LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1, 1861.

The Naval Expedition.

It is understood that the Naval Expedition is not directly aimed at cities on or near the Southern coast. The troops will land at thinly settled places, with spacious harbors, and will at once open cotton ports and establish a basis of operation for additional forces now mustering. Those who enlist in regiments which are to be attached to the command of General Burnside or of General Butler, will have an excellent opportunity to see active service in a genial climate.

Indications of an Advance of the Rebels.

A contraband who came within the lines of Gen. Hancock, to-day, reports that he left Manassas Junction on Wednesday night; that the rebels have extensive fortifications at Centreville, and an army of 60,000, and that their camps extend within two miles of Fairfax Court House. At Manassas they have about 10,000 troops.

The outer pickets of Gen. McCall's division were driven in last night, indicating an advance of the rebel army. A large party was sent out to meet them, when they retreated. Their object was evidently to capture the men on the outposts.

Signal lights were plainly visible last night in the direction of Leesburg, and also toward Centreville.

Position of the Enemy.

A negro, brought to Gen. Porter's headquarters to-day, states that when he left Centreville, on Tuesday, the Rebel force there was 50,000 strong, and that two miles beyond Fairfax, Bonham's command was stationed. The railroad from Fairfax to Manassas is still in operation.

The Army To-day.

General McClellan with his staff and bodyguard, now increased to two hundred, went over the river to-day to attend a review and drill of a large division of the army on Hall's Hill. The army is now, (noon,) as the telegraph intimates, drilling with blank cartridge along the lines.

General McClellan is closely inspecting the clothing of the soldiers, and causing each regiment, company, and man to be provided with comfortable winter shirts.

Movements of the Enemy.

General McClellan has, through means not made public, informed himself very minutely of the movements of the enemy, the number and strength of their batteries at and in the vicinity of Manassas Junction, the number of guns they have mounted, and the strength of their army. He is guided in his operations by a full knowledge of all their important movements.

Paying off the Army.

The Paymasters have commenced their labors, and to-day thousands of soldiers will be paid off in full up to this date. Paymasters are prompt excepting where delays are caused by errors in the pay-rolls sent in from the regiments.

Pensions.

Jesse Dickey, of Johnson's company, Illinois Militia, who lost an arm, is granted $8; and Dennis Sullivan, 1st Kansas, wound in the left arm, $4.

A Suspicious South Carolina Lady.

The South Carolina lady who has been in Washington several weeks, endeavoring to sell the Government the code of signals adopted by the rebels, has not succeeded. The Government does not seem disposed to invest $100,000 for the aforesaid signals, nor does the lady find ready access to our camps. Unchartable suspicions are afloat that the lady has not entirely lost all sympathy with the political fortunes of her native State.

Passes to go South.

The number of persons applying for passes to go South has so much increased of late as to give rise to inquiry as to the cause. It seems that there are secession emissaries and lawyers in several of the Northern cities, who are advising their clients to comply with the call of Jeff. Davis, requiring all Southern property holders to come South, under penalty of sequestration if they refuse. It is well known that all who go South, in accordance with this advice, are compelled to swear allegiance to the Confederate States, and to contribute a part of their property for the support of the rebellion—thus rendering the whole of it liable to confiscation by the United States Government. As to the threat of sequestration by the insurrectionists, it is unnecessary to say that all property so taken will be restored to its owners by the United States Government on the re-establishment of its authority. Those who are thus playing upon the fears of the timid and weak for profit, or for a criminal purpose, will not escape the attention of the Government.

The Remains of Gen. Baker.

The following telegram was received to-day by the President:

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1861.

To ABRAHAM LINCOLN: California will send for the remains of Col. Baker.

ROBERT J. STEVENS.
W. B. TAZWELL.

Wives Camping Out.

The wives of Gen. Richardson and Lieut. Poe are camping out with their husbands a mile beyond Alexandria.

Quebec Consulate.

A. D. Russell, of New York, has been appointed to fill a new consulate at Quebec; salary $1,500; created under the act of last Congress.

Appointment of Mr. Lesley as Consul at Nice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—James Lesley, Jr., the present chief clerk of the War Department, finding that the labors of his position were greatly affecting his health, has concluded to retire from active duties for the present.

Mr. Lesley has been appointed Consul at Nice, which has been raised to a salaried consulate under the recent act of Congress, having become, from its position on the frontier of France and Italy, a place of much importance.

