PITTSBURGH:

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 2, 1861.

The Honorable Grantley Berkley on American Affairs.

The Honorable Grantley Berkley, if our readers can remember small matters more than a year old, may perhaps be remembered as the Englishman whose sporting travels in this country found an ephemeral record in the newspapers at the time. On the strength of this tour, the honorable gentleman has put in a claim to be heard as an authority on American affairs.

The Hon. G. B. has written a letter to the London Morning Herald, setting forth his views on American affairs—not those of which he might be supposed to know something, but those of which, beyond a supposition, he knows nothing. Not of horses, or dogs, or prairie-hens, or turkeys, or pigeons, or buffaloes, or deers, or coons, or possums, is he going to give his trans-Atlantic experience to the readers of the Morning Herald; these will serve when he writes for the Field, or Bell's Life, but he must look after higher game now. The Hon. G. B. is not merely a sportsman—he has only to will it, and behold he is a sagacious politician, a thorough publicist, a profound statesman. Such is Lord Derby, such was in his day the late Lord George Bentinck, and why not also the Hon. G. B.?

The Hon. G. B. is chiefly indignant at the London Times and Mr. Russell its special correspondent in America, for putting forth fallacies in regard to the Southern States. "From first to last, and most unjustly," he says, "the London Times has designated the men of the Southern States as 'rebels,' and at the same time endeavored to brand their cause with a pro-slavery stain on which to court a little popularity in favor of their opponents."

Now perhaps this specimen of the Hon. G. B. is quite enough for our readers—who may feel a little surprised at two things which they will find in it, namely, that the London Times has been so friendly to the Northern States to wish us to "court a little popularity in their favor" anywhere, and that the Hon. G. B. is better informed than the Vice President of the Southern States about this pro-slavery "stain."

But though our readers would doubtless be satisfied to part with the Hon. G. B., without another word, having already a sufficiently clear understanding of the man who writes thus, as he says, "to gain for the Southern States, now fighting for their liberty, simply fair play;" yet we cannot resist the temptation of giving one more quotation, which, like a small key, opens the Hon. G. B.'s writing-case. Here it is in a dozen words: "We may live to see the fact illustrated that universal suffrage and vote by ballot do not work well."

But startle not, nay, rather compose your amused thoughts to utmost gravity, good reader, for this sporting honorable is quite a distinguished person, of the best blood of England's nobility—and must not be laughed at. If, on trial, it shall prove too great a tax on your republican courtesy to treat the Honorable Grantley Berkley with very distinguished consideration as "an authority on American affairs," we shall only insist that you observe Dr. Johnson's rule for judging "the letters of persons of quality"—consider them with reference to the writer, and make a handsome allowance for the circumstances.

ATTACKS UPON THE CABINET.—That democrats should attack the Cabinet of a Republican administration is natural and to be expected; but such attacks from Republican papers afford as much aid and comfort to the enemy as do the New York News or Day Book. The Philadelphia North American well says:

"If the charges paraded against Cabinet ministers were sustained by facts, there might be some excuse for preferring them, but where they are notoriously without foundation, and generally of the most frivolous character, it is about time the impropriety of making them became apparent. One would suppose, from the teaching of some of the professed organs of the Union cause, that the Cabinet was banded together for the overthrow instead of for the maintenance of the government, and that the zeal of every individual member was due to a desire for personal aggrandizement, rather than to any sense of public duty. The War Department being now the most conspicuous and important, comes in for the severest castigation, yet no department is administered with a higher regard to the public weal. Secretary Cameron, like every other of his colleagues, went into the Cabinet against the wishes and entreaties of many of his own party who had not been wont to acknowledge him their political leader; but the Cabinet having been formed, and a rebellion of immense proportions threatening the very existence of the Union, and bidding defiance to the laws, it became at once the duty of all good citizens to forget and entirely obliterate personal prejudice or animosity, and render a hearty support to him upon whom the grave responsibilities of the War Department had devolved. Having thus resolved, they looked to General Cameron for a faithful and judicious administration of his department, and candor compels the acknowledgment that they have not looked in vain. No man has exhibited more untiring zeal and devotion to the service of his country than the Secretary of War. For nearly six months he has given up his whole time to the perplexing duties of his department, and those who have not been eye-witnesses of the constant rush of persons surrounding his office, can form no estimate of his laborious and embarrassing position. Some of those whose virtues disappear when put in competition with their interests, of course find fault, and because the Secretary has not been willing to obey the behests of every one who aspired to a position for which he had neither claim nor capacity, coarse-mouthed clamor about favoritism is indulged in, and because the political hacks, who for year have hurried around the department, enriching themselves by spoils, have been unceremoniously cut off, the cry of corruption is raised. But the people understand this, and they cannot forget that the Secretary of War has called into the field a perfectly equipped army unprecedented in numbers, and that to do this an amount of labor and personal attention was required unparalleled in the history of any department. That all this has been successfully done, and that the general administration of affairs in the War Department has been such as to deserve unqualified commendation, no unprejudiced mind can doubt. The contracts, about which so much has been said, have been generally made through Gen. Meigs and the heads of the various bureaus, and they will, without question, defy the strictest scrutiny. The numerous military appointments have been made with a strict regard to the efficiency of the army, and the plan approved by Gen. Scott and a board of army officers has been more and a board of army officers has been more than carried out. Indeed, we have the concurrent testimony of those occupying high official positions, who have had abundant opportunities of knowing, that Gen. Cameron has earned the gratitude of the country for the unswerving fidelity, energy and integrity of purpose, which has distinguished his conduct as a member of the government."

