At Mumfordsville, our troops displayed great bravery and steadiness, and, with the odds against them, drove back the enemy. In Missouri, the strategy displayed was admirable, and the successes of the most important character. There is now more prospect of the rebellion being completed crushed out in those States, than at any time since the commencement of the war. On the Potomac, our Pennsylvania Volunteers have at last met the enemy in a fair stand-up fight, and with about equal numbers, as far as we can ascertain, and have shown that the rebels are no match for them. They were routed, and fied, leaving their guns, arms, blankets, etc., as trophies for our men. We are proud of our Pennsylvania soldiers. They brilliant successes. of the most astounding description, seems to us a depth of depravity disgraceful to human.nature. These things cannot now be regarded as standing upon any ordinary hasis. When the country was prosperous, and in the enjoyment of revenues ar exceeding its wants, the temptation to amass wealth by means of peculation was flo more than what had always existed in public affairs. But at a period when a great crisis in the nation's history demanded all the patrictism of its people, when every body was ready to make almost any sacrifices to restore the Union and crush out treason, this swindling in contracts strikes us as an offence of the most heinous description, and one which described to be exposed as it has been, and to be punished, as, it has not been.
