Government now would have appeared to us equally uncalled for and absurd. The only circumstance to that ever could have given any degree of importance to Mr. Colfax's unfeasible upon their day, while I was talking with the President, Old Abe said to me, "Lane, how many black men do you want the numerous patent medicines of the day. It is an entirely new discovery, and must not be confiunded with any of the numerous patent medicines of the day. It is an entirely new discovery, and must not be confiunded with any of the numerous patent medicines of the day. himself is, or has been, a newspaper proposed to have thirty-four thousand contrappristor and publisher. But the motives of Mr. Colfax are above suspiction in this wagon-masters. I consider werey one of master. They are unimpeachable. Nay, it is even possible to conceive so loyal a man and so true a patriot as Mr. Colfax, willing to the most signal manner his disinterestedness and noble spirit of self-eacrifice in submitting to the utmost disadvantages in his own business, pro bono publico. But while we make all due acknowledgement to such a man, for the exemplary spirit his action manifests, we must not be misled by him, but must enquire whether in signal man propose to lower him by menial offices, nor work to do but fighting. [A voice in the content of the solder and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale by him, but must enquire whether niggers?"

as my army would number 84,000 I proposed to have thirty-four thousand contrapposed to make the sale of the sale of the surface of the solder and leavely for the sale of the solder and I do not propose to lower him by menial offices, nor compel him to perform the duties of a slave. So, while I elevate the slave by giving him shall so elevate the slave by giving him shall so elevate the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the contral of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting out the owner of shearfling Braziers' and shear and dashers in Merals, tin Platts, all soldiers and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting. [A voice in the sale of the soldier and leavehim no work to do but fighting misled by him, but must enquire whether indeed such a proposition, however generous and disinterested on the part of him that has made it, would, after all, inure to the public benefit. So decidedly were we of opinion that it would not, that we anticipated, as we have said above, what has actually come to pass—that when such a method of retrieval and the said and the such as the said above, what has actually come to pass—that when such a method of retrieval and contributed the said of the said strike every one, except perhaps its author.

Well, even he abandoned his original proposition of compelling newspapers to be sent by mail,—on second thoughts realising more fully the absurdity of attempting to establish such a monopoly in this country.

But his second proposition was only in a superintendents: and governors among them, and pay them wages for their labor. There could be no compellition between black and white labor. He believed, whether the rebels liked it or not, that the blacks at no distant day would have possession of that Gulf country, to which they were acceptables and physically conditioned. He proposed to establish free State governments as he went along, and he could prodegree less objectionable than that which he had thus given up. It was, in fact, but a modification of his plan, leaving out the exclusive prerogative of the Post Office, but in lieu thereof exacting a kind of vexstious "octroi" charge, or "toll," on such newspapers, or printed matter, as might be sent by private express, or similar modes of conveyance. This amended, or modified, proposition lies on the table of the House where it is not at all likely to be disturbed during the remainder of the present

But with the defeat of this proposed return to the long-ago exploded "obstructive policy," as it has been called, of other nations and other ages, we are by no means out of the wood. The "obstructive," or "sisyphean," system of policy, as applied when proposed to Congress, than in this inproposition made, or about to be made, by the Committee of Ways and Means, which is no less dangerous and hardly less barpers, and paper duties—have all been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Surely we here are not going to pick up again from the rubbish of the past the exploded fallacies of other nations and attempt to try them over again. Surely our legislators are too enlightened to think of re-enacting, in this age, laws that are hostile to the spirit of it; or to think of adopting the cast-off abuses of the governments of Europe—as if they could be acclimated here. We shall return to this subject; but meantime we must say that in opposing the meantime we must say that in opposing the imposition of "taxes on knowledge," we by no means oppose the imposition of a tax on any and every description of newspaper property. We claim no exemption-no favor-in regard to newspaper property it ought to be taxed in its full proportion

General Lane at Chicago. General Lane had a most cordial reception from the people of Chicago, on Wednesday. In the Chicago Tribune, of the following morning, we find a report of his speech at the Tremont House, which, for the sake of some interesting statements i contains, we must lay before our readers The General expressed his profound gratitude for the reception and the ardor and enthusiasm manifested. However much he might be delighted, he appreciated the fact that this enthusiasm was not on account of Jim Lane, but the fact that Jim

Lane was the advocate of crushing out this rebellion, so that we should never have The uppermost fact in every loyal man's mind was that this rebellion must be creaked in some way. He knew there was not a loyal man present who was unwilling to lay down his own life and service and Southern Confed to lay down his own life and service and Southern Confed not a loyal man present who was unwilling to lay down his own life, and sacrifice even his own family to accomplish this result. There was no resolution so strong among all true patricts as that, demanding that the resultion must be put down so as to stay down. The curse of siavery has been agitated long enough, and it must now be radically cured. For eight long months, the North has been contending against the rabels, and what have we got to show for life. What results have been accomplished what advantages obtained? For eight long months the Government has been presecuting this war so as to hurt nobody.

For eight long months the Government has been prosecuting this war so as to hurt nobody, it is time some one was hurt. We were willing enough to kill white men in the South, and to allow them to be killed in the North, but we were afraid of committing ascrilege if we touched the sarered negro. [Cries of "that's so."] Yes, afraid to touch the sacred proper who has caused the whole of this trouble. But let me tell you the Government has got over this notion, the people have got over it, and I think I can certify that this crowd have got swrit. [Appleause and cries of "yes, we have."] We have been permitted to discusses all questions human and divine, all questions of society, of morals and religion; to canvass the character of God and the whole of Studenth whole of this transite to discuss of society, of morals and religion; to canvass the character of God and the whole of Studenth whole of this transite to discusse the house, of Hon. After urging the benefit of a vigorous prosecution of the war, the General closed by again thanking the crowd for the handsome reception, and retired to the parlors amid most enthusiastic applause, where he was soon-proposed in more receptations. was soon engaged in more presentations.

Rebel Mail Communications. The Washington Republican of Wednes day has a good story to tell. Carrier pigeons have been superseded by telegraphs, and in this age cannot, we suppose, be had to order in any market—even if no blockade or embargo, interfered with the business arrangements of the "moneychangers" and those "who sold doves." But instead of carrier pigeons, which are not to be had, some veritable Yankee inge- profit by it. to taxation, could hardly have been exan excellent substitute, it appears, particstance it did. There is, however, another tail, wherein the chief excellence of a kite

By this means large numbers of letters and northern newspapers find their way into Virginia, and the communication between the two shores recommunication between the two shores mains constant and uninterrupted."

The Reported Peace Proposition Rumors have been current at Spring field and St. Louis, says the Chicago Tri bune, that propositions of peace have been offered by Jeff Davis to the Administration as well as to England and France. Thes reported propositions are as follows:
