BELLINGHAM'S CELEBRATED
STIMULATING ONGUENT,
For the Whiskers and Hair.
The subscribers take pleasure in announcing to the Citizens of the United States, that they have obtained the Agency for, and are now enabled to offer to the American public, the above justly celebrated and world renowned article.

THE STIMULATING ONGUENT is prepared by Dr. C. F. BELLINGHAM, an eminent physician of London, and is warranted to bring out a thick set of WHISKERS OR A MUSTACHE
in from three to six weeks. This article is the only one of the kind used by the French and in London and Paris it is in universal use.
It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if by magic upon the roots, producing a beautiful growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp it will cure BALDNESS, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will turn red or any hair dark, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth and flexible. The "Onguent" is an independent article, and requires no gentleman's toilet, and after one week's use they would not for any consideration be without it.
The subscribers are the only Agents for the article in the United States, from whom all orders must be addressed.
Price One Dollar a box—for sale by all Druggists and Dealers; or a box of the "Onguent," (warranted to have the desired effect,) will be sent to any who desire it, by mail (direct,) securely packed, on receipt of price (one dollar), $1 18. Apply to our address—

LATEST FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

WASHINGTON, July 11, 1861.

The Flag of Truce Affair.

The Tribune correspondent says:

The suspicion that the rebels are informed with some accuracy as to our movements is supported by the incident of the flag of truce, which arrived on the day first fixed for the departure of our troops. This flag of truce, well managed, might have interrupted the whole course of operations, had the army been set in motion at that time. Suppose that Taylor, the bearer, had encountered one of our divisions, rapidly advancing. He would have escaped back to his own lines, if possible, carrying the best intelligence he could gather, and leaving out of consideration the message with which he was intrusted, the unimportance of which had been intimated to him. If he could not have escaped, the flag of truce would have shielded him, and, possibly, have enabled him still to carry out his real mission. Who knows but that, in our excessive courtesy, the advance might have been checked, to allow his approach to the capital and subsequent return, before the opening of hostilities? In any event, the chances were very much in favor of his gaining positive benefits; and the fact of his seeking these on Monday, the day first appointed for onward march, helps out the conviction that the whole affair was a trick of Davis's to secure an unworthy advantage at a moment the importance of which he had been in some underhand way warned of.

As to the letter of Davis, I have already intimated that its values was insignificant, and that it could upon no just plea be legitimately made the occasion for a flag of truce. It was an insolent defiance, accompanied by a stilted argument in reference not to a point upon which the Government certainly does not need the counsel of Davis. A report is made in Washington to-day that the letter was in fact from Ex-Senator Mason. This is a matter of little further report that it related to exchanges of prisoners has foundation, although this was not the actual subject discussed. The government will probably be made public soon enough—perhaps before this reaches you. There is certainly no apparent reason why it should not be.

The Army Bill.

The army bill for the year ending with June next, which passed the House to-day, appropriates about $161,000,000; including for the pay of the army, $4,000,000; for three months' volunteers, $507,000; for three years' volunteers, $55,000,000; subsistence in kind for regular troops, nearly $2,500,000; for subsistance in kind for three years' volunteers, $23,084,000; for supplies of the Quartermaster's Department, over $14,000,000, and for incidental expenses thereof, over $7,500,000; for the purchase of 31,000 dragroon and artillery horses, $10,500,000; for transportation of army, etc., over $16,000,000; for gunboats on the Western rivers, $1,000,000; for fortifications in New York, Maine, Maryland, Virginia, Florida and California, $645,000. Appropriations are also included for arrearages for the year ending with June last.

The Navy Bill.

The Navy bill appropriates about $30,000,000, of which over $5,500,000 are for the repair and equipment of vessels; $1,600,000 for the completion of seven steam screw sloops of war authorized last February; $91,400 for the completion of seven screw sloops and side-wheel steamers; nearly $4,000,000 for the charter of vessels, their purchase, fitting for war service and reservations due on existing contracts for the fitting out of ships of war.

It is thought that discussion may spring up on two points in the House, the propriety of making the increase of the Army permanent, and of adopting Secretary Chase's proposed Tariff. There is a strong party in the House in favor of adopting some provisions, reducing the Army within the old limits six months after the war. Mr. Chase's recommendation of duties on tea, coffee, and sugar will not meet with much opposition, but some other of his suggested alterations of the Morrill Tariff, such as those in respect of iron and steel, may. It is probable that there will be some reduction, still, in the dispositions of the House to make quick work of it, and close the session with all despatch.

The statement that Hamus Happ has been appointed Assistant Secretary of War is without a shadow of truth. There is no such office. It cannot be created except by Congress, and no appointment has been made recently by any office that could be supposed to assimilate to that of Assistant Secretary of War.

Edwin Stevens, of New-Jersey, is in Washington with a working model of the celebrated Floating Battery that has long been constructing at Hoboken. It is to be exhibited to the Government officers and the Naval Committees of the Senate and House. It has never before been exhibited, even to the Government officers.

Col. Taylor, the bearer of the flag of truce, was entertained with champagne and rice at the Arlington House, which he seemed to relish hugely, munching every morsel of ice, as if it were the first he had tasted for months.

