Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says: "The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair-Oils, and the numberless preparations which we flow before the public under the most extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we see paraded in show windows, and newspaper headings, as hair preparations, are all humbugs of the most transparent and ridiculous character. They possess not, in that they do no harm. HOG'S LARD, WHALE OIL, AND CAMPHOR OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and well labelled glass bottles, the costliest character of tonics and when these costly, are bepraised with some triphthetic term, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes, much to the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative. The professor constitutes the world without a rival, and the 'soft' Nincompoopium, or any other astounding and snorting catch-penny humbug, simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it expresses to promise—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you value your scalp, eye, your very brains, apply nothing else; for it may be that you will get some other nostrum than performed lard oil on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process, Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color, Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads, Will restore the Natural Beauty to the Hair, Will remove at once all Itchiness, Will remove all Dandruff, Will cure all eruptions—leave no Scald Head, Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy, Will make the old appear young again, Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age, Will always Restore it and stop its Falling, And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

Manufactured by O. J. WOOD & CO., and sold Wholesale and Retail, at 444 Broadway, New York; and 114 Market st., St. Louis, Mo.

PITTSBURGH: FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 18.

Incidents of Secession.

Several gentlemen have arrived in this city within a few days who have for a long time past, been engaged in trade at Charleston. One of these kept a provision and grocery store. A demand was made upon him for an exorbitant sum to sustain the State authorities. He offered them State stocks, but they would only accept a moderate amount of these securities, and finally they removed by force about one-half of all the goods from his store. He did not dare to remonstrate, but quietly sent his slaves to Richmond, Va., and, between two days, packed up the remainder of his property and left the State. His case, he says, is only a sample of multitudes of others. It is no uncommon thing to notice the closing of stores, when an inspection of the premises reveals the fact that all the merchandise has been removed.

The insecurity of person and property; the difficulty of getting into the harbor on account of the removal of buoys and coast-lights; the danger of having vessels seized by the State when they do get in, and the greatly enhanced rates of marine insurance upon vessels bound to Charleston, combine to prevent vessels from going there. Large quantities of goods intended for their current supplies are sent to Savannah, where business has largely increased, and they are then sent to Charleston by railroad. Six dollars per ton is paid for freight on coal from Savannah to Charleston. On the whole, the Savannah merchants are highly pleased with the course of affairs at Charleston, and advise them to go ahead. There is no intention at present, however, to put out the lights and remove the buoys in Savannah harbor.

Information from Georgia, which will be found in detail in another part of this morning's Times, gives an interesting account of the several classes of the population who are most active in the secession movement. It is also stated that the Governor has prohibited the departure of any more volunteers for Charleston, partly because so many of those who have already gone thither sickened and died, and partly because it is feared they may all be required at home to suppress insurrections.

A gentleman recently from Charleston expressed the opinion in conversation yesterday that whiskey had a great deal to do with the secession movement in Charleston. The entire population, he said, seemed to be on a perpetual debauch. Bar-rooms, restaurants, stores, shops, all public places, were crowded incessantly by a drunken, blaspheming mob. This is the material which constitutes the principal strength of the secession movement. The orderly and conservative portion of the citizens are completely overawed by them, and carefully avoid taking any steps which might excite their displeasure.—N. Y. Times.

A Kentucky Tragedy—Family Feud.

Last night about midnight a tragedy was enacted in this city that probably was never equalled for deadly effects, ferocity and unnatural hate. We have time only for a hasty account of it.

A fierce feud had long existed between two brothers named John Paul Evans and Robert M. Evans, members of an old and well known family of this city. Their grandfather laid out the town of Evansville. They have made several attempts heretofore on each other's lives.

Robert went to a ball at Mozart Hall yesterday evening, with a lady. Over a hundred people were there. About midnight Paul came in intoxicated. He went up to his brother and asked him to drink. His brother refused, whereupon Paul drew a knife, seeing which Robert drew a six-shooter. Paul struck back and drew a six-shooter. Robert drew a knife and put it between his teeth and commenced firing. Paul returned the fire and each fired six shots, and then closed and used their knives. They were mortally wounded.

Paul started for the front door and went out; was followed and brought back and died in twenty minutes. He was shot in the upper part of the breast at last accounts. He is also stabbed.

