PITTSBURGH:
...RSDAY MORNING, JAN. 3, 1861.

THE NEW YEAR.

At the threshold of a New Year, the first of a new Decade in this boasted-of Nineteenth Century, if we could delay our own onward footsteps for a while, and observe the rushing tide passing by, how should we distinguish the direction of the currents and the forms of things which they bear along with them, in the darkness which now impends over all? More than mortal vision seems needed now even to see the things present with us—to see them with any result of insight from the mere attempted looking at them. The scene, as it presents itself, is without disposition of parts—if we were to attempt to depict it on an imaginary canvas, we could make no background for the mind's eye to repose on. All we see—all we can bring ourselves to look at—must crowd the foreground of every mental picture we form. The absorbing power of the home affairs of our country is made very striking by the evidence we have every day so abundantly supplied in the almost unnoticed and heedless with which the most wonderful and unexpected intelligence from Europe and Asia is received.

Intelligence which a year ago would have been the prolific source of leading articles innumerable in all newspapers, and of excited discussions wherever men do congregate, hardly excites enough interest now to win any but the most unwearied reader through the details of the ordinary reports. The recent reforms initiated by the French Emperor, the affairs of Italy (after the first brief enthusiasm of sympathy with which indeed we did receive all the successes of the noble Italian and his co-patriots!) the progress of the allied English and French forces in China, issuing in the capture of Pekin itself—events which at any other time would have had absorbing interest for our people, are now "crowded out" by the nearer things with which we are called on to grapple, in a revolution and civil war threatened at home. We would not be alarmists, but certainly the "signs of the times" warrant many grave doubts whether the year on which we now enter will not mark a disastrous era in our future history.—One of these "signs" is to us the most portentous of all, namely, the apparent desire on the part of some of our public men to make a people—educated for three quarters of a century under free institutions—with the conserving safeguards of a free press and the rights of free speech—forego these all—submit to the factitious terrors of a political "situation"—and "back down" without regard to any other principle than that of "expediency!"

THE FEELING IN THE NORTH.—The weakness of President Buchanan, as exhibited in the secession movement, has had the effect to arouse the people of the North to the necessity of maintaining the integrity of the Union at all hazards. We learn from the Washington correspondent of the New-York Times, that several prominent Republicans at the federal capital have received dispatches from large New York merchants, saying that at an hour's warning one hundred thousand men would be ready to go to Charleston to collect the revenue. Even Mr. Sickels has returned to Washington somewhat tamed, and he says that he never saw such a complete revolution in sentiment as exists in New York.

We learn from Harrisburg that the feeling among the members of the Legislature is decidedly in favor of making military preparations to meet any attempt on the part of the Disunionists to resist by force the administration of Mr. Lincoln.

In Massachusetts and other New England States the same patriotic determination is expressed by the people and the authorities. From present indications it is evident that the parties North and South who contemn the 4 h of July and who seek to dishonor the American flag, all for the sake of slavery, will find the work more difficult to accomplish than they expected in the outstart.

GOV. PACKER'S MESSAGE.—We lay before our readers the last annual message of Governor Packer. A great portion of this document is devoted to the consideration of our national affairs, and the position is taken that no State has a right to secede from the Union; but like a true northern democrat the Governor advocates "concessions" innumerable. He is willing to give up his squatter sovereignty doctrine, and reinstate the Missouri line, which his friend Mr. Douglas destroyed some years ago. He recommends that the consent of the State be given to the master while sojourning or passing through Pennsylvania to retain the services of his slaves, but says nothing about the maltreatment of Pennsylvania white men, whose business compels them to visit the Southern States. The message closes with the declaration that our State is devoted to the Union and will follow the stars and stripes through every peril, but before assuming the weighty responsibilities foreshadowed, it is our solemn duty to remove every just cause of complaint, so as to stand before high heaven without fear and without reproach, ready to devote our lives and fortunes to support the best form of government ever devised by the wisdom of man.

In his despair, occasioned by the result of his folly in tampering with treason, and dealing with traitors, it appears that President Buchanan offered the position of Secretary of State to Gen. Scott. We find the following in the Tribune amiable subject:

"The vacant bureau was first offered to Gen. Scott, and though his acceptance of the post would have done much to restore confidence to the country, no one can be surprised that he declined to accept it. His acceptance would have involved the necessity of a resignation of his present commission, and in the event of a not improbable difference between him and the President he would, by resigning the Secretaryship, have then been reduced to the position of a private citizen. The country may yet need him as the military head of the army, and in that post may rely both on his ability and will to serve it effectually."

[Special Correspondence of the Daily Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Dec. 31, 1860.

