PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY

FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD.

PITTSBURGH:
WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 10.

LATEST FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

WASHINGTON, July 7, 1861.

Seventy-five Thousand Troops Here.

There were seventy-five regiments, at noon to-day, on both sides of the Potomac, making the army of occupation in this vicinity nearly seventy-five thousand men.

Mathias Point.

Information was received to-day from Mathias Point. The Pocahontas lies off there, and will bombard the rebels the moment they appear to mount guns on the fortifications which they have erected.—The vessel will be kept there to see that no further progress is made by the rebels.

The Rebels Erecting Batteries at Fernandina, Florida.

A letter received here from Fernandina, Florida, by a gentleman who was recently employed by the company who own the railroad between that point and Cedar Keys, states that the rebel forces were being concentrated there, and that two heavy batteries had already been erected. This gentleman has called the attention of the administration to this matter, and is urging them to send a naval force sufficient to dislodge the batteries and effect a landing, which, he alleges, can be accomplished now with but little difficulty. He is perfectly familiar with the country, and has a complete map of all its strong points. This position is an important one, and the Government will undoubtedly take some action in the matter.

William H. Russell.

Mr. Russell, correspondent of the London Times, yesterday visited many of the encampments north of the city, and was pleased with the fine appearance of the troops, and surprised at the great change since his first visit. He intended to visit the camps and intrenchments across the Potomac to-day, in company with Senator Wilson, but the excessive heat, which has prevailed caused a delay. He will no doubt go over to-morrow.

Andrew Johnson at the Camps.

Senator Johnson visited the intrenchments at Chain Bridge yesterday, in company with several senators and members of the House, and was received with great enthusiasm by the troops, whom he addressed in words of eloquence.

The Reinforcements for Gen. Patterson.

The order issued by General Scott yesterday, immediately after he received a dispatch from General Patterson of the strength of the rebels before Martinsburg, for ten regiments to prepare for immediate marching orders, was interpreted by army officers, high in rank, as an intimation on the part of General Scott to reinforce General Patterson to that extent; but subsequent events show that only five of the regiments thus ordered to be ready to march have gone to Hagerstown to reinforce General Patterson, while the other five have crossed the Potomac at this point to strengthen General McDowell's column and complete his quota.

The Rebels in Manassas Obstructing the Roads—They have no Idea of Attacking Gen. McDowell's Columns.

The best evidence that the rebels at Manassas Junction do not intend to attack our centre and our General McDowell is that they have levelled the forests to the ground for miles, encumbering every road or field route between Fairfax Court House and Manassas Junction with heavy fallen trees, to prevent an advance of our troops. Of course it is not Beauregard's intention to advance this side of such encumbrances, as they would forbid a safe retreat of his forces in the event he was compelled to make such a movement. This sudden barrier to the advance of our grand army is taken not only as an evidence of Beauregard's intention not to advance upon our centre, but also as evidence that, while he is thus impeding Gen. McDowell from a hasty movement forward upon his lines, he has sent out by railroad a reinforcement to Johnston, who is expected to give battle to General Patterson.

An Important Arrest.

Last night, Gen. Tyler arrested the overseer, a young lad, nine mules and horses, a load of grain, and several negroes, just as they were moving off to join the rebels. The parties resided near Falls Church. The owner of the property and the father of the young man, is Capt. Mason, of the rebel army.

Mr. Vallandigham in Bad Odor.

Mr. Vallandigham visited the camps of the Ohio regiments to-day. On his appearance, the volunteers hung him in effigy and gave unmistakable signs that they would hang him roughly unless he left. As he left the camp, he was assailed with onions, stones, hisses and yells.

Volunteer Service.

Gen. McDowell, on a case made, has decided that the time of service of the volunteers dates from the time when they were sworn in by the War Department. Some of the three months regiments will, therefore, have to serve about four months.

From the South-west.

A gentleman from Springfield, who left that place on Tuesday morning, July 2d, states that Colonel Phelps informed him that Jackson's troops, about 1500, were encamped in Benton county, and were but ten miles from our forces; that they cannot be anything left them.

Siegel has his troops stationed from Springfield to Neosho—covering all the ground. He had heard that 400 men had been assembled on Oliver's Prairie, but on hearing of Siegel's appearance, fled.—St. Louis Democrat, Monday.

Important from West Virginia.

BUCKHANNON, Va., July 7.—Forty-five men, belonging to the Third Ohio Regiment, under Capt. Lawson, while on a scouting expedition last night, fell in with an ambuscade of several hundred rebels at Middle Fork Bridge, twelve miles east of this place, and were surrounded. After a desperate fight they cut their way through, losing one killed and five wounded. The enemy lost twenty killed. Five dead bodies were found to-day.

Col. McCook, with the Fourth and Ninth Ohio and Tenth Indiana, with Loomis' battery and Burdsall's company of cavalry, moved and took possession of the bridge early this morning. Gen. Morris has advanced from Phillippa to within a mile and a half of Laurel Hill.

Ex-Congressman Garnett is in command of the rebel forces there.