Parson Brownlow's paper has been designated by the State Department to publish the laws of Congress to be passed at the present session.

Contraband Wants this Thing Settled.

A correspondent writes from St. Joseph, Mo., to the N. Y. Tribune:

It is amusing to hear slaves converse on the all-absorbing topic of the hour. They are, generally, well posted as to the real merit of the war. A contraband package lifted his hat to me yesterday, and, exposing a large invoice of ivory, saluted me with:

"Well, massa, I spects de sogers is gwine to march to Richmond to-day, jist to make dem down dar behave dey ole selves arter dis. Dars an no use, no use at all, foolin wid 'em. Better go right down dar, and done give dem fellers a right smart hushin up."

"What do you care about those things?" I asked.

"Wot does I care? Why, I reckon dis chile feel mighty consartain bout tings now-a-days. It make heap of difference wid me. I want dis ting settled. Last year ole massa he git offered for me jist fifteen hundred dollar, and dis year, he git, may be, four hundred. I jist want de ting dosed 'fore, so as I be worth nothing or full price. Jist one or todor."

The truth is, it begins to look as though the thing is soon to be fixed by Missouri, for darkies will shortly be worth nothing or full price. Last year, I saw negroes sold on the block for $1,500, which to-day are not worth one-third that sum.

The Present Situation—Probabilities thence Derived of an Onward Movement.

If there were any doubt, says a writer in the Herald, that Gen. Scott designs to make a grand and a prompt movement, it would be dispelled by the fact that the term of service of the best drilled soldiers at his command—the three months' volunteers—is rapidly running out, and it is by no means likely that he will permit that period to arrive and pass away without using them in the field. According to the statement of the Secretary of War there are 80,000 men whose term will expire before the 5th of August. These are no doubt scattered over all the different encampments, including those of the West; but we know that the term of service of the following regiments, making in the aggregate 14,825 men now stationed around Washington, in the commands of Generals McDowell and Mansfield, will expire between the 25th of the present month and the 5th proximo:—Fifth regiment, Col. Schwartzwalder, located in Washington city, 988 men; Sixth regiment, Col. Blenkney, Annapolis, 784; Eighth regiment, Col. Lyons, Arlington Heights, 1090; Twelfth regiment, Col. Butterfield, Washington city, 1,113; Thirteenth regiment, Col. Smith, Baltimore, 980; Twenty-fifth regiment, Col. Bryan, Arlington, 980; Sixty-ninth regiment, Col. Corcoran, Arlington Heights, 1,185; Seventy-first regiment, Col. Martin, Navy Yard, Washington, 1,072—total New York, 8,195 men; one Rhode Island regiment, 760; two Massachusetts regiments, 1,590, and of the District militia, 4,000.

These troops are the advance of the army. They are the longest in the field, they have experienced a protracted drill since they entered the service, and, moreover, belong to the regular militia, and are therefore not inexperienced in discipline and drill. It is not to be supposed, then, that General Scott will allow the time of these 15,000 veterans—as we may call them—to expire before he strikes a blow. The position now occupied by the armies under Generals McClellan, Patterson, McDowell and Mansfield—severally located at Buckhannon, Va., Grafton, Va., the Arlington line of the Potomac, opposite Washington, and the federal capital itself—renders a successful advance movement from both ends of the line at any time available. General McClellan has not less than 30,000 men between the Ohio river and his headquarters at Buckhannon, which is for the rear of the rebel position at Laurel Hill. Gen. Patterson commands 26,000 more at and near Grafton. The line of the Potomac fronting Washington is guarded by a force of nearly 40,000 men under Gen. McDowell, threatening Manassas Junction, while about 40,000 more are encamped in the federal capital under Gen. Mansfield. It will thus be seen that the manœuvres of Gen. Scott, slow and cautious as they have been, leave the rebel army to-day in a magnificent position for attack at any moment when it is deemed necessary to attempt a grand combined forward movement.

Great Traitor Hunt at Canton—Jim Green Captured by Gen. John Wood.

The advent of the 14th Illinois Regiment at Canton, on Friday morning, was very disturbing to the nerves of that distinguished ex public functionary and imbiber of rock-tails, the late Senator Jim Green, of Missouri. His misdeeds have caused him to be "spotted" for some time, and as it seemed necessary to station troops at Canton, it was deemed advisable to take charge of Mr. Green, if he should happen to be receiving calls at home.

For fear that he might not be willing to see his Union friends, a portion of the troops were landed so as to cut off his retreat in one direction. Just before reaching his house, his daughter saw the soldiers coming, and gave the alarm. Jim made off for the woods in his slippers, ordering "this man" to place a horse for him in the woods at a certain spot. He reached the woods, and his pursuers finding the bird had flown, started on a scouting expedition. Jim and "this man," however, stumbled on a party of some of the Union men capturing the horse before his master could find him. But he obtained another from a brother of his, as report has it, and made off.

One party of mounted pursuers, of about twenty persons, was headed by Gen. Wood. They struck out into the country, and after a ride of 6 miles, came in sight of a "solitary horseman," moving like Gen. Jackson, toward
