THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 9, 1862.

The Governor's Message.

We need not direct the attention of our readers to the Governor's Message, which occupies so large a space in our columns this morning. As a matter of course, it will be attentively read and carefully considered throughout—and for this reason, it has seemed to us superfluous to present any summary of it in this place.

We are happy to say that Governor Curtion has made his Message very much what a public document of this nature ought to

A resolution passed the House before the bolidays, requesting the Secretary of War been taken to ascertain who were responsible for the disaster at Ball's Bluff. The resolution was this and nothing more. It proposed no investigations into any future coodings or designs whatever. The resution was handed to the Adjutant General, who presented it to the Commanderin-Chief, Gen. McClellan, who submitted he resolution would not in the future be compatible with the public interests.

Mr. COMELING, on Monday, after a most brilliant speech, offered a preamble reciting the resolution heretofore adopted and the response, concluding with a resoluti the answer to it is neither responsive nor satisfactory to the House, and that the Secretary of War be directed to return a fur-quiry for Congress. Mr. CRITTENDEN, of Kentucky, took the most extraordinary and dangerous ground, that the House had no dangerous ground, that the House had no it is better to have no secrets, and let the distribute to inquire into matters purely adthority to inquire into matters purely whole world know what it is going to do, and and Mr. WICKLIFFE and Mr. MALLORY. of Kentucky, also opposed the resolution. After a spirited debate, Mr. BLAIR, of Missouri, moved that the whole subject be laid on the table. Not agreed to-yeas, 57; nsys, 77. Mr. RICHARDSON offered an embarrassing amendment. We are thus particular in regard to this matter, as it involves a principle of subordination vital to the existence of civil liberty, and to which we shall refer more at successful. These precautions seem at last to have more space. We have resulted in driving General Sigel from ty, and to which we shall refer more at shall now see what answer the Commander-in-Chief will give.

"The Senate of Pennsylva"The Senate of 1862."

On taking the chair, Mr. Hall, after thanking the Senate for the honor done him, made a graceful transition from the personal matter on which he had dwelt for a moment, as the occasion seemed to demand, to the consideration of the "awful and rugged crisis, when, above all personal considerations, the salvation of the supplies should engage all our thoughts."

the revision of the "Commanding General," to wit: Curits.

It this government has not the power of subduing a rebellion, it has not the power of preserving itself. It is now on its great trial: Now is the time for the solution of the grand problem. European monarchists point to this country as the last great examplification of the impossibility of a permanent republic. Do they predicate the sailure of our country on the mere fact that of Virwar exists? What Nation in all history has been exempt from it? Is it pecumagnit republic. Do they predicate the settlers of our country on the mere fact that civil war exists? What Nation in all history has been exempt from it? Is it peculiar to Republics? Then, whence the civil wars that from her earliest history until recent reigns, have time and again ravaged and scourged the British Empire? Why to the same time a friend of the General's brings us this message: "When you see me again it will that England, safely moored in that quiet cove of blest tranquility, a limited monarchy has been frequently torn from her morehing and tossed madils in the assa quiet cove of blest tranquility, a limited monarchy has been frequently torn from her moorings and tossed madly in the seas of revention? If a meanarchy be the symbol of strongth and perpetuity, whence the War of the Roses? Why has the blood of monarche in France so often glutted the savage vengeance of internal factions? Civil var: indeed exists. A war on our part, to put down an unnatural, ungrateful matricidal, Hell-born Rebellion. Long plotward to be a succession of the cause of his resignation. In the latter category, however, the Governor judiciously confines himself chiefly to matters of paramount importance, in view of the duty of the State as a member of the Great Republic, whose existence

The Destination of the Burnside Expedition. It is rumored that the destination of this important expedition is to be changed, in nsequence of the revelations of the traitor ous women at Washington. The New York

World says:

In connection with the rumors respecting the leakage of news from Washington to the rebels, it is stated that the daughter of a high official is one of the guilty parties. It is now well understood from the movements of the rebels, that they were aware of the destination of Gen. Burnside's fleet. The story goes that it was talked of in the family of the official state of the daughter communicated the House of Representatives at Washing ton, on Monday, left us very much in the dark as to what really took place, except the fact that Mr. Coxeling had made a very sloquent speech complaining of Gen.

It is high time that a teirible example was made of some of these traitors, with which Washington is swarming. We question if to inform that body whether any steps had there is another Government in the world that would have suffered rebellion to exist in its very midst, to air itself in the streets and hotels, and to penetrate to the very recesses of the Departments, as has been, and is now the case in Washington. Men live in Washington, walk the streets, penetrate everywhere, who are known to be Secessionists, and who, it is justly presumable, are in communication with the rebel authorities. It is universally beamopinion to the Adjutant General, who in lieved, also, and not without good authority, his turn submitted it to the Secretary of that there are high and low officials, who are War, that in his, the Commander-in-Chief's at heart the friends of secession, and some of opizion, that an inquiry into the subject of these men cannot hide, or do not care to hide their sympathies. Men are still employed who have filled their present positions under Pierco and Buchanan, and whose proclivities are all Southern, while true men from the loyal States are snubbed when they ask for employment Iow long are these things to exist?

If it is impossible to rid Washington o traitors and spies, in the name of an outraged people, let the Capital be removed to some spot where a state secret can be kept, and where ebels are not more thought of than loyal Mr. RICHARDSON, of Illinois, opposed the men. Nearly every attempt, on a scale of any resolution, as not a proper subject of in- extent, to annoy the enemy, has been reveniquiry for Congress.
