We were heavily engaged on the 17th and 18th, having marched on the Rebels works, and carried them. We advanced on one of their railroads, the track of the edge of the top of the bank they fixed a wire to trip us up ; a good many went down headlong, but I got over safe. While we were thus sheltered, the Rebs thought to plant a battery on our right and rake the road where we were ; but our batteries did not let them get into position, and our fire was so hot that they left. The afternoon of same day, we advanced under a tremendous storm of bullets, but threw up some earthworks, where we staved until night, when we were relieved by the 45th P. V.

Last night, the Rebs were trying to advance on our left, but they could not come it. There was a constant firing of muskets and cannon, all night.

Our lines are quite near each other, and we can bear the trains run and the dogs bark in Petersburg.

I talked with a wounded Rebel, who

Dire Demogratic Dissensions.

The "Democratic" party in the loyal States was so thoroughly routed at all the ABRAHAM LINCOLN recent Elections, that one would have supposed the remainder of it might be harmonious. But not so. They are now more discordant and belligerent than ever. In Chicago, they had creeted a board den. supposed to be large enough to hold all who could get together, and next Monday -July 1 - they were to meet and nominate a caudidate for President and Vice President. To postpone a National Convention, advertised, world wide, so long, was a dangerous step : and yet the National Committee have felt compelled to adjourn it until the last of August.

Domestic quarrels is the cause. They were so far divided, that, if they had met, commissioner-Michael Alle Karli, of New Berlin the remnant of the concern would have fallen asunder.

The Great Contest. WASHINGTON, June 27.

Mr. Dana, Assistant Secretary of War, has answered the questions of anxious inquirers here about the situation at Petersburg, to the effect that Lee's force of a U.S. soldier, and give aid and comfort C., and Charles W. F, 2d Pa. is not more than two-thirds of Grant's; to the enemy, and was sentenced to be that our losses last week in the movement toward the Weldon road were militarily unimportant, and that Grant had his hand on Lee's throat.

He gives to all the assurance of our final and conclusive success. Among the striking facts which Mr. Dana has mentioned is that we have at this moment 51,-000 of the Rebel soldiers, prisoners in our hands. The public feeling here to-night is one of confidence in the future, in Grant, Division Railway of Chicago-not purand over and above all in Grant's army.
