PITTSBURGH:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUG. 14, 1861.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION!

The Republican electors of Allegheny county, and all others in favor of the perpetuity of the NATIONAL UNION, and maintaining the NATIONAL GOVERNMENT in its efforts to put down Armed Rebellion, are invited to assemble in their various Wards, Boroughs and Townships at their usual places of holding elections in each precinct, on SATURDAY, the 31st of August, to elect FOUR DELEGATES—two to each county convention—both conventions to meet on TUESDAY, September 3d, at 10 o'clock a. m., as follows: 1. The Judicial Convention to assemble at the City Hall to nominate a President Judge of Common Pleas, an Associate Law Judge of District Court, and an Associate Judge of Common Pleas, the Senator, and five members of the House of Representatives, and Director of the Poor. 2. The Political Convention to meet at the Court House to nominate Sheriff, Prothonotary, Treasurer and Commissioner.

The primary meetings in the townships will be held between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m., and in the cities and boroughs between 5 and 8 p. m., of said day. The appointment of the delegates in the township will be by marking, and in the cities and boroughs by ballot. The chairmen of the two conventions will jointly appoint the executive committee for the ensuing year.

THOS. P. WILSON, Secty. Chairman.

Suppressing Treasonable Papers.

Some of our eastern contemporaries express regret at the forced suspension of treasonable newspapers; but we are not inclined to look at it in a sorrowful light. It is the fashion to call an assemblage of the people, rendered indignant by the treasonable acts or utterances of a person or a newspaper in their midst, a "mob;" but that term is one which, under the circumstances, cannot fairly be used. We do not favor mob law, nor would we encourage mobs even for the attainment of good ends. A "mob"—a tumultuous, disorderly and riotous assemblage—is one thing; a mass meeting of the people, rendered indignant by treason or sympathy with treason, and prohibiting its continuance among them, is another and altogether different thing.

The people are the source of power; and if the laws and constitutions made by their delegates have not provided for contingencies such as are now constantly arising, the people are not to blame for resuming the functions of power and making provision for difficulties which must be overcome but which were not foreseen. When the people of Philadelphia and New York rose, en masse, after the fall of Sumter, and compelled men of doubtful loyalty and newspaper publishers of suspected inclinations to display the American flag and show themselves upon the the side of the country, none but traitors in heart and soul thought of characterising such visitations as the acts of a "mob." It was the majesty of the people asserting itself—that majesty without which "law" and "order" would be idle words.

So, also, when the mass of the loyal people in this city, desiring to communicate a lesson in as few words as possible to the suspicion rebels in our midst, suspended halters from the lamp-posts throughout the city, nobody thought of calling it the act of a "mob." The halters spoke more forcibly than volumes could, and the rebels took the hint incontinently. A few of them are now, apparently, growing forgetful of that exhibition; and a repetition of it may become necessary.

We have, therefore, no regrets to express at the forcible suppression of two Rebel organs in New England—one in Maine and the other in New Hampshire. Sympathy with Rebellion is a thing which a loyal people cannot be expected to tolerate, and if the law is too lame and the government too weak to undertake the suppression of newspapers which not only sympathize with the Southern Rebellion but are doing their best to build up a party in the North in its support, the people must, of necessity, take the remedy in their own hands. Talk is a war to sustain the government and put down Rebellion; and the man or the editor who takes part against the government of the war is practically a traitor—he is giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Must the people tolerate this treason, then, because the arm of the government cannot reach it?

The example of suppressing these treasonable papers in New England must have a good effect throughout the country; but so long as such papers as the New York Day Book, News, and Journal of Commerce are permitted to be published, the suppression of the minor traitorous papers must be shorn of a portion of its salutary effect. Extraordinary efforts are making to give a wide circulation to the News and the Day Book. They have been scattered broadcast throughout the land, with begging letters accompanying them, importuning the recipients to aid in giving them an extended circulation. There is an organized effort to infuse the poison contained in these advocates of Rebellion, into every hamlet and neighborhood throughout the loyal States; and the only hope publishers expect to give the enemy is not therefore confined to New York alone. It remains to be seen whether the loyal people of that city will longer permit such papers to be published there. The visit which they gave the offices of these papers after the fall of Fort Sumter had a very perceptible effect in restraining their treasonry, but it did not suppress it; and the fear of a similar visit has evidently died out, for they are now the open, undisguised advocates of the Slaveholders' Rebellion.