Gen. McClellan, with a large force, moves toward Beverly early to-morrow morning.

A battle is anticipated within forty-eight hours. The Tenth Ohio arrived here to-day.

Alarm on the Virginia Border.

COLUMBUS, July 7.—Lieut. Col. Neibling, of the Twenty-First Regiment, came here last night under orders from Col. Norton, at Gallipolis, for Secession princes at Camp Chase.

Wagoner and Miller, Union men, taken by the Rebels at Point Pleasant, were delivered to Norton on Friday last. They are confident that if Norton had not seized Secessionists as hostages they would now be prisoners at Richmond.

Neibling reports that O. Jennings Wise has been devastating in Kanawha Valley, with about 1000 men, 500 of whom are cavalry well equipped. They had a camp about 10 miles from the Ohio.

On the Fourth of July, Norton moved his Regiment, two companies of the Seventeenth Ohio, and one Virginia company, to Ripley, where Wise had been several days. Our boys were eager for fight, and marched like brave soldiers. They were about four miles from town, when scouts reported that the rebels had run, which, on entering town, Norton found to be true. Ripley is the County Seat of the county. Neibling says Henry A. Wise is at Charleston with about 7,000 men. He reports the condition of Kanawha Valley as one of insurrection similar to neighbor against neighbor. Great destruction to property has been done from the visits of Secession forces. O. Jennings Wise, at one place, destroyed a mill, and carried off $2,000 worth of goods.

The Union men on the Virginia border are preparing for self-protection. Four companies are organized at Mason city, opposite Pomeroy.

The people on the Ohio border, above and below the Kanawha, are in a state of continued alarm, but the troops to be there under Gen. Cox this week, will give them assurance of ample protection.

Norton's regiment has done a gallant work, but his force has not been large enough to protect the border, and at the same time pursue the rebel forces.

The prisoners will be surrendered to Neibling, by Col. Cummins, to-morrow, and will be taken to Gallipolis. Neibling arrested them last Sunday with 100 men. He took 36 at Gallipolis. All were released but the 23 here.

The Democracy and the Union.

At a Democratic caucus, last night, where matters were informally canvassed, Mr. Vallandigham intimated that he preferred the preservation of the Union. He received very little sympathy. The New York and Rhode Island members were firm. The majority expressed themselves strongly in favor of giving thorough support to the Government, and making quick work, with no long speeches. Of this policy, Mr. Wright, of the Luzerne District of Pennsylvania, was one of the strongest supporters. Kentucky and Maryland did not stand the caucus.

REVOLUTION IN ST. DOMINGO.—Advices from St. Domingo to the 5th of June have been received. A fierce reactionary movement against the renewal of the rule of Spain is progressing in St. Domingo. Gen. Santana had established a perfect reign of terror in support of Queen Isabella's annexation project; but the Dominicans had taken up arms against him in Moca, Cibao, Vega and every important stand-point of the country. A reinforcement had been sent from Porto Rico to the Spanish army, and it was thought that twenty thousand soldiers would be required in order to sustain Santana and her Catholic Majesty. A severe mortality existed in the Spanish regiments.

APPROPRIATING THE COMET.—The Richmond Dispatch, speaking of the comet, says: "It may not be inappropriate to call the celestial visitor the Southern Confederacy." Probably not, the glory of both seems to be short-lived. The comet is rushing tail foremost into obscurity, and the Confederacy, with its head at Montgomery, and its tail thrust foremost towards the Potomac, is likely to have the brilliancy of that appendage very sensibly and speedily diminished, as soon as Scott gets a good blow at it.—*Phila. Irish Emigration and Return of Irish Emigrants.

The tide of emigration from Ireland may be said to have ceased to flow. Emigrant vessels depart from some of our ports without a single emigrant. It appears from the report of the Emigration Commissioners that the entire emigration from the United Kingdom in 1860 was only 123,469 persons. Though this was 8,037 more than the previous year, it was 31,559 less than the average of the preceding five years. Of the aggregate number 21,596 were from Ireland—a small proportion compared with former years. Mr. Buchanan, the principal emigrationagent, claims the emigration to Canada from the United Kingdom, exclusive of foreigners who embarked at English ports, as follows: English, 2,491; Scotch, 2,830; Irish, 2,831. He estimates the arrivals in Canada through the United States at about 4,000. Steamers carry most of the emigrants now. Of 7,836 who went to St. Lawrence, only 904 went by sailing vessels. Among the steerage passengers by steamers there was but one death in the year, and there were but three in the sailing vessels. This fact presents a gratifying contrast to the mortality that prevailed in emigrant ships in past times, with which, no doubt, the overcrowding had much to do. It also contrasts favorably with the mortality in Australian vessels last year, which was thirty-nine per cent. among those who went out at their own expense, and fifty-nine per cent. of those who went at the cost of the Government. Of those who died on the passage one-half were children under four years of age. The returned emigrants during the year, numbered 24,434, of whom the large proportion of 17,786 came from the United States, and only 1,098 from
