PITTSBURGH:
THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 5, 1861.

Fremont's Proclamation in Kentucky.

The St. Louis Republican, as our readers have learned, heartily approves Gen. Fremont's proclamation, and it has heretofore been an exponent of the pro-slavery feeling in Missouri. The western and northern papers, also, very generally approve it. The Louisville Journal is the only paper we have heard of which disapproves of it, and its condemnation of the proclamation grows more out of its fears for the future of Kentucky than of the principle upon which the proclamation is based.

Contrary to the general expectation hereabouts, the Journal does not object, at all, upon the score of the clause confiscating Slaves belonging to Rebels. Its opposition is to the proclamation of martial law, and that alone because a similar proclamation may possibly be deemed necessary by the government in Kentucky. Its loyalty, however, is not shaken by it. It says:

"No true patriot will shrink away from the side of his country because the errors of her defenders have added or shall add new risks to the struggle. The misfortune, to be sure, is sore and lamentable; but it should exalt rather than abate the zeal of the patriot. Calamities, to the estimation of unselfish spirits, do not degrade but sanctify a noble cause. The awkwardness or faithlessness of the men entrusted in this fearful exigency with the control of affairs but arrays the hapless country with a more sacred and touching claim to the devotion of her children. And every son of the Republic worthy of his glorious lineage and of his yet more glorious heritage will respond generously to the affecting claim. Let patriots everywhere, moved by the thickening perils of the nation, redouble their energies in its behalf. Let them gird themselves for its defence with a deeper and more awful sense of the magnitude of the work than they have before conceived. Let them dedicate themselves to the task with unqualified resolution and with undiminished hope but with a sadder and wiser conception of the vastness and difficulty and hazard of the undertaking. Above all, let the loyal men of Kentucky, the pride and hope of their countrymen in either section, stand with unshaken firmness. Let not one of them hesitate or waver for an instant in his loyalty. The peace and safety of Kentucky as well as the fortune of the general cause demands the unswerving fidelity of us all."

After stating that the necessity for the proclamation arose in the first instance from the failure of Missouri, under the control of a disloyal Governor and Legislature, to protect her loyal citizens and to uphold within her borders the just supremacy of the nation; that though Kentucky, less unfortunate than Missouri, was at the beginning of our troubles blessed with a loyal Legislature, she has yet been cursed with a disloyal Governor, and that the disloyalty of the Governor, spreading down extensively through the ranks of all holding towards him any official relation whatever, combined with the slenderness and uncertainty of the loyal majority in the Legislature, has heretofore so crippled the abounding loyalty of the people that neither the rights and duties of the State nor the laws of the nation have been faithfully attended to amongst the people of that State, so that they now find themselves actually drifting in the direction of the state of things which in Missouri has just put on the austere garb of martial law, it goes on to say:

"Fortunately, however, the last struggle has given us a Legislature loyal by an overwhelming majority in both Houses. We now accordingly have the power to correct in some measure the irregularities of the past and to provide against the commission of future ones.

"It is the urgent and solemn duty of the Legislature that meets to-day at Frankfort to exercise this power speedily and fully. On its prompt and thorough exercise by the Legislature unquestionably depends mainly the exemption of the State from the evils that are bearing such bitter fruits in our sister State. If we do not provide and use the means to vindicate the loyal neutrality we have assumed, the Federal Government will sooner or later be driven to do it for us, impelled either by self-preservation or by the entreaties of our own people. This is manifest. We must now decide whether we will organize a body of loyal soldiery for State purposes strong enough to enforce the obligations of a loyal neutrality against the enemies of the country in and out of the State, or whether we will suffer things to go on as they have been going on for the last two or three months, with the prospect of lapsing at no distant day or hour into the condition which in no brief a time has brought on the sway of Martial Law in Missouri. This is the question with which the Legislature must grapple at the outset. If it determines the question in favor of the latter alternative, the whole advantage of the successive struggles and victories of the Union men in Kentucky is thrown away. Such a determination, if such a determination were possible, would pluck the peace and safety of the State, which our triumph has won from the very jaws of civil war, and cast back into the consuming strife the precious fruit of all our unsleeping toil and solicitude. But such a determination is not possible."