Breckinridge Gone.

This arrant traitor passed through here Monday night, unknown to any one, and seeking only to get through safely without being detected. If our people had known he was coming they might have given him a reception—of some sort. The following, concerning the fate he met with at the hands of the New York politicians, we clip from the New York correspondence of the Philadelphia Ledger:

"There is good reason to believe that the Secret Hall General Committee had a meeting, a few evenings since, for the purpose of tendering to Senator Breckinridge an invitation to visit New York, and that there and then a sub-committee was appointed to wait upon him to apprise him of the wishes of his friends; but the proposed reception of the Senator and his friend Vallandigham, in Baltimore, induced the Chairman of the Committee here to change his mind, and a telegraphic despatch was accordingly sent to the Committee, who had by this time reached Baltimore, informing them that the invitation must be cancelled. Unfortunately, however, the dispatch came too late.

"The sub committee had waited upon Mr Breckinridge Friday morning, and communicated to him the wishes of his New York friends, the Senator replying that he would be most happy to accept. On receiving the dispatch countermanding their orders, the committee, as you may suppose, felt rather foolish. However, their duty was plain, and there was no alternative but to perform it. And they did perform it; but, if rumor be true, the result was a scence of the most picturesque description. The Kentucky Senator, it is said, charged the committee with deliberately insulting him, and denounced the New York Democracy as no better than the Black Republicanism—while, for the city itself, he declared a terrible retribution was in store for it, when the people whom she had robbed for so many years would have their armies occupying her marble palaces, and their flag floating over the City Hall and Merchants' Exchange! Vallandigham was present all the while, looking unutterable things. The committee took the lecture in silence, but left the room before it was concluded."

Taxation.

The following is a table showing the annual tax which has been levied by the government upon salaries which exceed in amount the sum of eight hundred dollars. It has been supposed by some that where the income is above eight hundred dollars the whole amount is taxed, as in the case in England; but such is not the fact. The excess only is subject to taxation, as, for instance, is shown below. A person whose salary is eight hundred and fifty dollars per annum is taxed three per cent. on only fifty dollars:

Weekly Salary.	Annual Yearly Tax.	Salary.	Annual Tax.
$16	$0 96	$650	$1 50
17	2 52	900	3 00
18	4 08	950	4 50
19	5 64	1,000	6 00
20	7 20	1,050	7 50
21	8 76	1,100	9 00
22	10 32	1,150	10 50
23	11 88	1,200	12 00
24	13 44	1,250	13 50
25	15 00	1,300	15 00
26	16 56	1,350	16 50
27	18 12	1,400	18 00
28	19 68	1,450	19 50

A Brave Man Maltreated by the Rebels.

The government has received information of the following facts through an intercepted letter, written by a rebel at one of the forts opposite Pickens, to a friend in one of the Gulf States:

"We had some little excitement at the Fort last night and this morning, caused by the arrival among us of a man from Pickens. It seems that he was bathing on his side of the channel, a mile and three-eighths from here, and he swam beyond his depth. Both wind and tide being against him he came over to us, and threw himself upon the mercy of the commander, Major Gregory, who, we think, treated him very badly.

"He appeared to be a noble fellow. When asked whether he was a deserter he replied, 'No, sir, I am a gentleman.' Major Gregory tried to get some information from him as regards the state of defenses in which Pickens was, but he refused to give way, upon which Gregory ordered him to be gagged—horrible—and sent to Barrancas prison. This may be the rule of war, but may heaven deliver us from ever maltreating a helpless foe.

