The engines were promptly on the ground, and it was believed by many that the entire works would be destroyed. The people in the issuediate neighborhood removed their furnitire, and prepared for a general configgration—but they were happily disappointed. This refluery seems to have been built upon correct principles; and those engaged is the business should make a note of title fact.

Among the troops which passed through this city on Tuesday night and Wednesday, to man the gunboats in the expedition agains to man the gunous in the experiment against Columbus, were a number of Pennsylvaniani including several Pittsburghers, from the Thirteenth regiment, Col. Loadon. At would not be surprising if the cost of fighting the city could be reduced 33 per cent. In this way, and the invention might even be found applicable for the house as well as street illumination. It is in fact a mode of burning oil without wicks, and probably many kinds of oil can be burned in this way which cannot probably be burned with wicks."

Attempt to Burn the Penitentiary Stable. Last night a most diabolical sattempt was nade to destroy the stable attached to the Western Penitentiary, in which were a span of splendid horses, two fine cows, carriages, and the contract of the short o harness, etc., the property of Capt. John Bir-mingham, Warden of the Prison. The stable was entered by elimbing the fence or gate on Webster street, and it seems that the first thing which caught the attention of the incen-