—Since the above was written we have received the Journal of Tuesday, which does complain of the clause in the proclamation concerning slaves. It says:

"Unquestionably, however, a very odious feature of the confiscation announced by the Fremont Proclamation is, that it declares the confiscated slaves free. To declare them free instead of confiscating them to the State may be unselfish, but it is dangerous and odious, and should, and we trust will, be promptly repudiated by the Government."

Major Lynde Under Arrest.

A letter from Governor Greiner, of New Mexico, published in the Columbus Journal, states that after the capture of Major Lynde and his command of 750 regulars by 320 Texans, the enemy appropriated to their own use all the horses of the two companies of cavalry and all the wagons, arms and ammunition belonging to the Government. After placing the officers and men under their parole of honor never to fight against the Southern Confederacy, our men were released and sent back to New Mexico. These soldiers, of all ranks, are furious at this villainous act of their commander, who has thus disgraced them forever. With an open field for fair fight before them, and every advantage in their favor, 750 Government troops surrendered to 320 Texans without striking a blow. It makes the blood of every true man tingle in his veins to think of this villainous commander. Captains Gibbs and Potter, two subordinate officers under this old fogard Lynde, as soon as they had the power, took the responsibility of placing their traitorous superior under arrest, and he will be taken to Santa Fe for trial.

The Cannonading of Washington.

The city was eager all day yesterday, for further news of the cannonading of Washington, of which the Dispatch published the first report, purporting to come from its senior editor at Washington. No confirmation came, however; and it finally turned out that the dispatch was a hoax.

FALSE REPORTS.—The report of the death of Jeff. Davis is probably a canard of the New York Herald. "No other paper has the news."

The sensation dispatches from Wheeling, about the danger of sundry towns in Western Virginia, from the Rebels, were without any adequate foundation. It was a big scare from a little cause.

THE NATIONAL LOAN.—We invite attention to the appeal of the Secretary of the Treasury, in favor of the National Loan, which we publish to-day.

THE NATIONAL LOAN.

"TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES:

"Your National Government, compelled by a guilty conspiracy culminating in a causeless insurrection, is engaged in a war for security and liberty, for the supremacy of the law, for the defence of the Union, and for the maintenance of popular institutions. For the means to defray the necessary expenses of the war, your Congress has directed that an appeal be made to you, by opening a subscription to a National Loan of one hundred and fifty millions of dollars.

"Already the enlightened and patriotic capitalists of the great cities of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, have manifested their clear sense both of duty and interest, by a subscription of $50,000,000 Congress, under which this subscription was received, wisely provides, however, that the advantages, as well as the patriotic satisfaction of a participation in this loan, shall be offered not to the capital sand of the great citizens only, but to the people of the whole country.—In order to secure a substantial reward for their public spirit to those whose patriotism prompts them in this hour of trial to place their means at the disposal of government, Congress has directed that an interest of 7 3-10 per centum be paid on the several amounts subscribed, an interest not liable to State taxation, but constituting for subscribers a revenue not only certain in receipt, but greater in amount than can be expected from any ordinary investment.

"And in order to afford all citizens equal opportunities of participation in these advantages, Congress has further directed that subscriptions for receipts for sums as small as $50 as well as for larger amounts, and that should the subscriptions exceed the whole sum of the loan, the smaller be preferred in its distribution.—Each subscriber, on payment of his subscription, will be entitled to receive Treasury notes, equal in amount, in such denominations as he may prefer, whether of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 or $5,000. The interest at 7 3-10 per annum will be, on the notes, of $50 one cent, of $100 two cents, on $500 ten cents, or fifteen cents, twenty cents, and on $5000 one dollar for each day.—All the treasury notes issued will bear date on the 15th of August, 1861, and will bear interest from that date. Each note will have coupons attached, expressing the several amounts of semi annual interest, which coupons may be detached from the notes and presented for payment separately. Each subscriber may pay the whole amount subscribed at the time of subscription, or, if he prefers to do so, may pay one-tenth at that time and one-third every twentieth day thereafter. At each payment the accrued interest on the amount from the 15th of August to the date of payment must also be paid, and the amounts of interest thus paid will be reimbursed in the payment of the first coupon.

"In order to secure beyond peradventure the punctual payment of the interest and the gradual redemption of the principal, Congress has provided by law for an annual revenue amply sufficient not only for these purposes, but for the prompt payment of all demands on account of extraordinary expenditures. It will be seen at a glance that not only is the whole property of the country pledged for the interest and final reimbursement of the loan, but that an adequate and specific proportion of the annual production is set apart by the taxation for the redemption of this pledge. Prompt payment beyond a contingency is thus secured.

