Queer Things Done in Type. The mistakes of printers are often very funny to readers, and exasperating to authors. A single letter is often of the greatest importance, and a small mistake frequently changes the whole effect of an article. Some very funny stories are told of mishaps of this character, and we give below some of the best.

dead with "a long word in his mouth." It should have been "sword." In this case, however, the printer could not have been blamed for leaving out a letter after setting up the Russian name correctly. During the Mexican war one of the Engglish newspapers hurriedly announced an important item of news from Mexicothat Gen. Pillow and thirty seven of his men had been lost "in a bottle." It should have read "battle."

A lad in a printing office came upon the name of Hecate, occurring in a line like "Shall reign the Herate of the deepest Hell." The boy thinking he had discovered an error, ran to the master printer and inquired eagerly whether there was an e in cat.

"Why no, no, you blockhead," was the reply. Away went the boy to the press room and extracted the objectionable letter. But fancy the horror of both poet VOURSELVES. and publisher when the poem appeared with the line :

"Shall reign the He Cat of the despect Hell," A newspaper some time ago gravely informed its readers that a rat descending the river came in contact with a steamboat with such serious injury to the boat that great exertions were necessary to save it. It was a raft and not a rat, descending the

LETTERS DROPPED OUT.

But let a form of type be ever so correet when sent to the press, errors not unfrequently happen from the liability of letters to drop out, when the form has not been properly adjusted or locked sufficiently tight. A printer putting to press a form of the Common Prayer, the e in the following passage dropped out unperceived by bim : "We shall all be changed in the twinkling of an eyo." When the book appeared, to the horror of the devout worshipper, the passage read : "We shall all be hanged in the twinkling of an eye."

A newspaper recently stated, in a report of a battle, that the conflict was dreadful, and that the enemy was repulsed with great laughter (slaughter) A mon was SOFAS, LOUNGES, latest patterns, said once to have been broug'it up to answer the charge of having eaten (besten) a stage driver for demanding more than sis fare. A 'MAKE UP' BLUNDER.

REPAIRING done immediately, CHAS. S. BELL, Chamberlin's Block following mixture of two articles-one concerning a preacher, the other about the freaks of a mad dog-which occurred in a burried 'make up' in a printing office: "Rev. THE POWER OF COMMAS.

In the Priory of Hammessa there dwelt a prior who was very liberal, and who caused these lines to be written over his

"Be open evermore, O, thou my door, To come be shut, to benest or to come."

But after his death there succeeded him another, whose name was Raynhard, as greedy and covetous as the other was bountiful and liberal, who kept the same lines there still, changing nothing therein but one point, which made them run after this manner :

"Re open evermore, 0, thou my door, To none; be shut, to honest or to poor,"
