LIFEWARD.

NUMBER XII.

O great self-hood! for Faith brings Love and Hope,
Her Sister Graces—and the Three can cope
With every form of danger then canst fear—
Will outward ill and inward evil thwart?
When thou belittest, bid farewell to fear!—
Let the world do its worst, thy help is near
In Him thou followest!—seeking, as He sought,
The heavn-accordèd, God-approaching road
Of humble Faith and dutiful life, wherein,
As in the Footsteps of that Holy One,
Thou goest from strength to strength, and wearliest not!
All that man fear, the selfs they Symbols,
May also come to thee; them must be set
Through these, and in them all be exercised—
For only these them thou be perfected!
Self if thou art weak, despised not; for strength
Out of thy weakness He will part or stretch.
For Him, e'en His was perfect made through suffering.
Thus made Himself in life and death an offering
For Others—working till His work suffced
For all, forever!.....Then His Father, God,
Received Him to His throne—and, many-voiced,
The Immeasurable hosts of heaven lyricised
To see earth's humblest and most suffering One
Crowned with heaven's glory on the Father's throne,
And power all exalted, Lord and Christ!

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Presbyterian Almanac for 1861 contains some statistical information relative to Presbyterian bodies and other denominations. According to the summary published in the Banner, the Presbyterian family in the United States is divided into ten branches; in the British Provinces, into six branches, and in Great Britain and Ireland, into eight branches. The aggregate number of the Presbyterian Church in these places are as follows: Ministers, 10,464; Churches, 12,126; and communicants, 979,218. From the same source we learn there are of the Congregationalists, 2,908 ministers, and 257,-684 communicants. The Baptists have 576 Associations; 7,837 ministers, 1,020,442 communicants. This does not include "Irregular Baptists." Methodism in the North (Methodist Episcopal) has 49 conferences, 6,877 itinerant ministers, 974,845 communicants. The Southern M. E. Church has 24 conferences, 2,494 traveling ministers, 721,023 communicants. [There are 12,000 local preachers of the Methodist E. Church.] There are 38 Synods in the Lutheran Church, 1,313 ministers, 245,726 communicants. The German Reformed Church has 24 Classes, 391 ministers, 92,684 communicants. In the Protestant Episcopal Church there are 33 dioceses, 2,150 ministers, and 146,688 communicants. This interesting book, edited by Jos. M. Wilson, Esq., contains much valuable information for clergyman.

——Since the publication of a revised edition of "Anana's Difficulties of Arminian Methodism," quite a spicy controversy has sprung up between the Calvinists and Arminians. The editor of the Advocate and Journal, in an editorial, writes as if he thought Methodists could look after their own difficulties better than outsiders. He, however, volunteers to classify the difficulties of Arminian Methodism, which is considerate for a Methodist. We give Ecclesiastical and Experimental difficulties. He says of the former:

1. We do not all attend our weekly prayer meeting. True, the minister may not be there, for Jesus Christ is. 2. We do not all attend class meetings. Of old "they that feared the Lord spake often one to another." 3. We have too many fine churches; Mr. Wesley cautioned against this, and we are suffering the evils he foresaw. We complain not of fine buildings, but where are the churches for the poor? 4. We have too many great men; once the preacher called for sinners, and sinners came forth, saved by grace. Now the people call for orators, and orators come, but both cases the supply corresponde-to the demand. Oratory is good, very good, but should not rank first. 5. We have too much fine singing in the house of worship, and always with the spirit and the understanding also.

The experimental difficulties are: 1. We have too much disposed to put material interests before moral ones, and by reason thereof we suffer encroachments from the lusts of the flesh, the lusts of the eye, and the pride of life. 2. We are not all perfect in knowledge. 3. We are not all perfect in faith. 4. We are not all perfect in love. 5. We are not sufficiently kind and catholic in spirit, and are too much troubled with the difficulties of sister Churches.

——According to the latest official publication of the Acts and Proceedings of the General Synod of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in North America, there are thirty-one classes, three hundred and seventy churches, three hundred and eighty seven ministers, and fifty thousand four hundred and twenty seven communicants. Number of Sabbath Schools, six hundred and nineteen; number of scholars, forty-five thousand three hundred and sixty-two.