"The Madison Rifles consulted about the propriety of suffering the order to be carried out, but they were advised by their own officers not to interfere; that if they did they should be punished for mutiny; besides they did not know the true real cause of the treatment.

"11 o'clock—Just returned from a small group of friends who were discussing animatedly the question whether or not the prisoner was treated justly. They came to the conclusion that he was not only treated unjustly but cruelly, and they have determined to report the commander of the fort to headquarters. What good it will do we cannot tell. But such acts of unkindness should not be left unnoticed. I think that Gen. Bragg will express his indignation at the bad manner in which the prisoner was treated, and will, if possible, redress the injury.

"I admire the prisoner. He seemed to feel no tear of foes or death. When clothes were given him, he said that if he ever lived to get back he would return their equivalent in money. When told that he would be shot if he did not answer the questions put to him, he told Gregory to shoot if he chose; that one death was all a soldier could die. At one time he was highly insulted at the treatment, and even prepared to spit upon the insolent man who dared to try to force him to betray his friends. Such men are rarely found, and when they are, should command respect even from their enemies."

Among the attendants at the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee yesterday, as advisers and "managers," was the Hon. Josiah Bynders, late United States Marshal, late leader of the Empire Club, &c., &c. He is understood to be strenuously opposed to union with the Republicans, strenuously opposed to the war, strenuously opposed to interfering with the pet projects of Jeff. Davis & Co. His regards, we understand, the present effort of the Government to save itself from destruction as most iniquitous and unjustifiable, and is scandalized that any Democrat should so far forget himself as to shoulder a musket in defense of the Union.

The redoubtable Captain was very noisy, very insolent, and, we should judge, pretty drunk.—[Albany Evening Journal.

The secession leaders in Kentucky have for sometime past been holding correspondence and counsel with the civil and military authorities of Tennessee, and there is not a doubt that they would most gladly have a Tennessee army sent into Kentucky to-morrow or to-day, if they felt well assured that the ensuing struggle would result in the rescue of Kentucky out of the Union. We don't believe they will venture at present to invite an army upon Kentucky soil, yet we shall not be much surprised at anything that may happen in the southern district of our State. We look for trouble there, and our people must be prepared for it. If the threatened attempt shall be made to dismember Kentucky, it must and will be resisted to the last extremity by all the power that the State possesses and can command. Two disloyal States have been dismembered; Kentucky is loyal and cannot be dismembered. They who attempt it will have to bear the utmost penalty that the laws of the land denounce against treason. Coercion has been practiced till further toleration would be meanness and not magnanimity.—Louisville Journal.

A SLY DEVICE—EQUAL TO "NOBODY HURT."—It is suggested that the usual emblems of external mourning be dispensed with by those who have lost relatives who were bravely sustaining their country's right, and in this met with a glorious death. The reasons for the suggestion are that it would give our streets and churches a distressing and gloomy aspect, that many families cannot afford it, and the loss of father, husband or brother is not, under the circumstances, cause for that bitterness of mourning which attends the ordinary dispensations of Providence, because the gloom is brightened by the glory of triumph in the discharge of the holiest obligations of duty.—[Richmond Whig.

DRESS FRUITS FOR SOLDIERS.—Miss Dix, the surgeon-chief of the Federal army, recommends all persons having fruit orchards, or vegetable gardens, to cause dried fruits and vegetables to be prepared and stored for the benefit of the troops in autumn and winter—that is wholesome addition may be raised to the army rations, and health preserved by suitable diet.

We can arm, equip and send 500,000 men to meet the Lincoln hordes who are invading our soil, and 500,000 Southrons are invincible by any force the enemy can send against us.—Southern exchange.

