Election in the Pennsylvania Camps. The cleation is the Pennsylvania camps to day proved a very duil, affait. Many of the men never heard of the chadidates whose names being composed of man from various counties, they were at a loss as to how they should vote, as each company was called into line to deposit its ballots. The impression is that the Pennsylvania People's ticket received a majority of the votes cast in the reveral camps heresbout to-day, while the result among other Philical-phile vol-unters will give that ticket about three thous-and majority.