Brigade Quartermasters.

The following additional brigade quartermasters have been appointed:

H. Jeffries, Philadelphia; James Hemphill, Lock Haven, Pa.; Frank E. Foster, D. W. Swiggart, F. W. Hunt, and Charles T. Wing, of Ohio; Alexander Sympson, J. Lockwood Brown, and Wm. Painter, of Illinois (the last belongs to the Sturgis Rifles); W. H. Owen, of Maine, for Gen. O. O. Howard; Charles B. Wegner, George W. Lee, Michigan; H. M. Whittlesey, Mas Paul Engle, Penn. P. Bruen.

Brigade Commissaries.—J. B. Salisbury, Jersey City, N. J; M. J. Green, N. Y., Gen. Peck; Wm. B. Lebo, Pa.; J. S. Rounsfon, Ohio; Wm. Wilson, Indianapolis, Ind.; Ira B. Gibbs, for Gen. Rosecrans; A. McCann, for Gen. Paine; J. Mackenzie, Ky.; E. R. Goodrich, for Gen. Burnside; and W. J. Butler, brother of Gen. Butler, for Gen. Butler.

A Contraband from Bull Run.

A negro who escaped from Bull Run the day previous, came within our lines at Vienna yesterday. The fellow ran away from his master, an officer in a South Carolina regiment, to avoid a flogging. He states that there are fifty thousand soldiers within two miles of Fairfax Court House, and that there are as many thousand more behind them. The advance force out near Fairfax Court House is commanded by Bonham, of South Carolina. The negro also says that the cars are running on the railroad from Fairfax Station to Manassas Junction, and that the rails have not been torn up, as reported.

A Vienna Resident Arrested.

A man named Dr. Loyd, a resident of Vienna, was arrested yesterday afternoon by a squad of men attached to Gen. Hancock's command, on suspicion of furnishing aid and comfort to the enemy. Loyd has been allowed to pass through our lines with impunity for some time past, but certain circumstances have lately transpired which warranted his arrest on the above-named charge. He was sent to Washington.

The Ball's Bluff Affair.

It is said that General McClellan has issued an order to the various regiments under his command exonerating General Stone from the responsibility in the Ball's Bluff affair, and attributing the disaster to the indiscretion of a subordinate officer whose name is not mentioned.

From the Lower Potomac.

The intelligence received this morning from the lower Potomac represents that all is quiet, though the rebels are still making stronger their batteries on the Virginia side. A report prevailed at an early hour this morning that the rebel steamboat Page had succeeded in running the blockade of our vessels, and was again safely anchored in Acquia Creek, but it was flatly contradicted at the navy-yard at noon. It is reported that the rebels purposely allow some of the oyster boats to run up, as they give them facilities to send spies to Washington! From certain matters which have been developed during the past few days, there is no doubt but that there is some truth in this.

The steamer Resolute came up to the yard yesterday afternoon, and went down to the flotilla again in an hour or two.

The Pussey came up late last night and left the yard again early this morning. Both steamers report affairs unchanged down the river.

The rebel steamer George Page is still cooped up in Quantico creek, but has worked herself sufficiently far in to be out of sight from the Maryland side.

The work on our batteries is progressing finely, and a number of guns and mortars have been mounted.

A few oyster pungies run the blockade now and then, and yesterday a schooner is said to have passed down.

Experimental firing with a ten-inch mortar was made at the Navy Yard, this morning, with a charge of three pounds of powder and an elevation of forty-five degrees. A shell, not charged, weighing one hundred and two pounds, was projected to a distance of 1,400 yards, the time of flight being about seventeen seconds. The firing demonstrated considerable accuracy may be attained with the old-fashioned mortar, and that at a distance of from 1,000 to 2,500 yards they are very effective weapons.

The Pennsylvania Reserves.

Gen. McCall's division of Pennsylvania Reserves are at their old quarters beyond Langley's Church. The troops are in a fine condition, and extremely healthy.

Another Report about Fremont.

There seems to be little doubt that nearly a week ago a special messenger left Washington with a letter to Gen. Fremont ordering him to transfer his command to Gen. Hunter until a successor shall be specially designated.

The Pacific Telegraph.

Hiram Sibley, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and contractor with the government for building the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, has notified it of the completion of the line.

He is here to execute the supplemental contract which provides a compensation of $40,000 a year for ten years for government services.

News and Gossip.

