——The ninety third anniversary of Old John Street M. E. Church of New York, the venerable cradle of Methodism, was celebrated last Sunday. In the forenoon Rev. Dr. Durbin preached an appropriate sermon, and the pastor, Rev. W. H. Milburn, the "blind preacher" delivered a discourse in the evening. The re-union of old ministers in the afternoon was an interesting occasion. Addresses were made by the venerable Rev. Henry Boehm, Bishop Asbury's last traveling companion; and others.

——The Right Honorable Lord Teynham, a peer of the realm, devotes a considerable portion of his time in proclaiming the Gospel of Christ.

——Brownson, editor of Brownson's Review says, that in the seventeen years of his Catholic career he has lost more than seventeen thousand dollars, through the failure of agents and others to pay their subscriptions. He says of himself, "Catholic we are, and Catholic we will be, whatever may be the wrath of man, or rage of devils."

Dr. Krauth, formerly pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of this city, is to take charge of it. The Rev. Mr. Passavant, says the "Presbyterian" is to be the associate editor.

——The "Presbyterian" says:

Negotiations are in progress for a union of the English Presbyterian Church with those congregations belonging to the United Presbyterian Church which are in England. A deputation from the former body of ministers and ruling elders, appeared at the last Synod of the United Presbyterian Church. They were most warmly and cordially welcomed, and a deputation was appointed, consisting of two ministers and two ruling elders, to attend the first meeting of the English Presbyterian Synod, and express the desire of the United Presbyterian body for closer intercourse and relationship.

——Mrs. P. H. Brown, authoress of the hymns "I love to steal away," "How sweet the melting lay," &c., messenger of love, and bear," and "Jesus, this mid-day hour of prayer," died at the residence of her son-in-law in Henry, Ill, aged 78 years.

——An order from the War Department requires all chaplains to be regularly ordained ministers of the gospel. Every unordained chaplain is to be "mustered out" of service.

——An exchange paper says the Pope has appointed seven new Cardinals. It occurred in a private consistory held at the Vatican; the more public ceremony, attended by all the prelates and courtiers, took place shortly afterwards. The Pope goes round, and with his finger touches the lips of each of these fresh members of the Sacred College, in token that they are to keep his counsel as their own.

——The Synod of the German Reformed Church in the United States was held at Easton, Pa., sometime since. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Mayer. The Rev. H. Harbaugh, D. D. was elected President, and Rev. S. R. Weber, D. D., Stated Clerk.

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.

An Advance Contrive The Army Going Forward.

There need exist no longer any grave apprehensions as to the grand army of the Potomac going into winter quarters in this vicinity. The President, it is understood, has assured several distinguished gentlemen that a forward movement of the army is determined on, though at what time it is not proper to state. Those who have not been fully posted have been quite loud in urging an immediate advance, fearful that at the same time it was not contemplated by those in authority. The impatience of the people may be set at rest for the present. It is not at all improbable that a movement will be made and a victory achieved before the distant public are aware that anything has occurred to disturb the inactivity of the army just now.

I have seen several officers who were in Fairfax village during the present week. No fortifications of the rebels are to be seen in that vicinity. The main body of the army is still at Manassas, where they evidently intend to await an attack. One or two regiments are near Centreville (five miles beyond Fairfax,) merely for the purpose of performing picket duty.

Not Going into Winter Quarters.

I think I have sufficient authority for explicitly denying the statement that the army of the Potomac would go into Winter quarters within the lines of the present encampment or intrenchments. No such purpose is entertained by the Government, and no such suggestion has been made by Gen. McClellan. Indeed, within the past fortnight the activity of preparation has been greater than within the same time for the last two months. Of course, an army is to remain in and around Washington to defend the Capitol, and doubtless we shall have a large camp of instruction. For the men and horses constituting this force, Winter barracks will be provided, and timely preparations are making for this; but beyond this there is nothing being done that looks like inaction during the Winter months.

No New Movements.

Since the rebels have run away from Gen. McCall's division, there is nothing of interest to report, the movements and position of our own forces being contraband. Our scouts range the country round for ten or fifteen miles, but find nothing except the tracks of the rebel hordes.

There is a report in circulation here that the rebels were firing on Banks' camp to-day, but there is no truth in it. All is quiet in his camp.

Affairs on the Lower Potomac.

The rebel batteries on the Potomac have been ineffectually playing upon our forces engaged in erecting counter batteries on the Maryland shore. The rebel steamer Page appears to be aground in Quantico Creek. She cannot escape without risking a few shots from our guns.

