Published every morning, except on Sundays, and on public holidays. Price, 10 cents per copy. In advance, $1.00 per annum.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 2, 1901.

It requires no small amount of vigilance and energy to keep pace with the ever-changing conditions of our country. During the past year, the situation of the country was absorbed by the sudden movements of the people in their work of breaking up the Union, selling public property, and putting themselves into the hands of the nation's ally, the government. That scene in the drama is played out for the present; but before we have had time to rub our eyes, another scene is being enacted before our eyes. The situation of the country is again being absorbed by the sudden movements of the people in their work of breaking up the Union, selling public property, and putting themselves into the hands of the nation's ally, the government.

It is not our object at present to speak of the various possibilities which may arise from the present situation of the country. It is our object to speak of the various possibilities which may arise from the present situation of the country.
