Union County opposed to Degrading
Citizen Soldiers!

The following is the vote of our little county, 24 inst., on the proposed First Amendment to the Constitution. Those who voted FOR, desired to restore to our brave men in service the right of suffrage which they enjoyed until deprived of it by Judge Woodward's decision. Those who voted AGAINST, virtually voted that the Soldier should be reduced to the level of the Negro—that both these classes should fight the country's battles, and pay taxes, but should not vote!

Delaware and Lewis, in Northumb'd.
Columbia and a few other densely dark Copperhead regions will also vote against the Soldiers—but the State we think will sustain the Soldiers and the Government by something like 100,000 maj.

In behalf of our fellow citizens on many a tented field, we thank the 200 or 300 Democrats of Union county who voted—with the solid phalanx of Republicans—to restore to the soldiers the elective franchise. While certain would-be leaders of their party, and the docile masses, endeavored to continue the Soldiers on the level of the disfranchised colored men, these 200 or 300 voted to elevate him to his true position, and trust him in the choice of our rulers. They voted right—independently—they will not regret it, to their dying day—and we rejoice for once in seeing with men who never saw proper to vote with us before. May it be a precursor of more almost unanimous votes for the country's champions in its time of need!

MAJ. CHARLES W. DIVEN, of the 12th P. R. C., has received authority for raising companies for a year's regiment under his command. We believe him to be a good man and soldier. Any wishing to recruit for or enlist with him will call on or address Capt. Orem, at White Hall Hotel, Harrisburg.

Our correspondent, Wm. Reed, of 8th Mo. Vol., has returned to his home in Hartley, honorably discharged and in improved bodily vigor. Three years he fought through the hardest battles of the West, ending near Keosau, without a scratch from the enemy.

Rev. C. F. Deisinger writes, 231 June, that himself, family, and Christian friends reached San Francisco on the 8th and were kindly welcomed.

The Christian Commission acknowledge the receipt of $13.09 by L. Sterner, from the Lutheran Congregation, Lewisburg.

There seems to be a general impression that a large Rebel force is in or near our southern line, determined upon one more desperate effort to reach our Capital, our coal region, and by horrid destruction seek to withdraw Great from Richmond. Pennsylvanians have thus before them the probability of other Chambersburgs.

A Called Session of the Legislature.

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of the said Commonwealth—

Whereas, an extraordinary occasion requires that prompt legislative action be had, to make the military power of the Commonwealth immediately available for State and National defense.

Therefore I, Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by virtue of the powers vested in me by the Constitution, do hereby convene the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, and require the members of the Senate and House of Representatives to meet in their respective houses, in the Capitol, at Harrisburg, on TUESDAY, the 29th day of August, 1864, at twelve o'clock, noon, of that day, then and there to deliberate upon and adopt such measures as may in their wisdom be demanded by the exigencies of the occasion.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed, at Harrisburg, this 1st day of August, in the year of our Lord 1864, and of the Independence of the United States the 89th.

A. G. CURTIN, [s]
By the Governor:
ELI SHAFER,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Chambersburg in Ashes!

WANTON BARBARITY.

For some weeks, both Rebel and Union forces on the Upper Potomac, aided by the extreme shallowness of water which left that river fordable everywhere, have been playing a deadly "hide and seek" game among the mountains and valleys South of Central Pennsylvania. The movements of the large hostile forces, checked with success and disaster, have been frequent, but carefully concealed, and even now but little is fully known.

Last Friday, however, Gen. J. Barry escaped through the Union lines on the Potomac, and by a forced march reached Chambersburg, early in the morning of Saturday, with 3,000 men, part taking a position outside of town, the remainder rushing in under a notorious Gen. M'Calland. This Rebel force in the town numbered five hundred cavalry, with four pieces of artillery. They demanded a subsidy of five hundred thousand dollars in Northern money or a hundred thousand in gold. The Bank, the Railway and the merchants had removed their money and most desirable merchandise—so that the people could not comply with a demand so unreasonable. While parleying, the order was given by M'Calland to FIRE THE TOWNS. There was no military gain to be realized by so revengeful and cruel a deed. No railway house or manufactory was touched—but the torch was applied to the Court House, Town Hall, and Bank buildings. Soldiers broke open the drug stores, prepared turpentine balls, and sent them in every direction.

263 Buildings Burned!

The wind rising, the flames spread and consumed 263 valuable houses public or private. A writer says:
"Poor bed ridden invalids begged the wretches to desist in their work, and spare their homes, but without avail. To no species of appeal would they hearken. Dead alike to the entreaties of wailing young children and weeping women, they soiled at them with jeers and brutal insults. Eleven squares in the heart of the town are in ruins. All the public buildings, printing and law offices are destroyed—also all the principal hotels, and the Associate and Bethel church houses. The German Reformed Messenger, the Guardian and we believe a small German religious paper—the Chambersburg Repository, and The Oil Flag, (Union)—and The Valley Spirit, (Democrat)—are the lights thus extinguished by barbarians. A million of dollars will not make good the losses sustained."

