DO YOU WANT WHISKERS? DO YOU WANT A MUSTACHE? DO YOU WANT A MUSTACHE? BELLINGHAM'S CELEBRATED STIMULATING ONGUENT For the Whiskers and Hair.

The subscribers take pleasure in announcing to the Citizens of the United States, that they have obtained the Agency for, and are now enabled to offer to the American public, the above justly celebrated and world renowned article.

THE STIMULATING ONGUENT is prepared by Dr. G. P. BELLINGHAM, an eminent physician of London, and is warranted to bring out a thick set of in from three to six weeks! This article is the only one of the kind used by the French, and in London and Paris it is in universal use.

It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if by magic upon the hair roots, arousing a dormant growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp, it will cure BALDNESS, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will check red or sandy hair, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth and flexible. The "ONGUENT" is self-dispensing, and orders by gentlemen's toilets, and after one week's use they would not for any consideration be without it.

The subscribers are the only Agents for the article in the United States, to whom all orders must be addressed.

Price One Dollar a box, for sale by all Druggists and Dealers. A box of the "Onguent," (warranted to have the desired effect,) will be sent to any who desire it, by mail (direct) securely packed, on receipt of price and postage, $1. Apply to our address:

PITTSBURGH:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 20, 1861.

The Anti-Traitors—Mason and Slidell.

The eastern press is occupied with discussions and narratives in relation to this important event. The tone is generally jubilant. To have caught and caged such pestilent traitors has caused great rejoicing. Capt. WILKES is the hero of the hour, and happily the prevailing opinion is that he has violated no international law. We select, from the various narratives of the transaction, the following:

The Navy Department prefers not to publish, at present, the official reports made by the officers of the war steamer San Jacinto, in reference to the capture of Mason and Slidell. The general facts are these: Commander Wilkes, evidently a man of "grit," was sent out to bring home the San Jacinto from the coast of Africa; on his return he touched at Cienfuegos, where he ascertained that Mason and Slidell had run the blockade, and were en route to Europe, probably by the way of Cuba. He sailed up and went into port at Havana. There he ascertained that the confederate commissioners had been gone but a few hours, having sailed in the British mail steamship Trent, the evening before, (7th November.) He immediately put to sea, directing his course so as to intercept the vessel. When about forty miles off Matanzas, in the old Bahama Channel, the Trent hove in sight, and the two vessels were soon within hailing distance. Commodore Wilkes sent a shot across the bows of the Trent. To this no attention was paid, when another was directed near the bow. This brought the steamer to. Lieutenant Fairfax, to whom both of the Confederate passengers were personally known, was sent on board in a boat, supported with two more boats, filled with marines. Lieutenant Fairfax went on deck and called for Messrs. Mason and Slidell, who soon appeared. Lieutenant Fairfax politely informed them of the object of his mission, and asked them to go on board his boat. To this they objected, Mason remarking that they had paid their passage to Europe, to the British Consul at Havana. They acted as agent for the mail steamship line, and he would not leave without force. Lieutenant Fairfax, pointing to his marines drawn up on the decks of the British steamer, said: "You see, sir, I have the force, if that is what you require." "Then you must use it," replied Mason. With this Lieutenant Fairfax placed his hand upon the Senator's shoulder and pressed him to the gangway. At the junctures the passengers rushed forward, somewhat excited, and attempted to interfere. The marines immediately showed their bayonets, and Mason consented to the detaining of Lieutenant Fairfax, asking that he might be permitted to make his protest in writing. Just then a fine specimen of an Englishman rushed on deck in military or naval uniform, (the officer in command of the mails, probably,) and demanded why passengers on board that ship were molested. Lieut. Fairfax informed him that he had stated to Capt. Moir, of the packet, why he arrested Messrs. Mason and Slidell, with their Secretaries, Eustis and McFarland, went into the boats of the San Jacinto. Com. Wilkes sent a message to the effect that his boat could not for any consideration be without it.

But as far as the British Government is concerned, the question was settled by the Queen's Proclamation, published last May, in relation to the conduct of British subjects and ships, in this very war, as will be seen by the following extract:

"And we do hereby warn all our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this our royal proclamation and of our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of their duty as subjects of a neutral sovereign in said contest, or in violation of the commands of the law of nations in that behalf, as for example and more especially by entering into the military service of either of the contending parties, * * * or by carrying officers, soldiers, dispatches, arms, military stores or materials, or any article or articles contraband of war, according to the law or modern usages of nations, for the use or service of either of the contending parties—all persons so offending will incur, and be liable to the several penalties and penal consequences by the said statutes, or by the law of nations in that behalf imposed or denounced. And we do hereby declare that all our subjects and persons entitled to our protection who may misconduct themselves in the premises will do so at their peril, and of their own wrong, and that they will in no wise obtain any protection from us against any liabilities or penal consequences, but will, on the contrary, incur our high displeasure by such misconduct.

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17, 1861.

The Rebel Army Opposite.

It is not believed at headquarters that any considerable number of troops have been withdrawn from the rebel army opposite Washington, in consequence of the invasion of South Carolina. Beauregard has not gone to Charleston, as reported. The rumor, however, which imputes to him an inclination to resign unless a more vigorous policy be adopted in the conduct of the war, is not without foundation.

Will There be a Forward Movement?

I see no indication of a forward movement here beyond what may be necessary to open the Potomac. This undoubtedly will be done, but there will be no attack on Centreville, unless the enemy is weak in men. All the best troops are kept here, the more undisciplined regiments, so far, comprising the expeditionary force. This looks as though work, and hot work, was expected here before the winter sets in. Our army is now in a splendid state of discipline, and it would amaze the friends of the soldiers who saw them leave home to witness their evolutions now. The officers are also incessantly drilled. Notwithstanding the foolish jealously between the regulars and volunteers, the distinction in point of discipline and efficiency will be lost before six months are over. The volunteers who have been under drill for six months, will be found much more reliable in battle than the regulars who have been recruited in less time.

Ex-Secretary Toucey in Washington.

Isaac Toucey, Secretary of the Navy during James Buchanan's entire Administration, has come Washington city and the Administration of Abraham Lincoln the honor of paying a visit to both. Doubtless he is ready to communicate many important secrets, but we regret he is a little too late. At any rate, he will have the gratification to know and to see that that navy which he sent to every distant part of the world, as if for the purpose of helping the Secessionists, has been recalled to the waters of the United States, and is now employing its tremendous energies in favor of the flag and the Government he so readily and so shamelessly assisted to betray.

Carrying the War into the South.

The War Department is besieged, by the colonels of the one hundred and fifty regiments located in and about this capital for permission to take their commands to South Carolina. The stories of the Italian climate and delicious fruits of Beaufort, narrated by those who have described the regions now in possession of the forces of the United States, have greatly sharpened the appetites of our soldiers, and they care nothing, if there are to be winter quarters anywhere, that they should spend December and January in the State of Calhoun, Rhett, Keitt, Orr, and Aiken.

Senator Gwin and Party Consigned.

Messrs. Gwin, Benham and Briat were ordered to-day to Fort Lafayette, under John Kennedy's auspices.

Economy of the Troops.

The Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Regiment, Col. McLean, was paid off by Major Sallade, a day or two since, and out of $30,000 received, the boys have sent home over $20,000. Most of the amount to their families is in small amounts of their monthly pay, with the exception of a dollar and the odd change. This speaks well for the sobriety and thoughtful economy of our volunteers.

Soldiers Calling for Their Families.

Major King, who has been paying off the 20th Massachusetts Regiment, reports that of the $30,000 volunteered, $19,000 were sent home to their families. Two hundred and eighty men of the regiment have been missing since the Ball's Bluff affair.

Soldiers' Letters.

The soldiers of Gen. Banks' division, in September and October, sent by mail from headquarters $8,000 letters.

Appointments.

The President has appointed Lieut. Henry A. Wise, of the Navy, Acting Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography in the Navy Department, during the temporary absence of Capt. A. A. Harwood.

The Secretary of the Treasury has made the following [illegible] of March last: Lithographic [illegible] liable on entry, [illegible] per centum, as printed [illegible] not made on frames, but hung loose, in front, with buttons and sewed on [illegible] pockets, were properly charged with a duty at the rate of twelve cents per pound, and in addition, twenty-five per centum. The decision of the collector at Boston, assessing a duty of forty cents per pound, in addition to the 25 per centum, on similar goods, was reversed by the Secretary.

Trade with Beaufort, S. C.

It is understood that the Government will, in the course of a few days, make arrangements to open trade with Beaufort, S. C. It is reported that four forces there have captured fifteen hundred bales of cotton. It is not stated whether it will be sent North.

Review at Annapolis.

The Secretary and Assistant Secretary of War, the Secretary and Assistant Secretary of State, Gov. Andrew, and Quartermaster Van Vliet, reviewed to-day, at Annapolis, the 28th, 26th, and 27th Massachusetts Regiments, and the 8th and 10th Connecticut, and the 51st New York. The appearance and drill of the troops was excellent.

The Burnside Expedition.

The preparations for the embarkment of the expedition of Gen. Burnside are going on quietly and rapidly. It is expected that four of the New Jersey Regiments, with Captain Knapp's Pennsylvania Battery, will join the expedition.

Issues of Treasury Notes.

Immediately after the Secretary of the Treasury determined to issue three years bonds, subscriptions therefor began to be made. The engraving and printing (delayed for more than two weeks in consequence of the addition of coupons) were not completed until the 1st of October. The number of subscribers had in the mean time increased to tens of thousands who were obliged to wait their turn in the issues. A want of knowledge of this vast accumulation caused some to demur at the delay. It was regretted, but was a spur to extra exertion. This evening the