"Nor can this taxation be thought great when compared with the magnitude of the objects of the contest, or with the amount of property and production. The objects are Union, permanent peace and security at home, and respect abroad, which are imperilled by this unprovoked rebellion. The intelligence of the people will comprehend also their magnitude.—Their rise above property. They belong to no administration. They concern the whole country during all time, under every administration, and in every relation, foreign or domestic.

"And the means for the attainment of these great objects can be readily supplied from the property productions of the country. The real and personal values in the United States reach the vast aggregate of $16,000,000,000, and in the States now loyal to the Union this aggregate is $11,000,000,000. The yearly surplus earnings of the loyal people are estimated by intelligent persons conversant with such investigations at more than $150,000,000, while the well considered judgment of military men of the highest rank and repute, warrants the confident expectation that if the war is prosecuted with energy, courage and skill it may be brought to a termination before the close of the next spring, in which event the cost beyond the revenue will hardly exceed the amount of the $250,000,000 loan authorized by Congress; and with a due economy in all branches of the public service, not more than the local expenditures of Great Britain or France in years of peace.

"And it is not unreasonable to hope that the auspicious result of peace may be hastened by the reflection of the citizens of the states in insurrection that they will rev ew their action, weigh their own welfare, consider the disposition of the people of the whole country to recognise all their constitutional rights, and to allow them their full share in the benefits of the common Government, and renew their allegiance to the Union, which, to an evil hour, they have been tempted to throw off. Will they not feel that the war into which the Government has been constrained is not a war for their sub ugation but a war for national existence, and that an auspicious result to the Union will benefit at large the States in insurrection as the States which have remained loyal? However this may be, the duty of the National Government, as the constitutional representative and trust of the people, admits of no question. The war made necessary by the insurrection, and reluctantly accepted by the Government, must be prosecuted with all possible vigor until the restoration of the just authority of the Union shall insure permanent peace.

"The same good Providence which conducted our fathers through the difficulties and dangers which beset the formation of the Union, has graciously strengthened our hands for the work of its preservation. The crops of the year are ample, the granaries and farms are everywhere full. The capitalists of the country come cheerfully forward to sustain its credit in this crisis. Already, and even in advance of this appeal, men of all occupations seek to share the honors and advantages of the loan. Never, except in cases of the temporary depression caused by fire or rebellion and the derangement of business occasioned by it, were the people of the United States in a better condition to sustain a great contest than now.

"Under these favoring circumstances, and for these grand objects, I shall, in pursuance of the act of Congress, receive books of subscription to be opened as speedily as practicable in the several cities and principal towns of the United States, in order that all citizens who desire to subscribe to the loan may have the opportunity of doing so. Meanwhile, those who prefer that course can remit any sum which they may wish to invest in the loan to the Treasury of the United States at Washington, or to either of the Assistant Treasurers at Boston, New York, Philadelphia or St. Louis, or to the Depository at Cincinnati, and certificates will entitle the holders to Treasury notes on the terms already stated. The patriotism of the people, it is to be doubted, will promptly respond to the liberal wisdom of their representatives.

(Signed) "S. P. CHASE,
"Secretary of the Treasury.

The Tomahawk and Scalping Knife.

It appears to be a fact that the rebels have persuaded several of the more savage of the Western Indian tribes to join them in their war against the Union. The Seminoles, Creeks, Camanches, and several other tribes, the rebel journals declare, have become their allies, and are now being organized under Albert Pike, of Arkansas, and others, to take the field against the Union men of the West.

Kansas is to be first invaded—her people massacred and scalped, and the country desolated by SAVAGE warfare—and these atrocities are to be extended into adjoining States and Territories.

The tomahawk and the scalping knife are to be called into requisition, by the leaders of a rebellion who have prided themselves upon their honor, chivalry, and "nobility of manhood." We are to have barbarian atrocities inaugurated, equal in savage brutality to the Sepoy butcheries in India.

Our homes are to be destroyed by the merciless blood-hounds of the wilderness—our wives and children to be tomahawked and scalped—and the rich fields, the prosperous towns, the happy households of the West are to be swept away by the fury of incarnate fiends, thirsting for bloody horrors.

