Knap's Littsburgh Battery. It must be very gratifying to our citizens observe with what credit the officers and men of this splendid battery have acquitted themselves in each of the three skirmishes in From the title alone, as transcribed above, themselves in each of the three skirmishes in which they have recently been engaged. The battery consists of one hundred and eight men, about seventy of whom are Pittsburghers. They have four 10-pounder Parrot guns—the best in the service—and are clothed and equipped in excellent style. The company has been in service three months, and the men are exceedingly well drilled. The horses are not surpassed by any in the service, and they not surpassed by any in the service, and they have been thoroughly trained to the work.

The Mayor's office was converted into a guard house, and squads were sent in all directions to bring in the stragglers. Many amusing scenes were witnessed as the absentees were marched in. Each one had what he regarded a good excuse, and all seemed anxious to ward off any suspicion of an intention to desert. Some were found in beer saloons, taking a fargwell glass, others were picked up on the street, and seyreral were found in stores, making purchases of provisions. isfactory. The teachers employed in this school are industrious, intelligent, and very successful in imparting instruction to others. On Saturday afternoon, the pupils in the principal's department, were examined by Mr. Douthett and Mr. Chamberline. The answers were prompt and generally correct, showing a commendable degree of proficiency. Mr. Douthett, in conclusion, made a stirring appeal to the children and parents in favor of a regular attendance and a more devoted application to their studies, and administered a well-timed rebuke to those parents who feel so little interest in their children's welfare as it is their children's welfare as to absent themselves from these examinations, and hoped that there would be an improvement in the future.