KENTUCKY.—If the Government has not already sent aid to the Union men in Kentucky, it should do so without a moment's further delay. The Union men of that State are, it is true, in a large majority, but they are neither organized nor armed; while the Secessionists have a secret organization, are well armed, and are banded together as one man. If they are permitted to get the better of the Union men in a single encounter, the Government will have cause to regret it. A Louisville correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says:

"Picnics and barbecues and active canvassing are still carried on, and have been, more actively after the election than before it; camps of Secessionists are forming in the State. A large gathering is to be held, including the armed State Guard, in Owen county, near the State Capital, shortly after our Legislature is to assemble; and I am credibly informed that the Secession Congressman of the First District, H. C. Burgesman of the First District, H. C. Burgesman, has received from the Southern Confederacy, through the agency of George N. Sanders, 5,000 stand of arms, for the Secession camp near Glasgow, in our State, called Camp Vallandigham; that 3,500 more are soon to be sent to him; and that these arms are to be used to attack the camps of Kentucky Union men in Harrard county."

THE COTTON SUPPLY.—From the British papers recently received it is made evident that British merchants and supply companies are ransacking the globe for cotton, in order to enable them to dispense with the American staple; and there can be little doubt that they will obtain all that they want for the next six or seven months, if not a permanent supply.

The receipts of India cotton in Great Britain for five years are as follows:

In 1857, bales	679,000
In 1858, (interfered with by the rebellion of preceding year)	851,000
In 1859	816,000
In 1860	994,000
So far in 1861, including bills of lading	622,000

A leading Manchester authority—Messrs. Neill, Bros. & Co.—says: "From India we may draw a large supply, if we give sufficiently high prices to outbid the native manufacturers, and, at present prices, (July 22,) we look for a total supply of over 900,000 bales; but an advance here of another penny would, perhaps, add 300,000 to that quantity."

TREASON IN CHICAGO.—The City Councils of Chicago have passed an ordinance calling upon all those traitors in Chicago who are not willing to renew their oaths of allegiance to the Union and the Constitution, to leave that city; and making it the duty of the Union Defense Committee to ascertain the names of all such disloyal persons, and have them published in the city papers. The Mayor has issued his proclamation accordingly, and the Union Defense Committee has resolved itself into a Vigilance Committee for the proper observance of the Ordinance.

SENSATION DISPATCHES.—In common with all the press we copied from a N. Y. paper the dispatch stating that our minister to England had written home that England was preparing to recognize the Rebel Government. Within twenty-four hours the report was contradicted emphatically, and it now turns out that no such letter was sent by Mr. Adams. The dispatch was therefore an entire fabrication, and one calculated to do immense injury to the National cause. In the race to obtain sensation items these Washington reporters stop at nothing.

From Arizona—Particulars of the Surrender.

According to a letter from ex-Governor Greiner, now land agent of New Mexico, a party of Texans made an attack upon United States troops in the Mesilla valley, who, after a few skirmishes retired to Fort Fillmore. Major Lynde, thinking himself unable to maintain it, fell back on Fort Staunton, one hundred and sixty-one miles distant. The command, numbering seven hundred and fifty men, reached the San Augustine Spring; in the Oregon mountains, a march of about twenty miles, when it was surrounded by the Texan horse, said to be only three hundred strong. Major Lynde, without firing a gun, and without making a show of resistance, surrendered his whole force into the hands of the enemy. This was not the worst. Two companies from Forts Buchanan and Breckenridge, in the Western part of the territory, intended as reinforcements for Fort Fillmore, with sixty government wagons, were supposed to be on the road, and most serious fears are apprehended that this detachment will be cut off. This would give the whole of the Mesilla valley and Arizona into the hands of the Texans.

Fort Staunton, threatened by the insurgents, is a strong position and garisoned by seven companies of regulars. Kit Carson's regiment of New Mexican volunteers was nearly ready for the field, and a second was forming, with several companies of cavalry. The latest accounts confirm the suspicion of Major Lynde's treachery.

The Supply of Cotton in Europe.

There was another arrival of cotton at New York from Providence, R. I., on Wednesday, destined for Europe to meet the high prices there. Many of the New England factories had a year's supply of cotton when the war broke out, and these are but sparing some of their surplus for the better market abroad. The Express says:

"We believe that there is much more cotton in England and Europe than is generally supposed, and we know the consumption there has been very considerably less this year than last.—In Great Britain by five thousand bales a week, it is said, and on the continent in almost corresponding proportions. There are, moreover, large quantities of cotton at sea, and from three to four hundred thousand bales are expected in England from India. We conclude, therefore, that England will not suffer from want till March next."