Is there a Western man who still hesitates as to his duty in this crisis? If so, let him be warned by the exultant announcements of the Southern journals, that they have formed an alliance with the Indian savages, and will lead them into a barbarous and desolating crusade against our fire-sides. The pressure that will finally force us all to appreciate and perform our duties, is becoming more irresistable every day.—[Chicago Journal.

THE inquiry for the 7.30 Treasury notes continues brisk, and there is every indication that the amount taken this week will nearly if not quite double the subscriptions of last week. Yesterday $340,000 were taken, which is much larger than any previous day, and there is promise of large subscriptions within a day or two by several Hartford institutions. One of these took $100,000 yesterday.—[N. Y. Post.

The Vote of Approval.

We have seen it intimated in the columns of many of our contemporaries, especially of those opposed to the Administration, that the Congress, at its late session, refused to pass any declaration approving the extraordinary acts and proceedings which President Lincoln authorized or executed prior to the assemblage of that body. It is true that the formal resolution introduced into the Senate for the purpose failed to be acted upon, but the object was fully reached in the act entitled "An act to increase the pay of privates in the regular army, and of the volunteers in the service of the United States, and for other purposes." The third section of the act contains this approval which is given in the following words:

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That all the acts, proclamations, and orders of the President of the United States, after the 4th of March, 1861, respecting the army and navy of the United States and calling out or relating to the militia or volunteers from the States, are hereby approved, and in all respects made legal and valid, to the same intent and with the same effect as if they had been issued and done under the previous express authority and direction of the Congress of the United States."

Another Arrest for Treason.

J. C. Bahning, a merchant doing business at No. 36 South street, was arrested last night on a charge of endeavoring to send cannon to the rebels at Wilmington, North Carolina, from Nassau, New Providence. It appears that he approached the commander of the schooner Arctic, then at Nassau, in order to induce him to ship the cannon, two in number, but the captain thought it would be difficult enough to run the blockade without the cannon, or easier to escape if caught provided that no such freight were found on his vessel, and therefore declined.

The rebels, it is understood, failed to get the cannon, which are now, according to the statement of the prisoners, in this city. Rahning came to the city, and it was supposed he would continue, if possible, the business begun at Nassau. He was arrested and has been sent to Fort Lafayette.—[N. Y. Post.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
WESTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA, ss.
Whereas a libel of information has been filed in the District Court of the United States of America for the Western District of Pennsylvania, on the third day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, by Robert S. Carnahan, Esq., attorney of the United States, in behalf of the United States, alleging in substance that a certain steam tow boat being without name, of the following dimensions and description, to wit: Length of keel one hundred and twenty five feet, twenty-four feet beam and four feet hold, with a cabin with three lengths of rooms and cook-house and store room aft, and the hurricane full length, is now lying at the port of Pittsburgh, in said district; that she belongs in whole or in part to John Hill, a citizen and resident of the State of Tennessee; that in pursuance of the act of Congress approved July 13th, 1861, the President of the United States issued his proclamation thereof dated July 13th, 1861, declaring inter alias that the inhabitants of the State of Tennessee are in a state of insurrection against the United States, and that from and after fifteen days from said August 16th, 1861, all ships and vessels belonging in whole or in part to any citizen or inhabitant of said State of Tennessee found in any part of the United States will be forfeited to the United States, and that said steam tow boat owned as aforesaid was so found in the port of Pittsburgh, on the 30th day of August, 1861, and that the said vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture became thereby forfeited to the use of the United States, and praying that the same may be condemned as forfeited as aforesaid.

Now therefore, in pursuance of the monition under the seal of the said Court to me directed and delivered, I hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, or any interest therein, or in the cargo, or in any manner interested in the same, that they be and appear before the said District Court, at the city of Pittsburgh, on the FIRST TUESDAY OF OCTOBER next, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of that day, (provided the same shall be a day of jurisdiction, otherwise on the next day of jurisdiction thereafter) then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

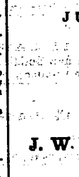
PORTABLE WASH STAND.



This is a new and beautiful article. It is of Iron, and made in such a way as to combine Bowl, Stand, &c. It makes a very neat finish, and is complete without wood work. This is the thing that has long been wanted by tenants who do not wish to be at the expense of anything permanent. The stand above described can be taken down and removed in a few minutes
