THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says:
"The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we are accustomed to show windows of candy and newspaper headings, be half preparations, are all humbugs of the first water, their real merit, when they possess any, is, that they do no harm. ROSE'S LAIT, WHALE OIL, LAIR OIL, SWEET OIL, scents, and such like, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the costliest character of toilet, and when sold cheap, are supplied with some irreputable scrub, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes such is not the case with Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. This gentleman comes before the world without any "high falutin" Xilophilotomy, or any other astounding and startling catchpenny terms to simply advertise his Hair Restorative—what it appears precisely—and as a tonic stirs it acts. They (the proprietors) say Wood's Hair Restorative as per vials your scalp, sir, your very brains, apply nothing else; for it may be that you will get some worse substance than perfumed lard oil on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process,
Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,
Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads.
Will restore the Natural Secretions,
Will restore Lost Vitality,
Will remove all Dandruff,
Will cure all cruptions—even Scald Head,
Will make the Hair Soft, and Glossy,
Will make the old appear young again,
Will preserve the Color of Hair for years,
Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling.
And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

VALUABLE IMPROVEMENT
In Steam and Atmospheric Hammers.

LETTERS PATENT were granted on Sept. 4th, 1860, to Thomas Bench, for a very simple and efficient improvement in Steam and Atmospheric Hammers, whereby the full stroke of the hammer is obtained, no matter what be the thickness of the mass of iron to be hammered—thereby effecting a great increase of power where large pieces of metal are to be operated upon and a corresponding saving of expense.
The subscribers are owners of said patent, and are desirous of selling rights to use said improvement, as well as territory under said patent. A model of said improvement is left at the office of Messrs. Bakewell & Cushing, Attorneys at Law, corner of Grant and Diamond streets, where parties interested may call and see it, and learn also the terms of license sale, &c.

Secession in Louisiana.

The secession convention in Louisiana has begun its work, and doubtless will make all haste to ordain their constituents out of the Union. Unwarrantable as have been these procedures in other states, the act on the part of Louisiana will be peculiarly flagitious. Every foot of her territory was bought by the money of the Union; and, not only this, more sacrifice has been made by the free states to protect her interests than has been accorded to any other single state She alone of all the states has undertaken the cultivation of sugar; and to enable her to do so with profit—a profit of at least twenty per cent. on the investment—the rest of the country has submitted to a duty of twenty-four per cent. ad valorem on all imported sugars, equivalent to about two cents per pound; though in spite of the protection, Louisiana has been able to supply but a small proportion of the sugar consumed in the country. In her interests, too, a duty of five or six cents per gallon has been levied on foreign molasses. The poorer classes particularly need these articles, and have had to suffer that the thirteen hundred sugar estate proprietors of Louisiana might luxuriate. If Louisiana chooses now to turn against the hand that has fed her, it is high time this pampering process should cease. The federal government, of course, cannot acknowledge her out of the Union, but it can cease from loading her with benefits which she repays only with treason. The new tariff bill, which will probably soon become a law, ought to be amended, so that very day it is known that Louisiana has voted herself out of the Union so as to take away every cent of import duty on foreign sugar and molasses; and these articles, like tea and coffee, should be thenceforth free. This action cannot be too summary. It will be only the simplest justice. Generous forbearance, in a case like this, would be only pitiful weakness. It is very likely that Louisiana calculates upon setting up for herself, and yet retaining all the substantial benefits of the Union. Her mistake cannot be too speedily brought home to her. Off with the sugar and molasses! So much for Louisiana.—N. Y. World

AN EQUITABLE VIEW OF SECESSION.—I. is held by the patrons of secession that each State has the right to judge for itself of infractions of the Federal Constitution, and of the mode and measure of redress; and each State can determine for itself when it shall or may dissolve its connexion with the other States, and renounce its allegiance to the Constitution and laws and treaties of the United States.

Now, whatever may be the law on this point, we wish to ask whether its practical exercise, without any regard to the question will or interests of the other States, can be pronounced equitable in the case of States that we (the United States) have fought for and paid for? We hear a great deal said, and justly said, about the "common blood and treasure" expended in the acquisition of territory, as furnishing a motive for its equitable administration by the Federal Government. On this principle, how can the rest of the country contemplate without demurrer the "secession" of these acquisitions, that have cost us all so much, upon the mere assumption by any of the acquired States that they believed the compact was violated, and they would "go out?" We bought Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, &c. Ought they to go out when they please? What did Texas cost us? Long and bloody war. We bought—and fought for California. Shall California assume to judge for herself when the Constitution is violated, and go out of the Union that paid blood and treasure for her? And, admitting such a right to be the summum jus derived from a strict construction of the "constitutional compact," will it not still remain a point of grave inquiry whether its independent exercise is defensible in point of equity?—Nat'l.

What is the Matter in the South.

The London Times in one of its recent articles states the case to this way:

Perhaps as much as anything, from the long license enjoyed by the citizens of the South of writing what they pleased in favor of slavery, with the absolute certainty that no one would be found bold enough to write anything on the other side, and thus make himself a mark for popular vengeance, the subject has come to be written on in a tone of frothiness and of extravagance which is to an European eye absolutely appalling The South has become enamored of her shame. Free labor is denounced as degrading and disgraceful; the honest triumphs of the poor man who works his way to independence are treated with scorn and contempt. It is asserted that what we are in the habit of regarding as the honorable pursuits of industry incapacitate a nation for civilization and refinement, and that no institutions can be really free and democratic which do not rest, like those of Athens and of Rome, on a broad substratum of slavery. So far from treating slavery as an exceptional institution, it is regarded by these democratic philosophers as the natural state of a great portion of the human race; and, so far from admitting that America ought to look forward to its extinction, it is contended that the property in human creatures ought to be as universal as the property in lands or in tame animals.

Nor have these speculations been merely inert or speculative For the last ten or twelve years they have been a latent incitor, and from a defensive she has become an aggressive power. Every compromise which the moderation of former times had resorted to stem the course of this monster evil has been swept away, and that not by the encroachment of the North, but by the aggressive ambition of the South.

From Naples.

We have been favored with a letter from a near relative, who went from England, with the British Legion to aid Garibaldi at Naples, and, arriving on the day of the great battle with the troops of Francis II., was appointed to organize an hospital, for thirteen hundred sufferers, which he did effectively, on the Paris plan. For this he was honorably mentioned in the despatches, and in the special correspondence of the Times, Chronicle and Gazlignani. This gentleman, who, albeit a medical man, fought in the Liberal ranks at Vienna in 1848, has been offered a commission as Major in the Hungarian Legion, which has been for some time quietly organizing at Naples. He writes that none but picked men are allowed to enter this Legion, so that even the private soldiers would be able, if required, to execute all the duties of officers. Garibaldi, who is expected back in Naples in March, intends taking command of this new Legion, and Victor Emanuel, under whose very nose the organization has gone on, takes no notice of it. Hence, the universal belief that his majesty sanctions it—just as he sanctioned Garibaldi's attempt upon Sicily.

Further, we learn that Victor Emanuel, though personally popular in Naples, is not politically so. The Piedmontese, as a race, are disliked by the Neapolitans But the bold Garibaldi has won the hearts of the Neapolitans, of all classes and degrees. They would prefer him to Victor Emanuel could they choose their king. The Bourbons still have some adherents in Naples, and a great many in the Abruzzi and other provinces.—Phila. Press

The Vicksburg Cannonading.

There is a good deal in Southern filibustering that is very hard to bear. While the Administration hesitates and temporizes, the cheeks of Americans burn. We hear of insult after insult to our flag and wonder that the feeblest representative of sovereignty—that even James Buchanan—can bear them. It is a wonderful proof that the great mass of American people are law abiding, that they bear these things, simply because they are not called upon by lawful authority to put them down. The slightest legal permission would evoke a spirit before which such feeble States as South Carolina would be as chaff before the whirlwind.

Among these silly and offensive demonstrations the attempt to fire on the steamboats on the Mississippi perhaps contributes to the most intense to all. The great highway of the West, running through half a continent, draining half the States in the Union, is to be seized and controlled by a single State!

For what purpose was Louisiana bought but to obtain the unobstructed navigation of the Mississippi? We hear of a plan which is agitation in the Northwest that indicates the manner in which this insolence will be received. The proposal is that a hundred thousand men should meet in convention in Cincinnati on the 2d of March, armed and ready to march anywhere, if necessary. The precise plan may not be carried out, but it shows the spirit which is awaking. The West is beginning to chafe under inaction. It would be wise not to provoke it too far.—Phila. Bull.

Harvesting at Christmas.

The Newcastle (England) Chronicle, gives the following details of a rather late harvest in that neighborhood:

"Within a few miles of Durham, England, harvest work was in full vigor during Christmas week. Within six or seven miles of Durham large quantities of corn are still outstanding in the fields, some of it even uncut. And on Friday and Saturday week any traveler might have witnessed the strange phenomenon of farmers getting in their harvest crops and leading home their corn from the fields, the snow at the time covering the ground to the depth of a foot or more. It is perhaps almost superfluous to add that the produce could be of little or no marketable value, and was merely carried out of the fields to be placed in the farm yard as food for the cattle. There are still seven hundred acres, both of wheat and oats, remaining outstanding in the fields in the above mentioned localities."

Chinese Labor for the Algerian Cotton Fields.

A letter from Paris, dated Dec. 31, purports to describe the views of the French Government as to the results to be obtained from the clause of the treaty with China legalizing the exportation of labor. "This has been done," no doubt," says the writer, "in reference to obtaining a supply of labor for the cotton lands in Algeria. The great immorality of the Chinese adults heretofore imported has caused the subject to receive a careful and earnest attention, and a plan has been proposed to import boys and girls brought out under the care of priests and sis