EDS. GAZETTE:—The Republican caucus met this afternoon at three o'clock, having anticipated the usual hour to accommodate Mr. Connell, of Philadelphia, who is crippled in his legs by rheumatism, and did not like to come out at night. There were twenty-six of the twenty-seven Republican Senators present, Mr. McClure having left for Springfield on the invitation of the President elect. The following is the list of officers elected:

Speaker—R. M. Palmer, Schuylkill: unanimously.
Clerk—Russell Errett, Allegheny, unanimously.
Assistant Clerk—C. P. Bergstedt, Venango, 15 to 10 for Lord, over Montgomery.
Engrossing Clerk—George W. Patton, Blair, G. B. Berry, Erie, P. Hitchcock, Lycoming, R. A. Cooper, Washington.
Sergeant at Arms—Harmon Yerkes, Philadelphia.
Doorkeeper at Arms—J. R. McAfee, Westmoreland.
Messenger—John G. Martin, Lancaster.
Janitors—John B. Hines, Bradford, George Hubb, Centre, W. Huddleston, Delaware, John G. Brewer, Montour.
Assembly, Clinton.

...elected without opposition ... day following.

... and selected his ... unanimously.

...which is in his favor. The canvass, however, has hardly developed itself, and it is impossible, yet, to form a correct conclusion.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 1, 1861.

Eds. Gazette: The two Houses organized to-day, according to the usual programme. The House elected Speaker and Clerk, and swore in the members, postponing the election of the other officers until to-morrow. The Senate, however, elected all the officers, the caucus nominee going through without trouble. The six Democrats present voted for Mr. SCHNEBLY for Speaker and Mr. HUTCHINSON, of Allegheny, for Clerk.

The speeches of the Speakers of the two Houses, on taking their seats, were very strong in favor of the Union, declaring that Pennsylvania will not permit the Union to be dissolved, but will demand the enforcement of the laws against all who attempt to sunder it.

Mr. Smith, of Philadelphia, introduced into the Senate resolutions relative to the National Crisis. These declare that Pennsylvania stands by the Constitution and the Union, and pledges her faith to the observance of the one and her whole power to the maintainance of the other. They deny that Pennsylvania has unconstitutional laws upon her statute books and profess a willingness to submit her laws to the judgment of the Supreme Court. They also affirm Gen. Jackson's doctrine that no State can absolve herself at will from the Union, and call upon the President to use all the power of the government to put down rebellion.

The resolutions were referred a committee of five, consisting of Messrs. Smith, Hall, Ketcham, Schindel and Clymer.

In the House, Mr. Randall, (dem.) of Philadelphia introduced resolutions favoring the repeal of the Anti-Kidnapping Act of 1847, and abounding in the usual democratic lingo. No action was taken upon, them. E.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE Committee of investigation on the great robbery will not go to New York as anticipated, as there is reason to believe the bonds have passed from the hands of the parties with whom they were hypothecated into others, either for concealment or by actual sale. They cannot be legally followed when possessed by innocent and bona fide purchasers, and more than bank notes. The blundering ignorance of the Department left the Government without any protection whatever.

THE TRADE WITH CHARLESTON.

So far as coasting vessels are concerned, the trade with Charleston may not be seriously interrupted, as they all sail under licence running one year. At the expiration of that time, they will be apt to find another state of things Every irregular clearance for a foreign port subjects the vessel hearing it to seizure and libel, for which the Custom-House officers will look out, as they share in the distribution of the proceeds

GENERAL CASS.

General Cass will return to Detroit in a fortnight, leaving his household here till Spring. His absence from Washington will be much regretted.

MR LINCOLN'S INAUGURATION.

General Scott intends to be present and assist, officially, at Mr. Lincoln's inauguration, and will signify the presence of his name and character to the becoming observances of that occasion. The threats which are now foolishly circulated by reckless presses, are disregarded here. The people of Washington will take care to preserve order, and to protect themselves against ruffianism, from whatever quarter, and if volunteers to defend the laws are needed, there will be plenty on the spot

ANOTHER SWINDLE

An act was smuggled through Congress last session, authorizing the Secretary of War to reopen the claim of the estate of George Fisher of Florida, for alleged losses by the Government, which will now probably be repealed Two years ago a relief law was passed, when the accounting officers investigated and found the claim to have been more than paid before Still, $39,000 were allowed by Mr Floyd, who had the discretion to settle it. Under the revisory act of last session, he allowed $66 000 more payment of which was fortunately stopped by the condition of the Treasury. Information has been obtained, stating that the first allowance was never returned to the estate at all, and the heirs were endeavoring to stop the last, when the subject was carried back to Congress. This is another edition of the Da Groot operation in the same Department, allowing $119,000, which is to be investigated with other matters in Mr Floyd's Department.—Tribune.

A NEW YEAR'S STORY,

APPEARS ON THE 3d JANUARY, 1861.

In the City of New York, on the above date, will be made public the above all-exciting, all-absorbing incident, of which almost every one is anxious to hear or know something.

Be it known, therefore, that John Ross Dix, Esq., has written a most remarkable New Year's Story—remarkable alike for its intensely amusing and thrilling scenarios, points and incidents, which cannot fail to carry with it delight as an amusement into the household of every family in the land. Seldom if ever, has a story been published more suited for universal perusal at the commencement of a new year. The records of the wonderful tales told by the pilgrims and pedlars who have all assembled together on the memorable occasion referred to, are all happily blended together by the author in his own style at once genial, attractive and substantial, as in this new story.

The above story has been written specially for the HOUSEHOLD JOURNAL, commencing in No. 16. It will appear exclusively