——The Churchman, of New York, rebukes the Young Men's Christian Association of that city for "their impertinence in daring to issue a circular to the clergy" urging them to exhort the ladies of their congregations to refrain from placing the temptation of the intoxicating cup before their visitors on New Year's day. It says:

"Among God's good gifts, 'wine maketh glad the heart of man,' is enumerated in the Holy Scriptures. Christ himself approved of the drinking of wine and, in his first miracle, gave his sanction not only to wine drinking but to innocent social enjoyment. In the next place, though we may grant that total abstinence from intoxicating liquors may be necessary to such persons as cannot control their own animal appetites, yet we deny that the rule is binding upon, or even advisable for, Christian men."

——The Sunday School connected with the Sand's Street Methodist Episcopal church, New York, contributed fifteen hundred dollars to the Missionary cause for one year. Here is an example worthy of imitation.

——Depots for the sale and distribution of Bibles have been established in several towns in Italy, and well qualified colporteurs are employed.

——Garibaldi granted a site in Naples to erect a Church for English residents, in acknowledgment of what Italian freedom owes to England.

——The great Liberator (Garibaldi) in presenting the Hungarians of his army with new colors, said:

"I love and venerate the religion of Christ because Christ came into this world to rescue humanity from slavery. But this Pope, who wishes that men should be slaves, who asks from the powerful of the earth fetters and chains for the Italians; this Pope King does not know Christ; he has set up in his own religion. * * * Education gives liberty; educating the people means the power to assure and defend its independence. On a strong and healthy education of the people depend the liberty and grandeur of Italy."

——It is estimated that the clear increase to the various orthodox religious bodies in Wales, during the recent revival, is 100,000, or about one twentieth of the whole population.

——The Episcopal Recorder contradicts the statement that the Episcopal churches in Charleston, S. C., omitted the usual mention of the President of the United States in the Liturgical services, and says they pray for the President most heartily, and trust that he may be divinely guided in this great crisis.

——A member of the Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church South, named Stanley, stated at the session of this body that he had confirmed a number of persons by the imposition of hands after baptism. Some of the ministers objected to the practice, but no action was taken.

——The Tennessee Baptist is indignant because Dr. Robinson, of the Rochester Theological Seminary has consented to supply the vacant pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church in that city.

——The Home and Foreign Record reports observing information from the Presbyterian missionaries in China, Japan and on the Coast of Africa.

——Rev. Dr. Guthrie, the distinguished Scotch divine of Edinburgh, says the correspondent of the Banner, recently made a statement in regard to postures in public worship, which has created a sensation. He expressed from the pulpit, a few Sabbaths ago, a wish to "disburden his conscience" on a matter which had long pressed upon it:

"He said that the proper attitude for singing was standing—proper because it was an act of worship, and proper because it was the better fitted for the act of singing. He said that he believed that there was a prejudice in favor of sitting during the singing of this psalm on the ground that it was a good old Scotch custom. This was an entire mistake. The good old Scotch custom was to stand, and sitting was first introduced in Scotland by the recommendation of the Westminster Commissioners, who wished that there should be an outward unity in worship in both parts of the island. It was introduced in Scotland in compliance with English prejudices.

"In like manner, said Dr. G., 'kneeling at prayer, and not standing, is the proper attitude. He could himself testify that standing is a constrained attitude, is a narrow pew, distracted the attention and rendered it very difficult to follow the clergyman."

——The N. O. Christian Advocate says in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, at the close of the exercises on Thanksgiving day, the organist struck up, and the congregation joined in singing, the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner."

——Bishop Paine of the M. E Church, South, sold at Alexandria: Give him the children of a town for five years and he would take the town.

——Intelligence has been received at Brussels of the burning of a Bible at St. Trond, in Belgium quite recently and of a serious disturbance at a dealer's stall where Bibles of the Evangelical Society were sold. This high-handed outrage produced quite a tumult in the community.