ANOTHER REBEL STEAMER AT LARGE.—The steamer Jamestown, now called Patrick Henry, is said to have run the blockade at Fortress Monroe, and gone out to sea on the night of the 18th. She is fast and must prove to be dangerous.

This paragraph is having a wide circulation, but there is certainly no truth in it. The Jamestown was at Richmond, and to escape must have run past the batteries at Newport News, the guard ship stationed at the mouth of the James river, and the whole blockading fleet in Hampton Roads.—[Balt. American.

THE Louisville Journal says of the men in the Union Camp in Garrard county: "Since wars began upon the earth, there never was assembled in a camp a nobler, truer, better, set of men than those at Camp Robinson. Its officers are among the brightest and purest men of Kentucky.

No More "Pickens Ore," for Him.—One of the rebel prisoners confined at Camp Chase, Ohio, had a "letter of marque" from Gov. Wise, in which he was empowered to "pick off" Union scouts at five dollars a head.

They Did'nt Respond.

On Saturday last the people of Chicago, of all parties, held an immense and thusiastic war meeting. The day before it was to assemble the Chicago Tribune, which, since its great "Bull Run Victory," has abandoned the war cry of "Onward, to Richmond," for a war upon Cameron, insisted that the meeting should demand the removal of that gentleman. But it seems to have done no such thing. On the contrary, it pledged itself to stand by the Administration to the death in its efforts to put down the rebellion. No charge of incompetency or corruption was made against the Secretary of War, or any other member of the Administration, nor a hint at any change in the Cabinet. All discordant notes were hushed, and the whole vast assemblage united with one voice in declaring that the Government must be sustained, and the war prosecuted with the utmost possible vigor.—[Toledo Blade.

TOBACCO CULTURE in the North is a novelty and yet it is pronounced a success. There are many acres of the weed growing in Massachusetts, New York, and other Northern States, and as an evidence that our soil and climate are not unfavorable to the plant, it is said that Northern grown tobacco is already becoming a noticeable element in the market. The crop in New England this year is reported to be very promising.

DETAINED LETTERS.—The number of letters addressed to parties in the disloyal States, and detained at the postoffice in this city this week, have been as follows: Twelve on Tuesday; one hundred and three on Wednesday, and six hundred and seventy-five, principally by foreign mail, on Thursday.—[N. Y. Post.

DITRIDGE'S XX FLINT GLASS
OVAL CARBON OIL
LAMP CHIMNEYS,

THE BEST THAT HAVE EVER yet been offered to the public. They are the best for the following reasons:

1. Because, being of an oval shape, the glass is every where equally distant from the flame, so that the draft is stronger and more regular.

2. The oval shape is better adapted to resist the effect of sudden expansion, so that it is impossible to crack them.

3. The glass is made largely of Lead and Pearlash, giving a great degree of strength and elasticity. The burners with housekeepers have found to be so brittle as to crack even when not in use, are favorite by made of Lime Glass instead of the Flint Glass, of which ours are manufactured.

4. But the greatest advantage of these Chimneys is that when you have one it will last forever, and if that when you have one it will last forever, and if by housekeeper breaks one by the heat of its lamp, or her call at the Manufactory and we will replace her cracked chimney by a clean whole one. This proffer does not include accidents or those cases of breakage where the chimney has, through inexpert-ness, been screwed so closely to the lamp as to prevent its ex pansion when heated.

Manufacturers and consumers of Carbon Oil, who have felt the magnitude of the obstacle, which has existed in the great expense of chimneys, in the way of the universal use of the oil, have found a remedy in the Oval XX Flint Glass Chimneys, which has enabled them to reduce the cost of Carbon Oil Light to those certainly lessened the cost of Carbon Oil Light to those who use these, and increased the consumption of oil consequent upon the lessened expense for chimneys.

For sale by J. C. Klipstein, D. Thamm & Co., Reese & Nesbit, P. Hayden, Lacocco Oil Co., Weiden & Neimick, W. Ogden & Co., W. P. Woolridge, W. M. Murray, or at the Manufactory, Washington street Pennsylvania avenue.

Each man will be furnished with a good horse and full equipments, ample clothing and subsistence of the best quality. The pay ranges from $16 to $23 per month, according to the rank of the soldier. No minor will be mustered without the written consent of parent, guardian or master. By an act lately passed, the term of enlistment is altered to THREE YEARS, and every soldier who serves that time is entitled to 160 acres of land and $100 bounty from the United States. Attention is called to the fact that the government has wisely commenced to promote soldiers and non commission officers from the ranks. Advancement is therefore open to all who enlist. $2 Bounty will be paid to any citizen, non-commissioned officer or soldier who procures an accepted recruit. All men to the number of 25, will be enlisted for the Company of