Two prisoners arrived at the Navy-Yard today, having been captured by our river force on suspicion of being spies. One was taken at Port Tobacco.

Affairs in Alexandria.

Gen. Montgomery, Military Governor of Alexandria, has issued an order forbidding the sale of liquor to soldiers in his district.

I send you by mail a copy of the decision of Provost Judge Freese, of Alexandria, in the case of Bowen, Holmes & Co., of New York, and Hallowell & Co., of Philadelphia, against Witmer & Co., of Alexandria. It is on this decision that an appeal is to be made to the President, and the opinion of Judge Freese is quoted as a precedent to cover all civil cases of a similar nature. If the decision is sustained, it will equal in importance the coup d'etat of Gen. Butler as to the contrabands.

Value of Property in Washington.

I have before alluded to the enhanced rates of rents in Washington since the Army of Occupation came here. The effect has also been to raise the value of real estate. A gentleman showed me a piece of property to-day that last June would not have sold for twenty thousand dollars, that is now rated at fifty thousand. Indeed, the owner will not part with it at that price.

Confiscation in Washington.

There are at least a hundred citizens of Washington in the rebel army, or in some way connected with the rebel government. Their property is to be immediately confiscated under the late law of Congress. In many instances, owners of large estates deserted them at the commencement of the war. Others of well-known secession proclivities have remained here thus far, unharmed and unmolested, and in many instances have been extensively patronized in their business by the Government. There are numerous cliques of residents who do not hesitate to avow their dissolution sentiments, though in no offensive manner, for that would subject them to immediate arrest.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has so increased its transport facilities that it can deliver four thousand tons of subsistance for the army per day, while the requirements of the army are but fourteen hundred tons. One hundred and fifty cars, loaded during the night at Baltimore, reached here before morning, so that the capacities of transportation are fully equal to those now supplied by the Potomac, and no fear of deficiencies in the subsistence department need be entertained.

Lumber Contract.

A contract for supplying one million feet of lumber in Washington, was awarded to-day to P. S. Bliss, Columbia, Pa., for fifteen thousand four hundred and thirty dollars.

Retirement of Gen. Scott.

Gen. Scott has fixed no precise time for his withdrawing from the army, though he is liable to do so at any moment.

The Seward-Lyons Correspondence.

The personal attacks made by some of the daily papers on Lord Lyons are entirely unfounded. In holding the correspondence which did with Secretary Seward, is in generally understood that he acted only as an agent of the English government, through its minister of foreign affairs, whose views he was bound to present in accordance with instructions. It is much more in accord with the North than is generally supposed.

Inaccurate Copies of Army Orders.

General McClellan complains that inaccurate copies of military orders have been given to newspaper correspondents by clerks or other employees of the War Department.

Interview with Rebel Pickets.

Capt. Collis' Zouaves, who did picket duty on the Potomac at Edwards's Ferry the night after the recrossing of our troops, "chatted" with the rebel pickets on the other side. They appeared at daylight in large numbers on the bank of the river, and commenced abusing our guard by calling them "cowards," "Yankees," "Abolitionists," etc. They acknowledged that their killed and wounded at the battle of Conrad's Ferry was 359, and said that one wounded captured were placed in the hospital with their own. They admitted having lost 60 men in the skirmish at Edwards's Ferry on Tuesday; that our artillery drove them back. They said that on Sunday night there were only three regiments at Leesburg, but that now there were between 30,000 and 40,000 men, who have moved up from Manassas. These, however, would return immediately, as they were not wanted there. They called our troops fools for not marching to Leesburg on Tuesday. These pickets were well uniformed and mounted, and their story is confirmed by statements of rebel prisoners and of our own scouts. The skirmish of Tuesday was the one in which General Lander was wounded.

The Military Examining Boards.

There are, at this time, in Heintzelman's and Franklin's divisions, two examining boards in full blast, and, judging from the character and military reputation of their members, those gentlemen who have entered the service for pastime will discover, when too late, that they have mistaken their calling, or find their reputation gone. The very names of the officers composing these Boards strike terror to aspiring military novices. In Heintzelman's Division they are Col. Pratt, Thirty-first New York Volunteer Regiment; Col. Simpson, Second New Jersey Regiment, U. S. A.; Col. Hawman, Thirty-Seventh New York Regiment, U. S. A. In Franklin's Division, Col. Ward, Thirty-eighth New York Regiment; Col. Herbert, New Jersey First Regiment; Col. Poe, Second Michigan Regiment, U. S. A. We sympathize with the victims who may come within their clutches.