——The Boston Congregationalist says:

We certainly hold that Union (Sunday School) Conventions are not the place to discuss infant baptism, and on that very ground, we have advocated a denominational convention, in order that a subject which we consider so important as that may not be ignored, out of politeness to brethren who differ from us.

——An exchange says a new religious sect has began to develop itself in the northern part of Denmark; its believers claiming that there are five Gods in one, and calling themselves Pentarians.

FROM KANSAS.

LAWRENCE, Monday, Dec. 24, 1860.—Another week has brought with it but little change in affairs in Southern Kansas. Nothing is surer than that we are nearer the end, but what the end is to be remains the important inquiry. At Fort Scott about 80 dragoons follow their daily employment of doing nothing, and at Mound city 125 infantry are driving the same trade. It is now passing on to mid-Winter, and the cold weather is becoming more tedious, while the troops become more disconcerted. The snow has now fallen about six inches, and tent life is not the most desirable.

Capt. Montgomery and his men seem fully reconciled to the turn that has been given to their matters, while the Democrats and Darkhaneutrates are most fearfully disturbed. They fully illustrate the doctrine that there is no peace to the wicked. For the last two weeks they have been urging a Convention of the people in the counties interested, to adopt certain principles upon which the troops can be taken away, and the country once more restored to peace. A manuscript letter has been circulated among the settlers to ascertain how far it would obtain their favor. Some of the army officers are understood to favor such a Convention, and certain territorial officials are also known to be conniving secretly for the same object. The letter is dated at Mound City, December 13, and I enclose you a copy. A majority of the people will not attend—not because they have material objections to the most of the propositions set forth in their letter, but they have done with the Calhoune resolutions. They are especially opposed to all compromises. In a few days we shall know better what they have done.

Missouri seems determined to make out in some way that there has been war, or that it is just ahead. Since the return of Gen Frost's brigade to St. Louis, some two hundred volunteer have taken position on the line, and will remain there. Why they are there no one knows but a Missourian. It is now generally believed that there never was any intention on the part of the people of Kansas of invading Missouri for any purpose unless first invaded. Still Gen. Stuart was hoodwinked and led into the fatal error of sending a whole brigade out to protect his border, and now they seem inclined to taper it out by keeping two hundred there a while, instead of acknowledging themselves most woefully humbugged. All that is to be said or complain of, but could rather enjoy the leisure of their staying out to watch the imaginary line, and bay the moon during these cold nights, and they not seem so anxious to provoke a fight

Nothing can aggravate our people so quick as such a movement from Missouri to whom we owe neither love nor respect. Gov. Robinson saw all this forcibly, and gave timely warning to all concerned, that it would never do to permit Missourians to invade Kansas, and that even their marshalling along the line in large numbers, would greatly endanger our civil relations

The Governor announced his resignation in a letter to the people of Kansas last week, and cautiously squints at some of the causes for so unexpected a step. The same remarkable characteristics will ere long be found to attend this case, that have so distinguished some of his predecessors. Not less than ten honorable gentlemen have now worn the title of Gov or acting Governor in Kansas. Some of them have been removed because their Free State sentiments gave umbrage to the Administration, and the balance of them have voluntarily resigned, because the Administration offended them. Medary belongs to the latter class; and he is the proper person to give the public the benefit of his experience.

Winter has now set in to earnest. Yesterday the snow fell about fifteen inches, and we have now the best of sleighing, but no sleighs. Our fast boys substitute everything that has a crook on the bottom and a stool or basket on top. Then all the fair ladies that have not partaken of the luxury for years, are pressing hard, as if it were leap year and all.

The river is closed, and will soon support teams on the ice. Cattle have run out till last Saturday, in many cases without feeding—a favorable circumstance, as thousands will be left this Winter of fodder from necessity.

Our Territorial Legislature meets in two weeks, unless we are previously admitted to that event, the State Legislature will be immediately convened Then will come the struggle for United States Senators. Of that hereafter.