As the flames roared and leaped from house to house, the scene was most appalling. The aged and infirm plead for mercy—women were shrieking for their missing children, and children crying for their mothers—and above all was the hiss and crackling of the fire that licked up the life-long earnings of thousands.

Gen. Couch had retired with his small force and the valuable public and private property before the Rebel superior force, Northward. But before noon, the Union Gen. Averill, with a good but tired troop, came thundering up from the South—and the Rebels left the burning town, making fast time Westward. They passed over the mountains, to M'Connellsville, pursued and harassed by Averill—then, turning Southward, reached the Potomac, near Hancock—well worn, with little plunder, reduced in number, and having earned a notoriety by no means enviable.

Saturday night was a sad and weary one to many a houseless family among the debris of Chambersburg, or, unsheltered, in the fields around it, the members of their own homes yet glowing visibly—the old and the young, the infirm and the hale, without food or bed, and nothing to show or use but what their hands had brought away from their burning homes!

The Burning of Chambersburg.

The Rebels have inaugurated a new era in warfare. During a contest that has waged with bitterness for over three years, no such circumstances have marked any previous movement as attended the incursion into Pennsylvania on Saturday. The outrage of the war have been more frequent on the part of the Rebels than the amount of strife. They initiated the murderous custom of picket shooting. They stopped passenger trains and robbed the passengers. They riddled unarmed transports with bullets, and massacred the black troops after they had surrendered; and now another feature of warfare is added to the list, and the world reads of a raid, of drunken cavalry guided by infuriated officers, and the destruction of one of the most thriving towns in Southern Pennsylvania.

Arms never war against defenceless women or unarmed men. Towns have been fired, as Vicksburg and Petersburg were fired, by the Union shells, when Rebel armies garrisoned them, and as Frederickburg was fired by the Rebel batteries when the Union men marched through its streets and sought the shelter of its walls; but no town, undefended and unprotected, after surrendering to an enemy, was ever burned by a civilized foe. The souls of war may be searched in vain for a parallel to the wanton burning of Chambersburg. It was sublime in the Russians to commit their capital to the flames when the victorious eagles of France rested beneath the shadow of the Kremlin; but it was the act of an incendiary and coward to burn a town occupied only by helpless women and children, after the surrender of that town to the enemy. Civilized warfare recognizes law as its director, and it is an acknowledged law of modern warfare that no town in an enemy's country, even if a garrison or a fortress, shall be destroyed when rescued at its gates. Averill was burning Chambersburg. The Rebel marauders know that in a few hours the Union cavalry would trample down the followers of M'Calland, and the torch was applied to the dwellings of Chambersburg while the dust of Averill's troopers was rising from the neighboring hillsides.

The indignation called forth by the deed is universal. Every Pennsylvanian feels the full measure of the humiliation we have experienced. That Governor Curtin has called the Legislature together, for Tuesday next, is an earnest of the determination of the will of the people to cancel the debt of infamy.

Chambersburg is a loyal town. It always gave handsome majorities, by vote, to sustain the Government, in its fight with Rebels. It recently held a spirited Fair, which gave several thousand dollars, clear, for the soldiers. Her Democrats have little of the Copperhead spirit which does exist in some of that region, for they are respectable, intelligent men, and very many of them have been in the army. We say this in justification of the effort to send them money to meet their present calamity. Harrisburg at once forwarded eight or ten thousand dollars, and elsewhere contributions are being made. Food is already supplied, but clothing and other articles of household comfort are needed, which can best be furnished with money. We deem it one of those peculiar cases (as when Pittsburg was desolated by fire) in which the Legislature may properly relieve present necessities, though it can not make up the real losses.

SNYDER COUNTY.—Vote, by ballot, on Saturday the 4th, whether Commissioners shall pay County bounty.....Middleburg offers $250 for one year's volunteers.....Serg. We wish it understood that the Junior hereof voted before leaving on the pleasant little excursion explained in the bygone record. (And everybody says, "Good 'ness to 'em!")

A J. Dietrick & Ch't. Huston Esq's of Williamsport, are connected with the extensive National Claim Agency, advertised in to-day's paper.

The National Fast Day was well observed in Lewisburg, Selingsgrove, Harrisburg, and other places we have heard from.

A small farm in East Buffalo is advertised for sale in to-day's paper.

There are rumors that a woman and two children were burned in the conflagration of Chambersburg—also that the freebooter, Harry Gilmore, was trampled to death by our people, while abusing a widow—and that another Rebel was killed by another man. They seemed mostly drunk, and twenty or more have been secured and sent North. They are a ragged but dirty and delinquent set of men.

Gen. Grant keeps his own counsel. A brother of his recently visited him, and confidentially inquired, "Ulysses, how many men have you?" "I have a good many," replied the wise man.
