. Herald:

"We were acquainted for forty years with the organization known as the Democratic party, and we know it to be dead and buried. Not a vestige of it is left. There is an organization of contract brokers that oscillates between Tammany Hall and Mozart Hall, and buys and sells votes, that calls itself the Democratic party, but there is no Democratic party."

A SUGGESTION.—It has been suggested that the young ladies of Union county keep a list of the single men who were, or who will hereafter be drafted, and note down the report of the Examining Board, with a view to select sound husbands.—Millinburg Telegraph.

That is "saucy for the goose," certainly. But to give both sides an equal chance, we would suggest that a Board be appointed to examine young ladies also, that the young men may know who are sound enough to "pass" into matrimony. No honest young lady could object to such a trifling ordeal. This would be "saucy for the gander."

How to Feed Cows.

We urge Farmers to make an experiment the coming season in two things, which will require but little land, and not much labor. As they are now arranging their fields for the spring crops, let every farm have two acres set apart for sowing corn broadcast, and a like amount for sugar beets. It should be good land, deep soil, and convenient to the barn.

The land designed for corn should be sowed about the 1st of May, and not less than 24 bushels of seed to the acre. Four bushels will generally do better than less. After sowing, the ground should be well harrowed, and there is then no more work to be done until it is wanted for feed. By the middle of July, it will be from five to six feet high, if the land is rich, and the stalks will be very slender and succulent. When pasture is nearly exhausted, or scorched by the heat of summer, there is no food at once so acceptable and nourishing for cattle as these cornstalks, and it is but little trouble to cut a load each evening and haul it into the yard. Cows will feed the best of milk and cream on this food, and stock cattle and hogs will thrive with astonishing rapidity if fed on it. It is ready for use just when most of the farmers are scarce of pasture, and also when stock inflicts the greatest damage to land by razing upon it; and the yield is immense. As much as ten tons may be gathered from an acre; and if it is not all used for feeding before the usual time for cutting of corn, the remainder can be cut and cured as fodder, and will make the best of dry winter feed. It is an easy experiment to make, and we entreat every farmer to give it just one fair trial.

We feel persuaded that those who try it once will be likely to sow their corn for summer feeding with as much regularity as they plant their potatoes, and it will, we trust, lead them to pasture less each year, until middle fences and pasturing entirely disappear.

Another experiment should be made by every farmer. The reason for the general failure of butter in the winter, both in quantity and quality, is the want of fresh food to give cows. Slips, with the refuse of potatoes, cabbage, turnips, &c., may keep them up tolerably well; but unless there is a bountiful supply of juicy food for cows, they must fall under the best of care, to furnish a large yield of milk and cream. The sugar beet is the very best substitute for the rich, succulent grass of early summer, and, with a good crop of the beets, cows may be made to yield rich milk, and plenty of it, during the whole winter. In England, where root crops are raised with the greatest care, they depend upon the beet, or ruta bags, almost exclusively, to winter their stock. They do so not only because it is the very best food for cattle, but also because the yield of an acre of land of roots will go twice or thrice as far, to feed stock, as the yield of the same amount of land in grass. It is not uncommon there to raise as much as 1,000 bushels of beets or turnips on an acre, and 600 bushels is an ordinary yield. Here we have not yet learned the value of land, and we do not understand its vast fruitfulness under proper culture; but, with proper care in the preparation of the soil and the culture of the crop, 500 bushels should be raised to the acre. With 1,000 bushels of beets to put away in the fall, the number of cows usually kept on a farm could be made to give almost as bountiful a supply of milk as they do with fresh pasture, and the quality would be but little impaired. The land for the beets should be stock ground, and, if in good order, need not be worked until early in June. It should be well manured, plowed very deep, and well harrowed. The plants should be procured and set out in the same manner in which beets are put out in the garden. Some prefer to drill the seed in the ground, and it is probably the best way for those who understand the business well, and give the crop the proper culture; but, in indolent or ignorant hands, the weeds would get the better of the beets and the crop must fail. After the plants get started, they want just as much work with the hoe and cultivator as is necessary to keep the ground perfectly clean, and in the fall each acre should yield 500 bushels of the very best winter food for milk cows, and for all kinds of cattle, that land can produce. They need but little care after they are gathered. A rough board box in the stable or in a cellar, raised not less than six inches from the ground, so that the air can traverse the pile freely, will keep them fresh until the spring grass is on hand. We have twice tried the beet crop on a small scale, and we are confident that for feeding cattle, and especially for milk cows, in winter, it is the most profitable that can be raised.

We ask our farmers to try these experiments just one season, and they will not need to be urged to repeat them—beets and green fodder will become part of the regular products of our farms.—Chambersburg Repository.