Cost of a Portion of Three-Months' Subsistence.

Major Eaton's purchases of subsistance at New York, the first quarter of the present year, amounted to $100,000. His purchases for the second quarter amounted to $750,000. For the third, ending Oct. 1, the amount has been largely increased.

Election in Maryland.

There is little or no interest felt in the Maryland State election, which is to be held on Wednesday of next week. The Union ticket will of course be elected. The candidate of the Peace party is Benj. C. Howard, who has been for many years the official reporter of the Supreme Court of the United States. In his canvass he declines to say, if elected, he will resign or discharge his duties so as to promote the interests of the Secession cause in the present crisis.

News from the Rebels.

Through some channel, unknown, perhaps, even to the authorities, we continue to receive letters from a rebel quarters, of later dates and of a more reliable character than heretofore. It is evident that our outside line of pickets are very loose in the management of their lines, while communicating through Maryland seems freer than ever. The secessionists in Washington are unusually well posted of the doings of their friends in the South.

Repairing the White House.

The White House is not open for the general reception of visitors at present, the east room undergoing extensive repairs preparatory to the winter season.

Proposed Military District West of Missouri.

Surveyor-General Delahay, of Kansas and Nebraska, is here as bearer of dispatches to the President and Secretary of War from Gen. Lane's Brigade, urging the creation of a new Military District west of Missouri, to include Kansas, the Indian Territory, Arkansas, and Colorado Territory.

Naval Preparations.

The Navy Department has recently ordered 500 more rifled guns. Immense quantities of shot and shells are casting at all the founderies in the country.

Aids to Gen. McClellan.

Wm. Hays, late Captain in the 2d Artillery, and Edward A. Raymond, of Boston, have been appointed Aids-de-Camp to Gen. McClellan, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and Captain respectively.

Petition in Favor of Gen. Heintzelman.

The citizens of Buffalo, claiming General Heintzelman as a townsman, have petitioned the President to appoint him Major-General. The list of signers, beginning with Millard Fillmore, is such as any man might be proud to receive a compliment from.

Col. Scott Retired.

Col. H. L. Scott, Inspector-General, has been honorably retired upon his own application. He is a native of North Carolina, and has been in the service since 1833. Military Storekeeper Luther Leonard, of the Ordnance Department, having been found competent to perform his duties by the Board, was not retired.

The Firing of the Rebels at Coonrad's Ferry.

It is a remarkable fact that most of the bullet wounds received by our troops in the ambuscade at Coonrad's Ferry are in the side. The flank fire was the most destructive. The wounded in all the hospitals at and around Poolesville number 160. Several of the officers are bedded in private houses.

Rebel Money in Alexandria.

Some Confederate money having been put in circulation in Alexandria, Gen. Montgomery issued an order prohibiting the use of it, under penalties. It has been withdrawn.

Treasury Notes Issued.

Thirty-nine millions of the 7-30 Treasury notes have been issued.

Fremont's Army on the March.

The Cincinnati Commercial publishes the following extract of a private letter from an officer in Gen. Sturgis's command, dated Osceola, Oct. 24:

Last Monday night, one week ago, we received marching orders to proceed to Westport, 44 miles in a southwesterly direction from Kansas City, and await further orders there. We remained at Westport until Friday morning, when we took up the line of march to join the grand army. Last evening, after six days' marching, we reached the Osage river, opposite what was once called Osceola. Camping here all night, we commenced crossing away a dam in the morning, that the water might seek a level, thereby lowering it a foot or so at the place selected for the baggage train to cross. Our train, I should think, was from one and a half to two miles in length. So the crossing of so many wagons, you will see, was no small job. The teams commenced fording about 8½ o'clock, the infantry crossing in a small ferry boat at the same time, and by 12 m. all was over.

The ruins of Osceola present a sad picture of war. Osceola was the county seat of St. Clair county, had a population of from two to three thousand, and did a very large business. It was a great rendezvous of secessionists, and here the Confederate army under Gen. Price was supplied with ammunition, and a number of other necessaries of war. Gen. Jim Lane had occasion to come to the little city about four weeks ago. He was fired upon while marching through. Immediately the town was set on fire by his men, and those citizens who fired upon him were shot dead. Not half a dozen houses are left, and I have failed to find more than three families now living here. Either Osceola has suffered for crimes as great as those of Sodom, or Gen. Jim Lane's chances of Heaven are mighty slim.

