TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 22, 1861. THE TELEGRAPH TO UTAH IS NOW COM pleted, and the Atlantic is now in commumication with Salt Lake city. Soon the Atlantic will speak to the Pacific in less time than it takes the sun to traverse the same distance.

CONSUL TO LIVERPOOL .- THOS. H. Dun-LEY, of Camden, N. J., has been appointed to this most desirable post. The New York Tribune says that Mr. Dudley is one of the ablest and best men in New Jersey, an early and earnest Republican, and his appointment is one of those which reflect credit on the Administration that makes it. We trust that it will be accepted.

Gan. Parmour. -- We are gratified that GEN. FARMANT.—We are gratified that our Western telegraphic dispatches contradict the rumor of the removal of Gen. Fremont. The rumor was received with pain by the public generally, as fair play is a jewel dear to the American heart. While there is every disposition to approve of the soliton of the Government, believing it actuated by the most provided in the contradiction of the Government, believing it actuated by the most provided with most product. While the most provided with most product the contradiction of the Government, believing it actuated by the most product in the contradiction of the Government of the Contradiction o ated by the most patriotic motives, and always acting with the fullest information, rithout the profoundest sorrow. We hope it may be found consonant with the utmost prudence to leave Fremont to deal with Price and McCullock, and if he does not vindicate his reputation for vigor and outerprise we shall be disappointed. The rebels now exhibit a disposition to wait for him at Osceols, and we hope they may do so, and Osceola, and we hope they may do so, and that the deliverance of Missouri from anarchy and oppression may be left to the erbitrament of a battle, in which Fremont may lead the loval army.

"Fellow-citizens, this war must go on. I you cannot help prosecute it, you shall no prevent it with impunity. If Price waits for Fremont to come up with him, we do not see how he can erospe a battle, as Osocola is more than a hundred miles from the frontier, and the roads are almost impassable. Warsaw, where Fremont is, is on the north side of the Osage his and so increaciated him for his river, and Osceola is on the south side, some the South out off. A day or two will tell we here state, combined with the visit of the story.

Let the reader ask himself the questionscould such an outrage take place in a civilised community not curred with slavery? Could it take place in a single free State? are they not treated with all kindness and dress to the King against any sacrifice on delicacy? What then has caused this great difference? Here are men of the same race, living under the same beneficent government, cojoying the same deneational and ment, epipying the same educational and weak, the defenseless, the innocent. There is a cause for this brutality; it has been created by circumstances of social and political life; it did not rise spontaneously out of this rebellion. That cause is slavery. It created both the rebellion and the ferocity which accompanies it, and it would be an act of the grandest philanthropy the world has ever witnessed, for the free States to lavieb their blood and treasure to deliver
