If the great American people will only keep their temper, on both sides of the line, the tronoles will come to an end, and the question which now distract a the country will be wetted just as surely as all other difficulties of like character which have originated in this government have been adjusted. Let the people on both sides keep their self-powession, and just as quericloude have cleared away is due times, so willthis, and this great nation shall continue to prosper as hieretoire. (Loud applause.) But, sellow citizens, a this is the first opportanity which I have had to address a Peansylvania assembled, it seems a fitting time to indulge in a few remarks upon the important quention of a tariff—a subject of great magnitude, and one which is attended, with many difficulties, owing to the great variety of interests which it involves. So long as direct-taration for the support of government what meet is to the lamity—but, while this is admitted, it still becomes ancessary to modify and change its operations according to new interests, and now first my close a continued of the protection of home indestry, given rate to numerous views and objections. dive you some general ideas kipon this subject. I have long thought that if there be any article of necessity which can be produced at home with as little or nearly the same labor as abroad, it would be better to protect that article. Liabor is the true stimulated of value. It a bar of froi, got out of the mines of Reagland, and a bar of iron taken from the mines of Pennsylvania, be produced at the same cost, it follows that if the English bar be shipped 'irom Man-bette to Pittaburgh and the American bar from Pittaburgh to Manchester, the cost of carriage is appreciably lost. (Laughter). If we had no iron here, then we should encourage its shipment from hore, then we should encourage its shipment from foreign countries; but not when we can make it as cheaply in our own country. This brings us back to sar first proposition, that if any article can be precisioned at home with as it any article can be agreed as the me with the same cost as also and, the carriage is lost labor.

The treasury of the analysis of the mines of the decrease of the covers, but doubt not we shill be preduced at home with as it any article can be also as also as the carriage is lost labor.

The treasury of the nation is in such a low condition at present that this subject now demands the attention of Congress, and will demand the installation of Congress, and will demand the immediate consideration of the new Administration. The tariff bill now before Congress may of may not pass at the present session. I confess I do not understand the precise provisions of this bill, and it do not know whether it can be passed by the present Congress or not. It may not become the law of the land—but if does, that will be an end of the matter until a modification can be effect.

The terificial law before Congress may of may not become the law of the land—but if does, that will be an end of the matter until a modification can be effected, should it be descend necessary. If it does not pass (and the latest advices I have are to the effect that it is still pending) the next Congress. If it does not pass (and the latest advices I have are to the effect that it is still pending) the next congress will have to give it their ceriment attention.