Gen. Fremont is 14 miles from here, with 20,000 men. Generals Hunter and McKinstry are at Warsaw with 25,000 more. Sigel and Pope are somewhere with large forces, but we do not know where. Gen. Lane is eight miles south of here, with from 1,500 to 2,000 more men. We have 1,500 men. Our position is in the right wing of the army, but for the present we will march on the right about ten miles, and pursue the army, but so we can join easily, if positions require it. I may not be able to write again for some time. If we get very far South, the rear of the army can not, I am afraid, keep open the mails—even this may never reach you. If it does, it will be some time from now. Every day I pray that our regiment may be reunited, but of course that cannot be now; we are too far away from the half at Chillicothe, with Col. Groesbeck, and m y never see it again during the war. It is said Price has joined with Gen. Ben. McCulloch in the Northwest of Arkansas, and is intrenching himself. We hope he is. If he will only stand and fight, and not run us over a thousand miles of country, I shall thank him from the bottom of my heart. Think of it —we have walked a hundred miles in the last six days, and on a march we have only time to get two meals, but I am willing to stand it.

Col Geary's Official Report—The McCooks Still Distinguishing Themselves.

The official report of Col. Geary's victory near Harper's Ferry, about three weeks since, has just been published. It contains little that has not already appeared in print. Geary states his loss at four killed, seven wounded and two taken prisoners; that of the enemy he estimates at one hundred and fifty. He confirms the story of the crucifixion of our four killed by the rebels. After they were shot down they were charged on by the cavalry and stabbed through the body, stripped of all their clothing, not excepting shoes and stockings, and left in perfect nudity. One was laid out in the form of crucifixion, with his hands spread, and pegged through the palms with a dull knife.

The Colonel pays the following tribute to a citizen of Steubenville, the gallant father of several brave sons:

It affords me pleasure to mention that Hon. Daniel McCook (father of General McCook,) as an amateur soldier, gun in hand, volunteered and rendered much service during the engagement. I also mention like services rendered by Benjamin G. Owen, Esq., of St. Louis. Both of these gentlemen were greatly exposed during the action.

From the Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The steamer Panama arrived yesterday, from Mazatlan on the 14th inst., bringing $14,000 in treasure. She reports the United States sloop-of-war St. Mary's at Cape St. Lucas.

A terrible gale prevailed at Mazatlan on the 27th of September, blowing down houses and wrecking a number of vessels, including the bark Rolling Wave, of New York.

Gen. Shields was at Mazatlan on the 13th of October. He declines the appointment of Brigadier General. He is encouraging some plan for Irish emigrants to settle in the western States of Mexico.

Several Texans had arrived at Mazatlan on their way to California. They report a stagnation of business throughout Texas, and the utmost misery prevailing at Matamoras and along the Rio Grande. The stores were closed, steamers laid up, and all kind of improvements suspended.

Capt. John H. Leadram, U. S. A., died yesterday. He was a native of Connecticut.

The United States steamer Saranac sailed on the 27th, for a cruise down the coast.

The steamer Narragansett was at Acapulco on the 8th.

The United States steamer Wyoming sailed on the 23th to cruise.

The Government and the Reporters.

The reporters are again in trouble. The Government has taken exception to some of the strictures published in the Philadelphia, New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago papers. The truth in some of the reporters, in their anxiety to publish early intelligence, very often embarrass the movements of the Government. It is a well-established fact that the rebels have in our midst a regularly organized band of spies.

From Cairo.

CAIRO, Oct. 30.—The steamer W. H Brown, with Maj. R. B. Hayes, Gen. McDougal, Senator from California, Commodore Graham, Col. Taylor, and Capt. Hillyer, aid to Gen. Grant, on board, with Capt. Whitfield, son of Gen. Whitfield, of the rebel army in charge, left here at 10 a. m., and steamed down the river to Columbus, where the steamer YAZOO, with Gen. Polk and staff, and a large force, came alongside. Capt. Hillyer, who had charge of the mission, delivered the prisoner to Gen. Polk.

There was an interesting meeting between Gen. McDougal and the rebel Gen. Cheatham, who had been warm friends in California.