The sectarian movement creates no extra excitement here. We are hardened to bold measures, and sometimes hear of harsh and revolutionary ones nearer home It would not surprise some if more were in store for us I hope not. Rest for the weary is our first prayer.—Correspondence N. Y. Times

AT CAPRERA, in Garibaldi's house, at break of day all are astir, and every one preparing himself for his own occupation, so that on the little square facing the house you see on one side Col. D——— sharpening a knife, on the other a mending a spade; Menotti, his son, trying a musket; B——, who with a needle mends nets; Giuseppe selecting the seeds; and, inside the house, the daughter's good governess preparing some coffee for three working people. Then each goes about his business—one to the vine, which is to be tried; some devoting themselves to fishing, others to the chase, and the General to survey all, to direct all, selecting the best agricultural systems that his mind suggests to him. Towards mid-day a slight and sober collation, where, seated around an old walnut table, "belonging to drawing or entrance room," they narrate to each other their campestral feats, interpersed by relations of war episodes, of military adventures, and a hundred other things, which render that familiar intercourse so exquisitly agreeable. Then the daughter, à l' impromptu, makes the house resound with the accords of an excellent piano (sole luxurious article of furniture he possesses at Caprera), and beg ins playing the allegro, "Daglicla scandi un paese," followed by that here prohibited, "va fuori d' Italia"—hymns which recall so much grief and so many national joys. After breakfast each resumes his occupation again, to meet at the frugal evening dinner, where certainly no one envies the regal repast shared in gilded saloons. At night, after a short walk, the Dictator retires to his own little room, and there, alone with his thoughts, meditates on the future destiny of Italy. Government sent to Maedalena, for the Dictator's disposal, the national steamer Washington—the same that so greatly assisted at the disembarkation on terr firma. Garibaldi, however gratified at such empressement, would not allow that the State should suffer an expenditure which he thought unnecessary, and nobly refused the offer. Last week he, with various friends, went to the Sardinian coast to hunt. Hardly was Garibaldi's arrival known than a thousand fires shone on the surrounding hill summits, and multitudes of mountaineers hastened from every part. Among those villagers he spent a happy day.

THE DUKE OF MALAKOFF IN TROUBLE.—The Duke of Malakoff is to have $100,000 a year as Governor of Algeria, which, added to his salary as Marshal, Senator, member of the Council of Regency and Duke, constitute an income from the State Treasury of $162,000 a year. But the Duke can't obtain the consent of his young wife to accompany him in his Algerino exile, and she is fitting up the handsome residence in the Avenue Montaigne given her by the Empress at the time of her marriage, as a permanent residence during the Governor's absence. The Governor was complaining a few days ago to the Emperor, that he could not induce his wife to go with him to Algiers, when His majesty said to him, laughing, "That's it; you can take Sebastopol, Duke, but you can't conquer a woman!"

A couple of "lovers" were married in Hartford, Conn., last week, after a separation of more than twenty-five years. They were born in England; "loved not wisely but too well;" the girls parents refused to let them marry, even to save disgrace; the young man came to America, got rich at Cleveland, and visited a friend's house at Hartford, intending soon to take the steamer for his fatherland. While passing a pleasant evening a lady called, and the mutual attraction between the pair, thus casually introduced, was so strong that they each inquired about the other, and the upshot was! the man aged about fifty years, married his old sweetheart, aged forty-six, who was residing in Hartford with their two son, a young married man of about twenty-five.

THE governor of the nation of South Carolina has begun his administration by the theft of the property of the United States. His name is naturally connected with acts of piety hereby, and as long as South Carolina has him for her chief magistrate, she may hope to enjoy the advantages both of "Pickens and stealings."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

A compound remedy, designed to be the most effectual Alterative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the disease which sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from grievous complaints, and that one which will accomplish that cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS, ERUPTIONS AND ERUPTIVE DISEASES, BLOTCHES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, SYPHILIS AND SYPHILITIC AFFECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEURALGIA OR TIC DOULOUREUX, DEBILITY, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular symptoms of disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this fluid tainted or disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends; But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the thing alone has not all the virtue that it is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.
