Interesting from Japan.

The Kanagawa correspondent of the Herald gives the following account of the murderous hnown, and will not be until actor the arrival of the Admiral from Hong Kong, who is looked for to-morrow. The Imperious [51] flag-ship of Vice Admiral Hope, and three others, will be here. It is believed that the English government in this case will hold the Japaness responsible, as it seems strange that so large a sponsible, as it seems strange that so large a loung or elsewhere, thus validinates: ment in this case will hold the Japanese responsible, as it seems strange that so large a party could move about in the centre of a city like Jeddo without the gövernment being cognisant of it. If the Japanese government cannot protect the foreign representatives, then they had better withdraw to where their lives will be asfe. It is protended that these formerly belonged to the Prince of Mito, that they are discarded followers of that Prince, and have it cannot be come what are known as Jonia—sort of outlaws and ought not to be held responsible for their acts. It was by these Jonia that Mr. Henrich had nothing to do with, and that it was parfectly guilties. If it is not a government and a cannot protect them, it ought to be compelled to do so, or let foreigners protect themselves.

The Paras correspondent of the N. Y. Times will be added to do so, or let foreigners protect themselves.

The Paras correspondent of the N. Y. Times wite:
