old controversy is to be renewed by discus-sion, the manner of it should be amended. The Journal's long article of more than a column, contains not one word of rational argument. It assumes it to be the purpose of the President' to stimulate Congress into the passage of a law sanctioning the views of Secretary Cameron as to the treatment of slayes, and then sounding the alarm and declaring that "the extreme measures contemplated must be prevented, or the XA-TION IS SWALLOWED UP,", prescribes three modes of prevention, as follows:

"1. The prosperity of our arms, and of our cause generally, in a degree that will put all pretexts whatever for a resort to extreme measures out of the question. "2. The awakening of the conservative ned loyaly of the sentiment and enlightened loyaly of the country, and the bringing of both to beau on the President with a force which he car not, as an honest and rational man, with-

" 3. The resolution of the Commander-in-Chief in the field, and of his principal associates in command, to surrender their swords rather than link them with the in-amy of such measures." The efficacy of the first mode of preven-tion is admitted; the "extreme measures," ion is admitted; the "extreme measures," in such a contingency, would not be "in-dispensable," and therefore could not be adopted, under any construction of the President's language. Let the Journal use its great influence to produce this result by a loyal support of the Government, in-stead of attempting to shake the confidence of the popular heart by reporting and dis-curstor the after-dimer aneches of the M<sup>auve ink,</sup> orting the after-dinner speeches of the Secretaries, and by imputations against the integrity of the President—charging him with designing differently from what DIARIES FOR 1862 his language imports. If this wholesome advice of the Journa. in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war, had been earlier given and acted on, where its influence has always been potent,

After the herculean efforts and the yast expense of life and treasure to create this army, it seems as if something besides camp life should be the lot of brave men, who went to fight and return home as soon as possible. If Manassas is really impregnable; why keep more troops there than e forts for the protection of Washington. If not impregnable, a brave and well appointed army, such as we have on the Potomac, in the hands of an enweile General, might sweep away its desnoms to us, but we defor to any good reason to the country by those who know more about it.