With the expedition was a man claiming to be Major of the 15th Missouri regiment, by the name of Gosnel, who had charge of Capt. Whitfield up to the time of the arrival at Cairo last night, with proper credentials. After the federal officers had delivered their prisoner Whitfield, and on the return to Cairo, two miles from Columbus, Gosnel seized an opportunity to partly undress, and jumped overboard, and before he was missed was out of reach, and, it is supposed, to have reached shore safely. The matter is mysterious, but, as Gosnel had been a prisoner at Columbus, it is supposed to be a concerted plan on the part of Gosnel and the rebels, to secure information of our strength, purposes, &c. Capt. Whitfield was captured by Gen. Lyon's force at Springfield, Mo.—Special Dispatch to Chicago Tribune.

The St. Louis War-Claims Commission.

The full commission appointed by the President to examine into the military accounts of the Department of the West, at St. Louis, is composed of Hon. David Davis, of Illinois, Hon. Joseph Holt, of Kentucky, and Hugh Campbell, of St. Louis. They are to examine and report upon all unsettled claims against the Military Department of the West, which may have originated prior to the appointment of the present General, at which time the order was issued that all money must be disbursed by the regularly appointed agents of the government. The commission are to meet at St. Louis, and enter upon their duties as soon as practicable. Samuel T. Glover, Esq., of St. Louis, is to act as counsel for the government.—Chicago Tribune.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

From Our Evening Edition.

New Battery Discovered--Infernal Machine--The Rebels near Leesburg.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A new battery of rifled cannon, three in number, has been discovered about a mile and a half below any that have been heretofore fired on the lower Potomac. It is situated a little below a new brick house, not far from the wharf at Evansport.

A few days ago, the rebels sent a small boat from Quantico Creek over towards Budd's Ferry, having a flag of truce. When she had approached within two or three hundred yards of the Maryland shore, a barrel, with something attached to it, was thrown overboard, and the boat immediately turned and put back to the Virginia shore. The barrel was supposed to contain an infernal machine.

A letter received to-day from Darnestown, Md., says the rebels now occupy Ticket Harrison's Island, and that reliable intelligence from Leesburg gives information that on the Tuesday succeeding the fight at Ball's Bluff, the rebels withdrew their forces from Leesburg, on our troops being thrown over at Edwards' Ferry, leaving only a few battalions to keep up appearances and to watch our movements. They subsequently took away all their supplies, and were at the latest accounts resting on Goose Creek, seven miles South of Leesburg.

Letter from Gen. Fremont's Assistant Quartermaster.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—E. M. Davis, Assistant Quartermaster under Fremont, writes a letter to Adjutant General Thomas, under date of Philadelphia, yesterday, correcting some errors in reference to himself, published in the Latter's report to Secretary Cameron. He says Fremont did not give him any contract for blankets, or anything else. He purchased blankets in his official capacity, and denies that they were condemned as rotten and worthless. When the report of the Board reached Fremont he expressed great displeasure, and required the blankets to be returned. The only fault that could be found with his purchase was economy practiced in making it, the average price being $1 40 for each blanket. They were part cotton. He can only account for the misstatements from the fact that when Gen. Thomas was in St. Louis, Davis was confined to his bed, and that Gen. Thomas presumed from the reports that he heard, that he had the whole truth before him in reference to these affairs.

From Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, Oct. 31.—The tug Ethan Allen, of the great expedition, returned to Hampton Roads this morning in consequence of the rough weather on the coast below. She brings no particulars of importance respecting the expediti n.

A flag of truce went up to Norfolk to-day with twenty of the prisoners, who were released some time since at Fort Lafayette.

The barks Gosheck and Armada have just returned from a cruise. The latter took four prizes—three English and one American—the names of which have already been furnished.

The United States frigate Roanoke is hourly expected from the South.

Hotels.

ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL,

Broadway, New York.

Board Reduced to $2 per Day.

SINCE THE OPENING of this vast and commodious Hotel, in 1854, it has been the single endeavor of the proprietors to make it the most complete, convenient and comfortable home for the citizen and stranger on this side of the Atlantic.

And whatever has seemed likely to administer to the comfort of its guests they have endeavored, without regard to cost, to provide, and to combine all the elements of intellectual and social enjoyment which modern art has invented, and modern taste approved; and the patronage which it has commanded during the past six years is a gratifying proof that their efforts have been appreciated.

To meet the exigencies of the times, when all are required to practice the most rigid economy, the undersigned have at the same time abating none of the luxuries with which their table has hitherto been supplied.