Robert, when Paul left the room, followed him as far as the inside door, where he fell, struck the wall and skinned his face. He was carried to a temporary bedstead, and lay insensible nearly three hours, when he also died. He was shot through the left lobe of the brain and in the right side, beneath the ribs. They both seemed to die of inward bleeding.

During the encounter, a younger brother, Barry, shot three balls at Paul, one of which it is said hit him. Solomon Gumbertz, a son of Simon Gumbertz, a bystander, was accidentally shot by one of the random balls in the right thigh, the ball narrowly missing the femoral artery. His condition is serious.—[Evansville (Ky) Journal, 4th.

New Lake Discovered in Minnesota.

A private letter from the venerable chaplain at Fort Ripley, Rev. E. C. Gear, to G. W. Wooley, Esq., gives the particulars of the discovery of a beautiful lake, hitherto entirely unknown to white men, although only six miles distant from the Fort. We are permitted to make the following extracts from the letter:

The first time the existence of the lake was announced in the fort, was in the early part of the fall, or the latter part of summer, by a man in the vicinity who goes by the name of Lying Jack, but nobody believed him.

The lake is from two to three miles in width, and more than twelve miles long, and has a margin of rare beauty, of fine sand and pebbles, and broad enough, from the position I occupied, as far as the view extended, to accommodate a carriage. It is surrounded with dark, dense forests of pine and other timber, with high land opposite to the position from which I saw it. From that point, only a part of the lake is seen; for it turns around a headland, and goes off in another direction. It is said that there is another lake about half the size, below it, and connected with it by a strait; and that both of them discharge their water into Long Prairie river, and thence into the Crow Wing. The solitude and beauty of the scenery, and the dense dark forest that environ it, I will leave you to imagine, for I have no time to describe them. The Indians call it Big Fish Lake. It, no doubt, contains a great abundance and variety of fish, and Lying Jack affirms from personal knowledge, that White Fish are among the number. Dr. Wall found the skeleton of a Muskalonge on the shore, that indicated the largest size of that species of fishes. If the United States hold together, the Colonel intends to build a large boat in the spring, on his own plan, and rig it with sails; and it will be a famous place for resort for the inmates of the garrison, for picnics and fishing.—Pioneer & Democrat.

What are Regarded as Incendiary Papers.

We have been requested to publish the following letter from an old and highly respectable mercantile house of Baltimore, as a faithful expression of the high-minded Union men of the South:

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29, 1860.

Messrs. James and E. Brooks, New York Express:

GENTLEMEN:—We wish to discontinue our subscription to your paper, and the bearer will pay you what we owe you.

After a pleasant companionship of some fifteen or twenty years, we feel compelled to secede lawfully. We are strong and decided Union men. The Union first and Maryland afterwards.

We think your paper has become a dangerous one, injurious to the true interests of the country, both North and south—inducing the South to continue their destructive career—making them believe that the large majority of the North are their enemies; and the slaves to believe that the great party coming into power are their peculiar friends, in favor of their perfect social and political equality with the white population. "Having slaves in our families, we think your paper an incendiary one."

We have read your editorials with pleasure for many years, when you denounced bodily and fearlessly the frauds and corruption of the Democracy, and exposed the character of men like Wood, Rynders, Bennett, &c., and now we regret to find you "cheek by jowl," acting in concert with these very men. Day after day, and year after year, the "Herald" was filled with "Booby Brooks," "Booby Brooks," and now you quote that pestilent sheet, as if it was the law and morals of the land, and traduce the ancestors from whom you sprang.

Your obedient servants,
BENJAMIN CRABB & Co.

A Significant Paragraph.

Governor Pickens appears to be getting tired of his solitary grandeur. His last message on the expenditures of the state closes as follows:

"If it be necessary to put an armed military force may involve an expenditure of $500,000, and provisions has been made for raising $400,000 more for the purchase of arms and munitions. These several sums amount to $1,400,000. It is hoped that circumstances may arise which will give a pacific settlement to our difficulties, and if so, every reasonable endeavor shall be made to prevent the expenditure of the whole amount; but the more certain way to produce a pacific turn to events is to be thoroughly prepared to meet any emergency.

"F. W. PICKENS."