There is no indication of a forward movement of the army for some days. Preparations are still going forward on an immense scale, and before the tenth of this month they will all be thoroughly completed.

The rebels are again showing themselves on the outer line of our pickets. Yesterday afternoon about 2,000 of rebel cavalry were discovered by a reconnoitering party within four miles of our lines. Yet still this shows that the bulk of the rebel forces have fallen back to what they consider an impregnable position, Manassas Junction and Centreville.

These are their strongholds between here and Richmond, but before Christmas-day they will not only be occupied by our troops, but the headquarters of our advance guard will be in the city of Richmond.

The Treasury Department is about to issue a notice for the redemption of the old twelve-per-cent. two-years notes issued by the last Administration.

All Quiet Along the Lines.

Your correspondent made the entire circuit of army lines from Lewinsville to Alexandria, to-day. Everything was quiet, and the troops were felling trees for fuel, apparently preparing for cold weather.

Removals in the Treasury Department.

There was a number of clerks removed in the Treasury Department to-day.

Gen. Fremont's Inaccessibility.

Mr. Russell, in his last letter to the Times which has been republished in this country, refers to the charge against Fremont, of inaccessibility, as follows:

"As to inaccessibility, Lord help the man who refuses to see everybody who thinks he would like to see him, out in this part of the world! In not a General a public servant, the property of citizen A, who wants to see if the General's hair is gray, or only grizzled? Is he not the property of citizen B, who wants to get a contract for gunboats made of India-rubber, or of B, who has a letter to him, and wants a situation on the General's staff, either as Aide-de-camp or coachman? For he, too, each citizen represents the whole Republic, and is very angry if he cannot monopolise all the time of his servant. Perhaps Gen. Fremont finds he cannot do his work and attend to all comers on these terms. Never shall I forget what I saw Mr. Chase go through one fine day in his bureau, soon after my arrival at Washington. The places in his gift were in the course of distribution, and on calling on him I found the passages of the treasury leading to his department blocked up by an eager crowd of all sorts and conditions of men, who were continually sending in cards or slips of paper by the messengers at the doors. I was admitted, as Mr. Chase had been good enough to invite me to call upon him, and, accordingly, when the doors were thrown open I had an opportunity of witnessing the eager rush, the solicitations, the pressure and obstinacy of the army of applicants who besieged the good-humored but resolute, sagacious, and unbending Minister. To shake hands warmly with every man of them, from the banker who had come to offer millions, to the rough dweller on distant seashores who aspired to the care of a lighthouse, to be civil and sympathising with every man, to listen with both ears, to remember all faces, and all names, and all handwritings, and all recommendees—these are no easy matters, but I am bound to say Mr. Chase did them courteously and well, although he was assisted to some extent by an apt Secretary, who headed off the hungriest and most tenacious of the pack, and carried them off one by one into some back room, as a sphinx drives off a fly to the inner darkness. This, however, is part of the duty of a public man in America, and any departure from it is certain to be resented, and to make one unpopular."

The Navy.

The eight sloops of war and the twenty-three gun-boats ordered by the Navy Department about four months ago, are nearly all finished. Four of the sloops have been launched, and two more will be ready for launching in about two weeks. Their names are the Oneida, building at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and the Juniata, building at Philadelphia. Of the twenty-three gunboats, only six remain to be launched, and they will probably be afloat in the course of next week.

The government continues to purchase vessels, to be turned into gun-boats, or to be used as store and supply ships. The number already purchased cannot be less than one hundred and forty. These vessels are generally altered at private ship yards, and then go to the nearest navy yard to receive their armament and be put into commission. Volunteer lieutenants, who have previously served in the navy, and officers of the merchant service, examined by the proper authorities and appointed to the navy, are in command of most of these boats.

In connection with this subject it may not be uninteresting to state that the British Government have fifty-four vessels of war under construction at the present time. Their armament will be in the aggregate 1,254 guns.—New York Post.

REPORTED DEATH OF GEN. HOUSTON.—The Louisville Courier of the 19th has a report of the death of the Ex Governor of Texas, which is said to have occurred on the 6th ult. A day, states that he was still alive, with some hopes entertained of his recovery.

CHURCH OPPOSITION TO SLAVERY.—Writers are now endeavoring to prove that the Roman Catholic Church is now, and has always been, opposed to chattel slavery. It is high time that all Christian churches should endeavor to relieve themselves from the odium of connection with slavery.
