Total..... Accident at Freeport .- Oil Boat Sunk The pleces of the dock and railroad bridge, at Freeport, form a most dangerous obstruc tion to the navigation of the Allegheny river, and several accidents have occurred there of late. On Sunday night, as the tow host Watson was descending under the aqueduct, with four large oil flats in tow, a log of drift wood from one of the piers struck one of the flats and tore out the hind end. To avoid drifting on the piers of the railroad bridge, a few rods below the Watson backed up stream, when the water rushed into the damaged flat and carried out several hundred barrels of oil. The boat swamped, and all the oil floated off Some of it was picked up by the tow boat Thompson, and landed at the wharf the same dotted with floating barrels of oil, but very little of it was secured, as the night was dark. These fair are coal boat bottoms, and are ca-pable of holding four or five hundred barrels each. The oil was shipped at Oil City, but "we did, not hear the name of the owner.

TRUE.—The Pennsylvania Thirteenth says:
"Of all camp vices, profamity is certainly, the worst, and affords the least-prosent gratification to its votaries. It is a beastly habit, affording no gratification to those indusigng in it; inners, indeed, wounding the feelings of others is a gratification's to them. 'A decent respect for the opiniens, of mankind' should impel those habituated to such a vulgar vice
to break themselves of a habit at once immoral and ungentlemanly—and in this, as in other cases, officers seould set an example to the men
under their command."

Oit vs. Gress.—A farmer, residing up the Allegheny river, who has been in the habit of bringing to this market, every winter, a few sacks of geese feathers, came down last week without his annual crop. The merchant to whom he sells his produce inquired of the farmer the cause of the failure, when the latter informed him that his farm is bottom land on the Allegheny and his geese disport in the river, but the oil which covers its surface from the Oil Creek wells utterly rained the crop of feathers, causing them, when plucked, to stick together in a conglomerated mass, rendering them entirely worthless. This is a singular fact, but doubtless true.

Washington.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Special correspondence of the New York papers says that in an interview, on Saturday night, between Gen.

McClellan and the Pittsburgh Committee, sent here to press on Congress the scheme of a National Foundry west of the Alleghenies, the General favored the measure decidedly, as one of public policy.

A movement is making here by the members of Congress from the West and Northwest, headed by Frank Blair and Mr. Arnold, to have Gen. Sigel made a Major General. It will probably be successful.

So vast an army has been marshalled in this district that, no proper arrangements have been made for even a decent interment of those who die in our hospitals. Their bodies have been often hurried to the nearest place of sepulture, where they have been promiscuantly buried. Many relatives and friends have consequently made fruitless visits to the army of the Potomae to receive their deceased friends. This state of things has arrested the attention of Congress, through the exertions of Representative Dawes, and a committee is now charged with the duty of considering the subject of providing a National Cemetery for soldiers, in this neighborhood, where all our fellow citizens who die in the National cause may find a resting place, their graves become matters of record, and leave no doubt about the identity of the individuals. From the general disposition manifested, there seems to be no doubt that an act for the purpose indicated will be passed.

The result of an examination recently by the telegraph interest, is that the number of $1,422,000. Should Congress, in the new tax bill, impose three cents on each message, an income of little over $24,000 would be railed from that acures, or 51% per centam on the aggregate amount of business.

Rolla, Feb. 2.—Reliable information from Lebanon says that Gen. Curtis is now in that place. The number of troops there is constantly increasing. It is doubtless his intention to remain at that place till all his forces arrive, which will be several days yet, as some of them have not started. A considerable number are under orders to march this morning, and probably within two or three days all that are going will have departed. The roads between this place and Lebanon are almost impassible. Fifty tgams are said to be this side of the Gasconade river, waiting for the waters to subside.

There is a rumor, but it is not generally believed, that Price has recently been reinforced by 12,000 confederate troops from Arkanss, and is preparing to give our army a hard fight.