There are brave words, but the facts which leak out through other Southern journals let daylight into their flimsiness. In most of the Cotton States the limit of the volunteer force has already been reached, and in some passed. Virginia has been resorting to drafts for several weeks; Louisiana has been impressing negroes, and Tennessee has two regiments "for special service." South Carolina, which began this war by the attack on Fort Sumter, is glad enough that the conflict has been transferred to the soil of Virginia, and her chivalry are reluctant to leave the State "except in case of invasion." Says the Charleston Courier:

"There is in our community too great a disposition to shirk active duty. At every turn can be seen healthy, vigorous men, under forty-five years of age, who are taking no part in the defense of their own honor and interests. Some hold back because others do; some must have commissions; some have families, or business, or are members of organizations which they know will not be ordered out of the city; some are legally or professionally exempt. Now this state of things is discreditable to us. The necessity is almost at our doors. In the name of common patriotism, let it cease to be. The facts which I have mentioned are unpleasant truths, but they are truths nevertheless."—New York World.

BRAIN FEVER FROM EXCITEMENT.—Horace Greeley, the veteran editor of the Tribune, has been suffering from an attack of brain fever during the past week, brought on by the excitement resulting from the "On to Richmond" movement. Serious fears were entertained for his safety a few days ago, but he is now believed to be out of danger, and on the straight road to recovery.—N. Y. Sunday Times.

MAJOR GENERAL WOOL has been assigned to the command of the Southeastern Military Department; or Virginia. Gen. Butler, it is understood, will remain at Fortress Monroe for the present. Gen. Wool's experience in the war of 1812, and the important services rendered by him in Mexico, give confidence that wherever he commands there will be efficiency and discipline in the highest degree.—Wat. Intel.

Military Notices

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, 650, able-bodied men, between the ages of 18 and 35, not less than five feet four and a half inches in height, to enter the First Regiment U. S. Cavalry. Each man will be furnished with a good horse and full equipments. Ample clothing and subsistence of the best quality. The pay ranges from $14 to $21 per month, according to the rank of the soldier. No advance will be allowed without the written consent of parent, guardian or master. If not 21 years of age, the term of enlistment is altered to THREE YEARS, and every soldier who serves that time is entitled to 160 acres of land and $100 bounty from the United States. Attention is called to the fact that the government has wisely commenced to promote soldiers and non-commissioned officers from the ranks. Advancement is therefore open to all who enlist. All men to the number of 65, will be enlisted by the undersigned.

DITRIDGE'S XX FLINT GLASS
OVAL CARBON OIL
LAMP CHIMNEYS,
THE BEST THAT HAVE EVER yet been offered to the public. They are the best for the following reasons:

1. Because, being of an oval shape, the glass is everywhere equally distant from the flame, so that the draft is stronger and more regular.

2. The oval shape is better adapted to resist the effect of sudden expansion, so that it is impossible to crack them.

3. The glass is made largely of Lead and Pearlash, giving a great degree of strength and elasticity. The chimneys which we have been found to be so brittle as to crack even when not in use, are invariably made of Lime Glass instead of the Flint Glass, of which ours are manufactured.

4. But the greatest advantage of these Chimneys is that when you have one it will last forever, and if any accident should break one by the heat of the lamp, by bringing the broken one to us we will replace the same for half the Manufactory and we will replace the cracked chimney by a clean whole one. This probably would not happen more than once in a lifetime, as where the chimney has a through temperature, been screwed as closely to the lamp as to prevent its ex pansion when heated.

Most Western and consumers of Carbon Oil, who have felt the magnitude of the obstacle, which has existed in the great expense of chimneys, in the use of the universal use of oil, have found a remedy in the Oval XX Flint Glass Chimneys, which has merited the sale of Carbon Oil Lights to those who can afford, and demand the consumption of oil to the utmost upon the lowest expense for chimneys.

Consumers upon the lowest expense for chimneys.

For sale by J. G. Kirkpatrick, C. Thomas & Co., Rogers & Hunter, P. Hayden, Lacock Oil Co., Walden & Kuhnle, W. Ogden & Co., W. F. Woodridge, W. E. Murray, or at the Manufactory, Washington Street near Pennsylvania avenue.
