O no, we never mention him, His name is never heard, For since the Great Election's passed, Twould be so quite absurd! We often mention FARBAGUE, DUPONT, and PORTER too, But never speak of Little -Of Little-you know who !

O no, we never mention him, His deeds are rarely stirred, For patriot lips dislike so breathe A sad remembered word; We talk of Lincoln, Sheridan, Of SHERMAN, and of GRANT, But, O there is another name Of which we really can't! He was a very nice young man, And promising, you know,

But then he made some great mistakes A few short years ago. O no, we never mention him, His name is never heard,

Compared with whom, NAPOLEON Was reckoned quite absurd; He once was great on Strategy, And kept an Anaconda, And when it died, we dug the hole, And buried it out yonder; Along the Chickahominy, He was a mighty digger, The King of Spales, a Dimmycrat.

And down upon the Nigger. O no, we no more speak of him, His praise no longer heard, He's awful sick of POLLY-TICKS-"Sie transit," little bird! He got seduced by crafty men. Who slapped him on the back,

And said, We'll make a President Of -, no, I've lost the knack Of uttering that little word, I can not get it out; And yet we used to see his name Emblazoned all about.

O no, we never mention him, His name is never heard, He's dead and buried, so he is-Farewell, thou dainty bird! In wide oblivion's dimmest nook, A shingle marks the place, Bearing this mis spelt contach: "Requiescat in Peace.

made his maiden speech in Sangamon county, at Pappysville, (or Richland) about the year 1832. He was then a Third Monday in February-May-Septemb'r-De Whig, and candidate for the Legislature of Illinois. The speech is sharp and sensible. To understand why it is so short, the following facts will show: First, Mr. Lincoln was young, say twenty two years of age, and timid. Secondary, his friends and opponents, in the joint discussion, had rolled the sun hearly down. Mr. Lincoln saw it was not then a proper time to discuss the questions fully, and hence he cut his remarks short. Probably the other candidates had wholly exhausted the subjects under consideration. The President lived at the time with James A. Herndon, at Salem, Sangamon | mau Co., who heard the speech, talked about it, and knows the report to be correct. The speech, which was characteristic of a the man, was as follows:

"Gentlemen. Fellow Citizens: I presume you all know who I am. I am
