TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 18, 1862. The battle on the Cumberland was prothousands of families, but a great cause that an andeavor will be made to improve has been sustained, and our National honor their swiftness as sea-going vessels. hesitation or fellering among our brave soldiers. A spirit of emulation is now strong which will carry us to victory on every field. We have felt the enemy, section of the depredations of the Samter, show have found in putting a stop, to the depredations of the Samter, shows how dangerous a steam vessel is, when on a cruise of depredations on the disparage the rebels. They fight well, for so bad we cause. But they are not equal to the spldiers of the loyal States, now that for man, let alone five to one. How can be found the latter understand their work, even man of or man, let alone five to one. How can their leaders, then, hope for success, when their leaders, then, hope for success, when must be convinced by this time that our Covernment is in terrible earnest, and that with us in such a gigantic struggle. We do not look, however, for any immediate submission. Defeat is the rain of the leaders and pillars of the rebellion, and as long as they can keep an army in the field they will struggle on, hoping for aid from abroad. We hope our Government will hasten to put them out of their misery. Empucination by the Rebels.

it is physically impossible for them to cope

The New York Herald says that the offer of the Confederate Government, through Mason and Slidell, "make free in Secessi every child born therein, the ofispring of "a slave mother, after the date of the re-"cognition by England of our so-called lerate States' as an independen Power, is positively sublime. It is "sweeping proposition of emancipation, but upon a plan so gradual that the present Southern generation would not feel it." If it is a fact that this offer has been made in good faith, it is the most stirring and significant event which has taken place during the last eventful year. If the people of the Southern States agree to it, it will give the strongest possible evidence of their desire for separation, and cannot but command our admiration. While we cannot agree in any event to a separation, we will gladly agree to their scheme of emancipation, and settle our difficulties on that basis, hoping that they will soon see their way to do justice to those now in slavery. The hope of wiping off this stain, even in a generation, would be truly a matter of rejoicing.

But, if the rebels will consent to sacrific slavery to secure success, ought not our government do as much to preserve the Union, and to render us a united and harmonlous people hereafter. If the rebels think that the sacrifice of their favorite in

We may safely say, how-ever, that they seem to be characterized by ever, that may seem to be characterised by largestly and energy on the part of the Gener-lab commanding, and that they look to the concentration of a force perfectly overwhelm-ing upon the weak point of the enemy." It is the triumphing move of military genius to concentrate, in one overwhelming mass, all the forces we have available, and watching when the opportune moment arrives, precipitate them on the weakest point of the enemy. If Gen. from Hilton Head to attack Savannah, and they are so greatly outnumbered. They had not only succeeded in cutting off all communication between Fort Pulaski and Savannah but the forces have destroyed the water pipes leading to the city, and supplying it with water. If that place has fallen, Charleston will soon follow. In fact, it is possible that the next arrivel will bring intelligence of active movements against that city. At last accounts, twelve regiments were under marching orders inland to the railroad, and another from Edisto Island, both, intended for Charleston. Both of these cities are probably now in our power.

Saturday the Southern Confederacy is to be officially inaugurated by a regular Govrated as the first President. We anticipate a rather sombre time. It will be more like a death than a birth. The poor Confeder ate bantling is so rickety that it will hard ly survive its baptism three months. Its dfathers must be already ashamed of their hantling, and are no doubt looking out for some mode of escape from their un pleasant dilemma.

THIEF, TRAITOR, COWARD.—The news among mankind. The poor wretch had not the grace to meet an honorable death at the head of his troops, but true to his instincts, tole away in the deadness of the night, and proved himself a double traitor, and an arrant coward! If there is any lower depths of infamy, he will surely find it out.

YESTERDAY afternoon our pickets, near Mount Verron, saw two men leave the Vir-ginis shore and go on board of a small sloop which was anchored in the stream. The fact was reported to the officer of the stitutions is not too high a price to pay for independence, shall we think it too sacred to be offered up on the altar of National honor and future National poace and union?

We feel the utmost confidence that the gallant army now investing the fort will never let this valuable price slip through their fingers. The mortan boats most probably arrived there on Sunday the 16th, when the attack from the river side would doubtless be renewed. There is a possibility of an attempt being made to raise the siege, by reinforcements by railroad from the sarmy of Bowling Green. In that case the enemy would have to meet our men in the open field, where we feel confident of our superifield, where we feel sure this paper goes to press we may have the joyful intelligence of another glorious victory; but if not so soon as that, we feel sure the victory will be ours.

Laves.—Dispatches just arrived, show that the rebels are concentrating their forces at Bort Donelson, or its neighborhood, while our army is being re-inforced by way of the Cumberland. Gen. Burkt, in person, is following hard after the rebels, who have evacuated Bowling Green. The great battle of the comtinent may come off in that region, if the Fort holds out until succors arrive. But that ex-member is now a Brigadier, with a command on the Lower Potomac, and we know there is no rule, exceedingly proper in itself, more rigidly enforced than that officers who absent themselves from their posts and haunt Washington, expose themselves to a forfeiture of their commissions. What the public palpitates to know, then, is whether this Sickles, the friend and counselor of Wikoff, is the nominal commander of that costly body, the Excelsion Brigade' and, if so, whether the country is in any danger of loging his inestimable services, through his unfortunate dwotton to Wikoff and other attractions of Washington society.
